'Nationwide' public hearing held here

Let cities regulate railroad noise, official urges U.S.

by ANNE SLAVICK

Regulating railroad noise is "an essential local power" which must be left to cities rather than being preempted by the federal government, Des Plaines Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi Wednesday urged officials of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Federal regulations being proposed by the EPA to set noise levels from locomotives and railroad cars would "dissipate and emasculate local power" not only for home rule communities but for all cities and villages, he said.

He urged the government to strengthen federal noise limit proposals to match the 55 decibel reading in Des Plaines' ordinance if preemption of stricter local ordinances must be a part of the federal rules. He expressed concern that the success Des Plaines has had in getting mufflers and operational changes from the Chicago and North Western Ry. could be lost if the new federal rules go into effect as proposed.

DiLeonardi's statements brought protests from one EPA official who said he interpreted the proposed rule as allowing local noise control ordinances, but banning the city from requiring the railroad to install mufflers on locomotives. The official's interpretation left participants at the informal hearing shaking their heads in bewilderment over the varied interpretations of the proposed regulations.

ALVIN MEYER, deputy assistant administrator for noise control programs of the EPA, said he believed cities and villages could still regulate train noise by zoning or by such methods as requiring installation of noise barriers along rights-of-way or regulating the practice

Doubt if noise problem solved

While recent noise readings of locomotives stored in a Chicago and North Western Ry. train yard in Des Plaines are within the limits of the city noise ordinance, spokesmen for both the city and the railroad say they are not sure the noise problem is solved.

Marie Schlep, 387 Woodbridge, testified at the federal hearing on noise from trains that the starting of the locomotives in the early morning hours still plagues her family and others in the Cumberland Terrace area of the city.

She said the noise still awakens her neighborhood despite statements by City Environmental Officer Philip Lindahl that the noise from the coach yard at the Wolf Road-Thacker Street intersection has been cut in half.

Lindahl praised the railroad for changing its operating procedures and installing $70 mufflers on the auxiliary engines which provide heat, light and air-conditioning power for the trains.

But City Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said the official city stance is that there is "indeed a continuing serious problem of dealing with railroad noise in Des Plaines, especially from stationary locomotives."

He said the railroad's operating concessions and the mufflers only were provided at the end of the second successful prosecution of the railroad for noise ordinance violations.

Tom Greenland, attorney for C&NW told the federal EPA officials, "I don't know whether we have solved our problem in Des Plaines."

of locomotives sitting all night with their engines idling.

Meyer admitted however that a court test of whether the city was illegally impeding interstate commerce would be one defense the railroad would have against such regulations.

The interchange was part of an all-day session Wednesday in the Des Plaines City Hall, the only public hearing in the nation on the proposed railroad noise regulations.

At the outset of the session, Henry Thomas, EPA acting director of standards and regulations for noise control programs, explained that the proposed rules would essentially set noise standards at status quo levels for properly maintained equipment when the rules go into effect in 10 1/2 months.

A SECOND SET OF regulations would require reductions of locomotive noise at the end of four years to levels of 50 decibels when moving, 87 decibels when stationary and 67 decibels when idling.

Thomas admitted that even those levels of noise are "very loud indeed." Philip Lindahl, Des Plaines environmental officer, said rule of thumb is that noise in the New York subway averages 90 decibels while an average office has a noise level of 50 to 60 decibels.

The majority of the testimony at the hearing criticized the proposed rules as taking into consideration too heavily the costs to railroads while ignoring the public health.

DILEONARDI CALLED a section of the regulations allowing a local area special regulations in unusual situations "lip service" and said that Des Plaines residents could be driven crazy by train noise before federal officials got around to enforcing noise limits. Swift action by local government is the only way to regulate nuisances, he said.

He said the federal rules took no consideration of the effects of noise on people and said "we don't care if it costs the railroads $70 or $7,000 to protect persons from unreasonable use of railroad equipment near their homes."

School boundary decision stands

by BOB GALLAS

A committee appointed to study boundary changes in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 has decided to stick with an original decision that would send Mount Prospect school children into Des Plaines schools, despite strong objections from Des Plaines residents.

The committee, made up of school community council members, board of education members and residents of the affected school areas, met Tuesday to formulate a recommendation to the board at its next regular meeting Monday.

The committee also voted to allow a minority report, representing views and recommendations of Des Plaines residents on the committee, to be presented to the board.

by HARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on ... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Railroads face EPA noise control

Regulating railroad noise is essentially a local power which should not be denied suburbs and towns, argued the attorney for Des Plaines, but a spokesman for the railroads said the Chicago & North Western Ry. is plagued by "government schizophrenia" in coping with a variety of regulations involving noise. The scene was Des Plaines Wednesday where hearings conducted by the federal Environmental Protection Agency tried to unravel the conflicting opinions of local attorneys and railroads regarding the noise created by passing trains. The Des Plaines ordinance calls for train noise levels of 55 decibels at 100 feet, but federal requirements would allow train noise to be 90 decibels when the train is moving, 67 when idling. The New York subway tunnel often registers 90 decibels.

Area claims it's 'sighted'

To the residents of a little cul-de-sac near Palatine Road, it just doesn't seem as if they are part of the village of Arlington Heights. The residents there claim that although the village annexed them two years ago, they're not getting a fair shake in police protection and other village services. The residents claim it took the police 20 minutes to respond to a call last Sunday night. There would even be proof of that on the tapes used by the police to record all their calls, but, oops, unfortunately there's an 18-minute gap in the tape for that particular night.

Dr. Russell heads Bridge

Dr. David R. Russell has been appointed as the new director of The Bridge Youth Service in Palatine. Russell is a doctor of ministry, has been with The Bridge for three years and before that was the founder and director of the "Place for People" youth center in Des Plaines.

Time will slow down

Time flies, but not faster than 15 seconds at once. A new sign ordinance planned for Arlington Heights would say that those time and temperature electric signs could not flash their messages faster than at 15-second intervals.

Lawmakers study ideas about condominium sales

Public hearings aimed at legislation to provide greater protection to buyers of condominium homes will be held in Hoffman Estates Thursday, Aug. 29.

The hearings will be held by a 10-member legislative condominium study committee, which includes Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates; Rep. Leo LaFleur, R-Bloomington; and Rep. Jack Williams, D-Franklin Park.

Scheduled for 7 p.m., the hearing will be at the village hall, 1200 N. Gannon Dr., Hoffman Estates. Persons wishing to testify may contact Totten's office at 882-3851.

THE COMMITTEE members pointed out that condominium housing is the fastest growing form of housing throughout the state and particularly in the suburbs. "It appears that condominium purchasers may not be receiving adequate information on costs, management responsibilities and the true nature of this kind of property ownership," Totten said.

All three suburban legislators said they have received complaints concerning disclosure of financial matters, quality of construction, and management of recreational and other community-owned facilities.

They intend to question condominium developers and hear from residents and management association members.

"THE HEARINGS," said Totten, "will hopefully provide a clearing house for citizen complaints and enable us to draft legislation necessary in the public interest." Legislation governing the construction and sale of the proliferating condominiums has not been revised since its passage in 1963.

Antique toy showing at Kane County fair

The second annual miniature antique toy show is coming to the Kane County Fairgrounds, Rte. 64 and Randall Rd., in St. Charles on Sunday (August 18) from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and children under 12 are free.

THE FIRST TOY show consisted of 110 dealers from 30 states and this year's show is larger. The antique toys include trains, ships, carriages, costumes, furnishings, automobiles, airplanes and other antique toys made between 1850 and 1930.

bers 5 and 2 in combination would be lucky for her and by chance she got a ticket with one three digit number of 352, in the Bonanza game. The other number was 192, which made her eligible for a minimum $1,000 prize. Other prizes are $10,000, $50,000 and $300,000.

Friends who know about the sudden turn of events in the life of the Blancos call Mrs. Blanco "the rich lady." She isn't yet, of course, but she is praying for it to happen. And so, she's sure, are the 37 other qualifiers who hope they receive the $300,000 check from Gov. Daniel Walker at special ceremonies at the state fair today.

Cyprus nearly cut in two by Turk invasion forces

by United Press International

Turkish invasion forces launched an all-out offensive before sunrise Wednesday on Cyprus and by nightfall they were close to slicing the island republic in two. Fighting still raged through the countryside even though a cease-fire confined to Nicosia was taking hold.

The United Nations Security Council met before dawn Wednesday to urge an immediate cease-fire. But the fighting went on throughout the day and the Council then set another meeting last night at the request of the Cyprus delegation.

In London, Archbishop Makarios, whose overthrow as president a month ago set the Cyprus crisis in motion, told a news conference he was "particularly disappointed at the attitude of the United States," for not preventing the offensive by putting diplomatic pressure on Turkey.

In Washington, President Ford met urgently with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger Wednesday on the new outbreak of fighting and telephoned British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to seek his help in ending the crisis.

The offensive brought Greece and Turkey to the brink of war. The administration of President Ford warned that direct fighting between these two Atlantic allies would mean immediate cutoff of arms shipments to both.

Three Austrian members of the United Nations peacekeeping force were killed near Larnaca in a strafing run by American-built F4 Phantom jets of the Turkish air force, a U.N. spokesman said. They were riding in a white-painted vehicle marked "U.N." and flying a blue U.N. flag.

Elsewhere on the island Turkish tank forces based on the northern beachhead around Kyrenia knifed across the eastern edge of the island to within five miles of Famagusta, Cyprus' chief port, and within eight miles of the port of Larnaca.

American-built Turkish Air Force F4 Phantom jets "bombed the hell out of Famagusta" and that port city was all but deserted, a newsman said in a broadcast from the British bases on Cyprus. The jets also bombed the industrial east end of Nicosia into smoking ruins.

The Turkish Cypriot radio broadcast continual warnings to Greek Cypriots to "lay down your arms or the bombing will continue."

The lightning offensive brought Turkey and Greece to the brink of war but meanwhile put the Turks in control of most of the northeastern third of Cyprus. On the face of it, Turkey was quickly achieving by force of arms what it had been unable to secure at the abortive Geneva peace conference: division of the island into Turkish Cypriot and Greek Cypriot enclaves.

The new outbreak threatened to ignite full-scale war between Greece and Turkey and to undermine the vital southern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Greece, calling Turkey's attack a second Pearl Harbor, withdrew its military forces from NATO but said it would remain part of the Atlantic Alliance's political wing. A Greek officer said this meant U.S. nuclear weapons in Greece would have to be removed.

MEMBERS OF 40 Royal Marine Commando units left Norton, from where they flew to Cyprus Wednesday to Plymouth, England, recently for the RAF Base at Brizo reinforce 10,000 troops on the island.

Cyprus leads to stock market slide

Stock prices fell to their lowest level in four years with the fighting on Cyprus helping accelerate the decline. The Dow Jones average gave up 13.87 points to 740.54 while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index slid 1.76 to 76.73. The last time the Dow was lower was Aug. 20, 1970 when it touched 729.60. The price of an average NYSE common share lost 50 cents. Declines led advances 1,163 to 221, among 1,732 issues traded. Volume totaled 11,730,000 shares against 10,140,000 shares traded Tuesday.

Ford signs bill allowing gold ownership

President Gerald Ford yesterday signed into law a bill allowing U.S. citizens to own and deal in gold by the end of this year. Americans have been prohibited from owning gold, other than in the form of coins, jewelry or industrial and artistic uses since 1934, when the nation went off the gold standard. Americans, however, are still barred from investing directly in gold bullion until the end of 1974, or until Ford gives the word.

Impeachment report critical of Nixon

The House Judiciary Committee's impeachment report to be submitted to the House next week sharply accuses former President Richard M. Nixon of violating laws, subverting the Constitution and of "repeated and continuing misuse of the powers of the presidency." It was learned Wednesday night. The report was delayed in part by Nixon's disclosure that he withheld three (June 23, 1972) tapes containing incriminating evidence of his involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

More vice president choices to Ford

With conservatives and liberals campaigning hard for their favorites, members of Congress "voted" for the nation's vice president yesterday and sent President Ford their choices in sealed envelopes. Ford's final decision had been expected this weekend, but the White House said his attention with Cyprus might delay his selection beyond that point.

Bill would allow bigger trucks on road

The Public Works Committees of both the House and Senate pushed yesterday to enact legislation allowing bigger trucks to use the interstate highway system. In the House, the big-truck legislation is attached to a $20.4 billion mass transit aid bill. In the Senate, the committee has completed a separate big truck bill. The House bill would allow wider buses on interstates and sets the first federal limits on truck lengths.

Proxmire says FDA playing 'Vitamin God'

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., yesterday accused the Food and Drug Administration of trying to play God with proposed controls over vitamins. The FDA in turn predicted widespread consumer fraud and quackery unless its new regulations go into effect on the first of next year as scheduled.

Mayors: cities will make sacrifices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Wednesday received a pledge from a delegation of 14 Democratic and Republican mayors to sacrifice some city programs in the fight against inflation in return for a voice in drafting the federal budget.

An hour earlier, Ford told a bipartisan group of governors he supported federal revenue sharing with the states and favors its extension when current legislation expires in 1975.

Mayor Ben Boo, the Republican mayor of Duluth, Minn., told newsmen after the hour-long meeting in the Cabinet Room, "We agreed that the cities had to make some sacrifices and stop asking for money."

If we could have an input to the federal budget, we would be willing to cut back on some of our programs," said Boo.

Mayor Joseph L. Alloto of San Francisco, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and a Democrat, said Ford, who had a strong reputation for being a conservative as a congressman, seemed to be adopting "a broader view" in his capacity as president.

The mayors also told Ford they supported a strong defense budget but they criticized the use of Pentagon funds to stimulate economic activity.

Ford promised the mayors they would always have access to the White House

Ford to visit Japan

President Ford opened his schedule to foreign travel for the first time Wednesday with the announcement he will visit Japan this year. The White House and the Japanese government announced Ford had accepted an invitation which, in effect, replaces the one already accepted by former President Richard Nixon.

and designated Kenneth Cole, executive director of the Domestic Council, as contact man for the time being.

Equally congenial was the governors' meeting. Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, a frequent critic of former President Nixon, told reporters: "The difference in this meeting was the difference between the sun shining and a drab day. This was a wonderful meeting. It was very refreshing."

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments Wednesday:

- Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said it will take from two to five years for the United States to drive inflation down to an acceptable level.

- Kenneth Rush, White House economic coordinator, said President Ford will make no effort to either raise or lower taxes as a means of coping with economic problems.

- Ford, still smarting over a 10 per cent price hike announced last week by General Motors, asked for an "atmosphere of self-sacrifice" by big business.

- I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, urged Congress to impose export controls on agricultural and other products in short supply. He said relief must come soon "if we are to escape economic chaos."

Cheaper beef may not come

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government forecasts of cheaper beef this fall may have to be scrapped if recent rains revive drought-withered ranges and pastures in some major cattle states, Agriculture Department economists said Wednesday.

Although retail meat prices are currently moving up after a spring decline, the agriculture experts predicted lower prices in the fall — despite the dramatic dip reported this week in potential harvests of 1974 livestock feed grains.

Experts said production of grain-fed beef will decline this fall, but they said heavy supplies of grass-fed cattle forced off ranges parched by the summer drought may bring total beef production up and push prices down. But if moisture conditions on cattle ranges and pastures improve, they reported, the short range price forecast may change because many range cattle might then be held back from market for further fattening.

of Pardon and Parole Board; Joe Longo, assistant director, Dept. of Law Enforcement; Gov. Walker, Bob Wilcox, director of Dept. of Insurance, and James Trainer, director, Dept. of Public Aid. Earlier Walker revealed four of his top department aides had resigned.

Five new appointees in Walker shakeup

From Herald news services

In a major shakeup of his cabinet, Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday announced five major executive appointments.

- James L. Trainor, 39, a West Point graduate and former gubernatorial aide in Detroit who has been on Walker's payroll "working on special assignments" since July 1, is new welfare director.

Trainor succeeds Joel Edelman who resigned Tuesday, reportedly over budget disputes with Walker who used public aid money to pay workers in the Governor's Action Office after the legislature refused to fund it.

- Robert B. Wilcox, 52, a Chicago lawyer-businessman and a Better Government Assn. director, is new state insurance director.

Wilcox replaces Fred Mauck, 37, who quit Tuesday to return to his private law practice. Mauck became insurance director after it was learned Walker's first choice, Anthony Angelos, gave Walker a $50,000 campaign "loan" while holding liquor licenses, a violation of state law.

- Ron Stackler, 35, who worked under Mauck in the insurance department, is new director of registration and education.

Stackler replaces Dean Barringer, 43, a friend of House Minority Leader Clyde Chouteau of Anna, who resigned Tuesday to accept a job with University of Illinois.

- Peter Kotsos, 42, assistant director of registration and education, is new chairman of the Pardon and Parole Board, replacing Joe Longo, 42, who is joining the Law Enforcement Department.

- Mary Lee Leahy, 34, who has been a Walker aide since being rejected by the state Senate as director of the Environmental Protection Agency, is new director of children and family services.

Leahy replaces controversial Dr. Jerome Miller, eased down but not out of Walker's administration. Walker said Miller will stay in the agency "to develop new programs dealing with troubled children and young people."

Miller has been the center of controversy in recent weeks over alleged weaknesses and abuses in his practice of putting juvenile offenders in communities rather than big state centers.

Among exposes of mishandling is a campaign by newspaper columnist Mike Royko recounting the experience of a 15-year-old boy allowed to become victimized by a Near North Side homosexual and drug ring.

Attorney General William J. Scott, who has been probing the department of children and family services, welcomed Dr. Miller's departure, saying "The main benefactor will be the children who have been through more suffering than we ever knew."

These latest changes in personnel follow the recent resignations of Howard Fricks, director of business and economic development, and James W. Cook, state energy chief.

All of Walker's new appointments are subject to state Senate confirmation.

Possible Nixon disbarment gets a preliminary look

- The speculation has begun over whether Richard Nixon will be disbarred from the practice of law in California. In fact, the case already is in the hands of an informal, preliminary committee which can state charges to be heard by a formal committee of the state bar association. That's the word from the bar president — Seth M. Hufstetter — who said the group has gotten the legal opinion that Nixon is not immune from disciplinary proceedings, and need not even be convicted by a court if there is a finding of moral turpitude.

- Julie Nixon Eisenhower made it clear Wednesday that she's a private citizen again. Checking in at her job with Curtis Publishing in Indianapolis, she declined all comment to newsmen on those grounds, and gave indication that she'd stay with the job.

- For doing his job, Frank Willis won one of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's achievement awards at a banquet in Philadelphia last night. Willis currently unemployed, was the security guard who discovered the Watergate break-in.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WARREN

- The first husband of the new First Lady says he's still a good friend of both President and Mrs. Gerald Ford, but not so good that he sent congratulations when the new chief executive was sworn in. William C. Warren, now remarried, in the furniture business and maintaining homes in San Francisco and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, also was casual in his recollection of his marriage to the then Betty Bloomer in Grand Rapids, saying it was "back in the late 30s, or maybe it was the early 40s . . . you know how time flies . . . We were married, oh, about seven years."

- Women's lib won a round, sort of, when Alan Greenspan resigned as chairman of the economic consulting firm of Townsend-Greenspan and Co. to head President Ford's Council of Economic Advisers. He was replaced by the opposite sex, but it took three of them — an executive committee of M. Kathryn Elkhoff, Bess Kaplan and Lucille Wu — to take over the reins.

- Charlie Roberts of Eastbourne, England, is claiming a world's record by growing a tomato weighing 4 1/4 pounds. He encouraged its growth by fitting it with stereo headphones and playing it music all day long.

Call to hospital may start alcoholic toward recovery

For many alcoholics, a five-minute talk with Betty Stadler or Nancy Scovill may be their first step toward recovery.

Program specialists at the Lutheran General Hospital Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholism, the two women are the first contact many alcoholics have with the center. Their phone interview with the patient often determines whether the alcoholic continues to seek help.

Program specialists are trained to counsel alcoholics as well as give out information on the various types of programs and facilities available for treatment. As part of their orientation, the women go through the same type of interview and evaluation program as the patients.

"A LOT OF PEOPLE look on alcoholism as a moral problem — we consider it a health problem," Mrs. Stadler said.

Mrs. Scovill notes that many of the callers expect a hostile reaction to their drinking problem.

"We never act horrified or overreact to the callers — we try to come across very casually," she said. "They figure if we're so casual then they can't be as bad as they think."

Many callers phone and seek a "little information for a friend," according to Mrs. Scovill, but later admit they have the problem.

"A lot of people who call in are more or less forced to by their family or employer," she said. "Denial is one of the biggest things to overcome. Admitting he has a drinking problem is a big step for an alcoholic."

The program specialists also try to clear up any misconceptions about the center's program.

"A lot of people have read or heard about the center but they don't know what they're asking for," Mrs. Scovill said. "Most have this terrible fear — we call it the state hospital syndrome — that they'll be locked up in a room and left to shake it out alone."

"PATIENTS HERE come and go as they please — there's a great deal of freedom," she added. "The center is a very calming place — you can't tell the patients from the staff."

While the program specialists are on duty for only 8 hours a day, there is staff available at night to handle any crisis situations. "There is always someone at the nursing stations who can either admit a patient or refer them to other sources," Mrs. Stadler said.

The staff is also equipped to handle inquiries from the families of alcoholics, she said, noting that alcoholism is "definitely a family illness."

"Sometimes it's hard to convince families that they all need help," she said, adding that anyone close to an alcoholic is affected by the illness to some extent.

The program specialists lean heavily on organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), Al-Anon and Alateen, groups devoted to helping the alcoholic and his family find solutions to their problems.

Committee sticks to its school boundary decision

THE PROPOSAL would eventually send an estimated 59 children from Crystal Towers and Forest Cove apartments in Mount Prospect to Brentwood School, 260 W. Dulles, Des Plaines. The proposal also would eventually send an estimated 26 children from Laurel Estates apartments to High Ridge Knolls School, 589 S. Dora James, Des Plaines.

The children would have otherwise gone to already overcrowded John Jay School, 1835 W. Pleasant Tr., Mount Prospect. Since most of the apartment units involved are either under construction or not yet started, only 15 additional children would be sent to the two schools this fall as a result of the change. No children will be transferred from Jay. Children from the three complexes already attending Jay will be allowed to continue.

ALAN ABRAMS, a Des Plaines alderman from the west side of the city, and a member of the boundary committee said he was "distressed" by the committee's decision. Abrams said he thought the group making the study "did not proceed properly" referring to the fact that representatives from High Ridge Knolls and Brentwood schools were not seated on the committee until after a decision on the boundary changes were made.

Original members of the committee had earlier said the two schools were not asked for representatives because it was not anticipated their schools would be affected.

Abrams wants the John Jay children to be sent to Robert Frost School, Mount Prospect, but original members of the committee already had ruled the school out, saying a planned unit development proposed for that area would soon send an estimated additional 60 children to that school.

ABRAMS SAID HE thought the committee's decision to change the boundaries was "premature." "That area will have a population explosion in the next one or two years and all the boundaries are just going to have to be changed all over again," he said.

Abrams said he did not know what recommendation his minority group would present to the Board of Education, but that they would meet this week to discuss the matter.

A board decision on the matter will be made Monday at the 8 p.m. board meeting at the district administration center. The meeting immediately will adjourn to Friendship Junior High, 550 Elizabeth Ln., Des Plaines, in order to accommodate an anticipated large crowd.

Schools to open for business Sept. 3

Schools in Des Plaines Dist. 62 will open for the 1974-75 school year on Sept. 3, according to Sept. Eric A. Sahlgren.

Students will attend classes for a full day on Sept. 3 with daily class sessions beginning at that time for all children except those in kindergarten.

The daily schedule for students is morning kindergarten, 9 to 11:30 a.m.; afternoon kindergarten, 1 to 3:30 p.m.; grades one through three, 9 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; grades four through six, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; and grades seven and eight, 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. (with staggered lunch periods.)

All classes will be dismissed at 3:15 p.m. on Monday afternoons to permit teachers to attend faculty, committee and professional meetings and to participate in service activities.

PARENTS ARE URGED to complete registration procedure by mail early so that principals can handle the administrative details of enrolling pupils in advance of the first day of classes.

Most children in grades 1-8 have already been registered using materials mailed early in August to students who were enrolled in Dist. 62 schools last spring. Registration materials for new students and those who did not receive any may be obtained in the offices of the individual schools after Aug. 20.

Physical examination reports are required for all pupils entering the Dist. 62 schools for the first time. Forms may be obtained at each school office.

Kindergarten fees are also to be paid by mail but enrollment will be completed by an appointment with the kindergarten teacher. Parents of kindergarten children who do not have an appointment are urged to call the school principal after Aug. 20. A child must be five years old on or before Dec. 1 to enter kindergarten.

For further information, contact the administration office at 824-1136.

Getting in the way of tradition

Irv McKay may be able to put his ladders back up in front of his paint store. All he needs is the city council's agreement with a Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals decision that his ladders are a special case and should be allowed to stand in front of Diamond Paint Co., 1795 Oakton St.

South Side residents and Oakton Street commuters have come to know McKay's ladders as his trademark. His little corner paint store, across the street from the south side post office, has always had a big bucket of brushes and a long row of ladders in front of it.

Always, that is, until last fall when Zoning Officer Michael Richardson informed McKay and his two partners that they were violating the zoning code and had to take the ladders down.

Richardson, who knows his zoning code and has created many waves in his town for enforcing it, ran smack up against a tradition. Nobody — not even a young upstart who sits on the side of law and order — was going to get rid of those ladders.

The city took McKay and his partners to court. The judge dismissed the case because of a technical error in filing and McKay decided to fight city law on a new front — through the ZBA.

Tuesday night McKay, his partners, his paint supplier and his attorney pleaded their case before the zoning board.

"I've been in business 21 years in the same place," said McKay describing how he and his wife started the store, "and I've always had my ladders outside."

He said he had never had a complaint about the ladders, never had an accident and now, that they have been removed, his business sales have dropped and people don't know he is open any more. "I hear that all the time. It sounds like a broken record."

HE CAME equipped with pictures, maps, plans, copies of old ordinances records and a lawyer who presented a very official case.

But what won the ZBA approval for McKay and friends was tradition.

Richardson made some good points: McKay is not just displaying his ladders, he's merchandising them on his sidewalk; the clear sidewalk is needed to provide more visual clearance for vehicles that use Oakton and Maple; and the free standing ladders are a hazard to pedestrians.

When the five zoning commissioners sat down to hash out the variation request Richardson didn't have a chance. It was a simple case of "let the man have his ladders."

Good grades!

Several Des Plaines residents have been named to the dean's list at colleges and universities throughout the country.

Local students receiving recognition for outstanding academic achievement are: Gary Lord, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lord, 10009 Meadow Lane, a student at Coe College; Bonnie Popp, Central College in Pella, Iowa; Hans H. Wahl, 1817 Linden St., elementary education major at Iowa State University; Dennis Byrne, 198 King Lane, Southern Illinois University; and from Millikin University in Decatur, Jared Birchfield, 2043 Spruce St.; Roger Kahila, 285 Harvey and Gary Sakata, 1113 Perda Lane.

Their arguments boiled down to: he's always had the ladders, no one has ever cared before, so why shouldn't he continue to have them. He's a good businessman, one commissioner pointed out, always hires a neighborhood kid during the summer and doesn't make any trouble.

ONE COMMISSIONER asked if the board shouldn't follow Richardson's advice since he was their professional consultant. Another replied that just because the zoning officer gave advice doesn't mean the board has to follow it (so much for Richardson).

The vote was 5 to 0 in favor of the ladders. The board put a stipulation on the variation that McKay would have to fasten his ladders to the building so they don't go falling on people and he could only have three feet worth of ladder space.

McKay is happy. His partners are happy. His attorney is happy and the people who have been used to seeing the wooden ladders in front of Diamond Paint Co. will see the tradition continue.

See what happens, Mike, when you tangle with tradition.

Builder contends he has solution

by DOROTHY OLIVER

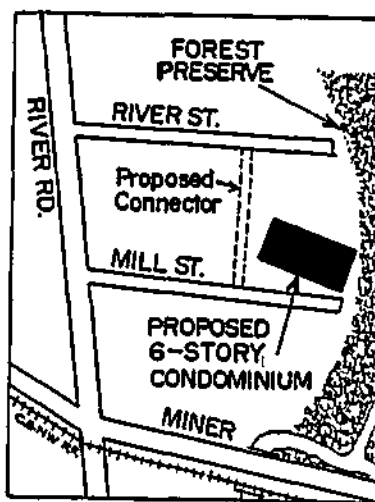

A last-ditch effort by city officials to resurrect the River Road overpass and provide a connector street between Mill and River streets may be in jeopardy.

Representatives of Harmony Builders appeared before the Zoning Board of Appeals Tuesday night seeking a zoning variation which would provide a "solution to everybody's problems" and a piece of land for the Mill-River connector.

Harmony's architects, Paul Krieff and Morton Balaban, met with city officials prior to the hearing to work out an arrangement whereby the developer could put up a six-story condominium in the far corner of the property at 1702 Mill St. and grant the city a 24-foot easement for the connector street.

Original plans for the condominium would not have necessitated an appeal hearing since they fell within the regular multi-family zoning codes for the property. Moving the building to the corner of the property in order to give the city the strip of land for the connector street, however, forced Harmony into seeking a variation — and facing the protests of residents in the area.

Commissioners deferred action on the request, asking for more information on the need for a connector street at the location suggested in the variation petition.

Balaban testified that during meetings with Mayor Herbert Behrel, City Engineer Robert Bowen and Zoning Officer Michael Richardson he was informed about the need for linking Mill and River streets if the city was to build an over-pass. An overpass would block traffic from exiting onto River Road from River Street.

According to the variance petition the building would be moved to the east corner of the property adjacent to Forest Preserve property along the Des Plaines River. The building would be 18 inches from the Forest Preserve boundary at its northeast corner and 22 feet from the forest preserve on the southeast corner.

"We would then give the city its easement for the Mill-River link on the west side of our property," Balaban explained.

William Sebastian, a local real estate broker who owns four lots on River Street behind the proposed condominium testified that the middle of the easement would run into the center line of his property.

Another Des Plaines realtor, Harold Kehr, testified as an expert witness for Sebastian and stated the River Street property now has a value of $80,000 to $85,000. If the city were to condemn Sebastian's property to continue the connector street it would probably cost about $55,000.

Sebastian argued that the connector street should go on the east side of the condominium, adjacent to the Forest Preserve, instead of into his property. Margaret Mochling, also a local realtor, testified on behalf of her son, James, who owns the property on River Street adjacent to the forest preserve and backing up to the condominium.

The Mochling property "has a valuation of $85,000 which the city will have to pick up" if the connector goes through on the east side, she said. "I agree to the variation and think the builders are doing just fine."

Burton Kosmen, a former mayoral candidate who lives at 709 Des Plaines Ave. (River Road), warned the commissioners that Mill Street is only 10 feet wide and a connector would create a "tremendous traffic problem."

Another resident, Robert Cummings, 1662 Mill St., said he didn't see the point of "cutting Mill and River in half" and putting the connector on the west side of the property.

After the hearing commissioners complained that the City of Des Plaines did not send a representative to the hearing to give its side of the story. They decided to defer action until Aug. 27 when they will question the city corporation counsel, engineer and building commissioner on the connector.

Woman, apartment dweller among applicants

Six seek post on Prospect Park Board

The Mount Prospect Park District Board of Commissioners will meet tonight with six persons bidding for a spot on the board.

Among the applicants are two women and an apartment dweller. There has never been a woman or an apartment occupant on the park board.

The six are vying for the vacancy created when Michael W. Buckley, 1408 Pennsylvania Ave., Des Plaines, resigned last month after serving on the park board for 5½ years.

Here's a rundown on the applicants:

ROSEMARY ARGUS, 38, says "I think a woman's viewpoint on the park board would be a good idea" because women most often are the ones who determine which classes to register the youngsters for. She is vice president of the Devonshire PTA and was a founder of the parent-teacher organization at Friendship Junior High School. In addition, she has worked on the Des Plaines city blood drive. A housewife, she and her husband, Donald, and four children have lived at 495 Courtesy Ln., Des Plaines, for five years.

KEN B. BUTZEN, 49, said he decided to seek the position because "I thought I could help in understanding some of the problems and do some good for the park district." He has been involved with the Waycinden Area Boys Baseball League for 10 years. Butzen is product development manager of Wilson Sporting Goods, River Grove. He and his wife, Barbara, and their six children have lived at 181 W. Millers Rd., Des Plaines, for 11 years.

GENE BYRNE, 51, also has been involved in the Waycinden baseball league. He was suggested for the park district position by a friend and said he has not yet made up his mind whether to seek the spot. He and his wife, Margaret, have lived at 108 King Ln. for eight years. They have five children.

RICHARD GOULD, 28, recently opened a law practice in Mount Prospect and said he is "interested in getting into some civic affairs." Gould served as a playground counselor in high school and college and said he appreciates "the value of a strong park district." A resident of 726 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect, Gould, a bachelor, said "apartment dwellers and single persons should be adequately represented on the board, because the park district is for their use too."

WILLIAM M. HICKEY, 1110 Lonquist Blvd., Mount Prospect, said his business experience as marketing director of Realty Co. of America, Chicago, could make him a useful addition to the park board. "With the amount of land the park district owns, my expertise might be used," he said. Hickey is on the Mount Prospect Combined Appeal executive committee and served as the first president of the parish council at St. Zachary Catholic Church, Des Plaines. He and his wife, Arlene, have lived at their present address for 1½ years, and earlier lived in Des Plaines for 12 years. They have three children.

ELSIE WICHMAN, 47, W. Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, also has expressed interest in the vacancy, but was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Park board members have indicated their intention to focus the search for a successor to Buckley on the Des Plaines section of the park district in order to maintain the geographic distribution of board members. One other park commissioner, William Selep Jr., lives in Des Plaines.

Short in TV set causes fire with $250 damage

Fire that ignited when a television set transformer short circuited caused $250 damage to a Des Plaines home, according to fire department reports.

Firemen said they answered the call at the home owned by C. Riedhammer, 325 Wisconsin Dr., about 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, but found the flames extinguished when they arrived.

School officials to testify at state hearing

School officials from the Northwest suburbs will testify Friday on drug abuse, violence and vandalism during hearings sponsored by State Schools Supt. Michael Bakalis.

The hearings will be held Friday and Saturday at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago. Saturday's hearings will be presented live on NBC (Channel 5) in Chicago from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

Saturday's speakers will include the Rev. Jesse Jackson; William Sylvester White, presiding justice in the Juvenile Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County; a member of the Chicago Board of Education; two representatives from the Chicago Police Dept., and a representative from the Chicago Teachers Union.

About 70 persons are expected to testify Friday, including Jean Flaler, member of the High School Dist. 211 board of education and consultant on youth for The Bridge youth services bureau in Palatine; Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services in Palatine Elementary School Dist. 15; William Tremelling, director of buildings and grounds in Dist. 13; Alma E. Parrish, president of the teacher council in Elk Grove Elementary School Dist. 58; JoAnn Reid, youth consultant for Spectrum youth service bureau of Schaumburg Township; Supt. Wayne Schaeble from Schaumburg Elementary School Dist. 54, and Mrs. Helen G. Showers, a resident of Mount Prospect.

This week's hearing to determine the causes of drug abuse, violence and vandalism in public schools, are the last of four hearings held throughout the state. Those who testify this week will answer questions from a panel composed of Bakalis, Cook County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick, members of the State Board of Education, and staff members in the state education office.

On Friday the hearings will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Illinois Room, 750 S. Halsted, and on Saturday in the Education and Communications Building Theater, Harrison and Morgan Streets, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Harper registration begins

Classes for the fall semester at Harper College begin Aug. 26. Students may register next week.

Some of the courses offered this fall include two super-market management courses, which will be offered in the evenings. Retail Food Distribution Industry will be held on Tuesdays from 8:10 to 9:50 p.m., and Supermarket Merchandising will be held on Wednesdays from 7:50 to 10:20 p.m. Further information is available from the business division at Harper, 397-3000, ext. 311 or 358.

Four courses will be offered this fall in the banking, finance and credit career programs. Each of the classes will be offered in the evenings between 7 and 9:45 p.m. Analyzing Financial Statements will be offered on Mondays, Uniform Commercial Code will be offered on Tuesdays, and Principles of Bank Operations and Installment Credit will each be offered on Thursdays. The courses will be taught by bankers. Information on these classes may be obtained by calling Harper, 397-3000, ext. 356, 311, or 345.

A variety of secretarial courses will be offered at Harper this fall. A course in secretarial procedures will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m. and on Monday from 6:25 to 9:05 p.m.

Certificate programs including clerical, clerk-typist, stenographer and secretarial will also be offered. Each program includes two or three courses which can be completed in one or two semesters of part-time study.

A review course is scheduled for secretaries who are planning to take the certified professional secretary examination next May. Classes will be held Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. from Aug. 27 to Dec. 10. Three sections of the examination will be reviewed this fall and three more will be reviewed during the spring semester.

Registration for fall classes will be taken by phone Aug. 10, 20 and 21, and in person at the college, Aug. 22, 23 and 24. Information on registration is available through the college admissions office.

Mensans in experiment

Twenty members of the Chicago chapter of Mensa, the international society for persons with high IQs, are participating in an experiment designed to improve academic abilities in adults.

The Mensans are being used as guinea pigs in an experiment conducted at the Academic Achievement Center in Chicago. Once each week Mensa members do exercises including creeping, and crawling on hands and knees, balancing movements and "body image" memorization tasks to test their motor abilities.

S. Willard Footlik, director of the center, said under-achieving children often have advanced three or more years

He said if a positive change is noted in Mensa members after a 20-week-period, the motor training can be used to help adults improve their power of concentration and organizational ability and may be helpful in therapy for some adult emotional disorders.

74 women pass police test

Seventy-four women are among 801 persons who have successfully completed the first round of testing for the Illinois State Police, figures from the state police merit board reveal.

The women were among the first group permitted to take the tests for the state department. The department's decision to open its ranks to women and more minorities came earlier this year. At the same time, the department's 5-foot 9-inch height minimum was eliminated to promote recruitment.

The 801 persons represent about half the numbers of persons who took part in the latest written and physical agility testing phases conducted from May to July. Duane Traynor, technical consultant to the merit board in Springfield, said Tuesday a total of 2,681 persons filed to take the testing, 1,795 actually took the tests and 801 of those passed.

A total of 248 women filed to take the tests, 149 took the exams and 74 of that group passed, Traynor said.

Among those who passed the first phases is Debbie Brush of Mount Prospect. However she has since joined the Roselle Police Dept. Mrs. Brush, formerly a radio operator for the Rolling Meadows Police Dept., is the first woman officer on the Roselle department.

Traynor said 683 male members of minorities filed to take the tests, 376 took the tests and 177 successfully completed the exams.

Traynor said the next phase of testing will be oral interviews of the 801 candidates. The interviewing is expected to be completed by the end of September, he said. Those who pass the oral exam phase will then undergo background checks, a polygraph (lie detector) check and thorough physical exam, he said.

The entire testing is expected to be completed by the end of the year, with those finally chosen for the department to start six months of training at the state police academy in Springfield by about the first of next year, Traynor said.

Those chosen will fill 50 known vacancies in the 1,700-man department, Traynor said. Another 35 positions also may be available because the state legislature has permitted the department to hire 2 per cent more troopers than the statutory 1,700 limit, he added.

Gov. Daniel Walker has said women and more minorities will be sought to join the department's ranks. He and members of the merit board have said women will have the same duties as men once they are selected as troopers.

Women troopers currently are members of state police departments in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Ford may give new boost to consumer agency

The long-battled Consumer Protection Agency bill may have a new lease on life with the ascension of Gerald Ford to the Presidency.

The bill has been bogged down in a Senate filibuster, and faced a definite veto by former President Richard M. Nixon, who actively opposed the measure.

Now, however, Senate supporters of the bill have scheduled a third cloture vote for next Tuesday and are confident they will have the additional seven votes needed to cut off debate. And once the bill passes the Senate, supporters believe President Ford will readily sign it.

Stuart Statler, an aide to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., sponsor of the bill, said Ford voted for a similar bill while a member of the House of Representatives two years ago and expressed support for the current bill when it was under House consideration. In addition, Statler said, advisers to Ford "have indicated they like the idea."

"It can only be better," Statler said in reference to the new administration's attitude toward the bill.

The agency proposed by the bill, recently renamed the Agency for Consumer Advocacy, would represent the consumer interest in issues under consideration by other regulatory agencies and the courts. It would counterbalance the influence of highly paid lobbyists sent to Washington by business interests.

The Senate filibuster has been led by U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., representing the attitude of business, which regards the proposed agency as a "federally funded Ralph Nader."

Inez M. Schwarz

Visitation is being held today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. for Inez M. Schwarz (nee Hollingshead) a seven-year Des Plaines resident, at Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Mrs. Schwarz died Wednesday at Lutheran General Hospital. She was 82, and was born March 18, 1882, in Indiana.

She was preceded in death by her husband, William J. Schwarz. She is survived by two sons, Arthur L. (Catherine) of Chicago, and William J. (Winifred) of Des Plaines; eight grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Oehler chapel at 2:30 p.m. Friday. Burial will be at Montrose Cemetery in Chicago.

Gordon W. Schaefgen Kenneth Glade

Gordon W. Schaefgen, 49, of Rolling Meadows, died Tuesday in Northwest Community Hospital. He was born Sept. 24, 1924.

A World War II Army veteran, he is survived by his wife, Martha; a son, Gordon W. Jr., of Waukegan, Wis.; a daughter, Donna Molsenbocker of San Diego, Calif.; a son, Steven, of Bloomington, Minn., and a daughter, Pam-Sue, of Rolling Meadows.

He is also survived by a son, Charles Mullins, of Bellview, Ill.; a daughter, Patty Mullins, and a son, Michael Mullins of Rolling Meadows, along with a sister Caroline Beck of Rhinelander, Wis. He was preceded in death by a sister, Charlotte Bucolic.

Visitation was held yesterday and funeral services are scheduled for 9 a.m. today at Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. Interment will be at Ridgewood Cemetery in Des Plaines.

In lieu of flowers, contributions should be sent to the Diabetes Foundation, 620 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Funeral services will be Friday for Kenneth Glade, of Wheeling, who died Tuesday night at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines of injuries sustained when he was hit by a car Saturday in Wheeling. He was 45.

Visitation will be after 2 p.m. today at Friedrich Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the funeral home with the Rev. E. A. Zelle officiating. Burial will be at Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Glade, a construction worker, was born Aug. 30, 1928, in Mount Prospect. He is survived by his widow, Erna, nee Hansen; a daughter, Lynn, at home; his mother, Florence, of Mount Prospect; a brother, George (Marjorie), of Mount Prospect, and a sister, Barbara (Howard) Redeker, of Huntley, Ill.

Robert Talamantes

Robert Talamantes, a former resident of Arlington Heights and Palatine, died Wednesday at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. He was 37.

Talamantes was born March 2, 1937, in Chicago. Before his death he lived at 435 Krenz, Cary, and was employed by General Electric Co. in Rolling Meadows.

Surviving are his wife, Joan; a daughter, Dana Marie, and a son, Robert John.

Visitation will be from 5 to 9 p.m. at Stirlen-Pieper Funeral Home, 149 W. Main St., Barrington. The body will lie in state from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at the Barrington Methodist Church. Funeral services follow at 1 p.m.

Burial will be at Evergreen Cemetery in Barrington.

The family requests memorials be made to the Leukemia Fund.

Kirk Center signups

Registration for old and new students at Kirk Center for the handicapped will be held Aug. 26-27 from 9 a.m. to noon both days. Kirk Center is located at 620 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine. For information call 359-3100.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

Robert B. Blanchard

Robert B. Blanchard, formerly of Elk Grove Village, died Tuesday in Sun City, Ariz., at 60.

Visitation will be today from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. Funeral services will be at Oehler's chapel at 1 p.m. and burial will be at Edens Memorial Park Cemetery, Schiller Park.

Mr. Blanchard was born Nov. 12, 1913, in Chicago, and had been a supervisor for Teletype in Skokie.

He is survived by his widow, Helen Jane (nee Gottschalk); three sons, Robert C., Jack A. and Richard W., all of Des Plaines; a daughter, Helen C. Hattery of Mount Prospect, and five grandchildren. Also surviving is a sister, Marge Benjamin, of Franklin Park.

The family requests that contributions to charity be made in lieu of flowers.

Briefly on business

Public information a must: FTC boss

The consumer's right to information was hailed as essential for competition by Federal Trade Commission chairman Lewis Engman Wednesday.

Speaking before the antitrust section of the American Bar Assn. in Honolulu, Hawaii, Engman said, "I believe . . . in free markets and competition. Too often however, free-market economists make the mistake of assuming free markets and competition to be a natural state of affairs.

"The corollary of this assumption is that any injection of the government into the marketplace is a move away from free markets and from competition. I just don't believe that," Engman said.

Among the factors that restrict the availability of information to the consumer, Engman said, are "laws or agreements that limit the amount or kinds of information in the market." For example, lawyers, doctors, pharmacists and funeral directors for many years have maintained conspiracies of silence about fees, he said, and in some cases the assistance of the state has been obtained to suppress this information.

"I see little justification for withholding accurate price and quality information from the marketplace," he said. The information must allow consumers to make direct product to product comparisons, Engman added. A limited governmental role will not reduce competition in the marketplace, Engman said, but it can inject a vital component into the market — information.

Sales seminars slated

Retailer Frank Vignola will conduct a series of four sales seminars this month in the Chicago area. A seminar will be held Aug. 27 at the Holiday Inn, Mount Prospect, from 8 to 10 p.m. Other sessions were slated for Oak Lawn, Hillside and Northbrook. The cost is $15 a person. Registrations can be made through Vignola at the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, or at the sessions.

600 at golf outing

More than 600 persons participated in the Chicago Area Council of Savings Assns. annual golf outing Wednesday. The outing was held at the St. Andrews Country Club, St. Charles.

Contract to Brazilian firm

Des Plaines based Universal Oil Products' Process Division recently announced contracts with Petroquimica do Nordeste-Copene Ltd., Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The contracts provide for the license of process technology and design specifications for eight process units in the Brazilian firm's petrochemicals raw materials center in Camacari, Brazil. The units will produce fresh naphtha charge, toluene and other materials.

New Plum Grove Bank opens doors today

The new Plum Grove Bank will open its doors today at 2701 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows. Neil Cooney, president, said the bank's grand opening will be held Aug. 23 and 24. The full-service bank is affiliated with the Elgin Banking Group.

The bank's grand opening activities will include such attractions as a hot-air balloon, a clown and refreshments. The hours for the celebration are 2 to 8 p.m. Aug. 23 and 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 24.

Investment specialist sees good, bad economic future

by LEA TONKIN

Sorting out President Gerald Ford's vows to the nation — straight talk, conciliation with Congress and another war on inflation — investment specialist Alexander Paris found some good news and some bad news. The findings are not exceptional for an inflation-watcher who alternately describes himself as an "optimist" and an "ex-optimist."

Explanation: "Perry" Paris is the author of the recently published book "The Coming Credit Collapse." In a positively optimistic manner, Paris declares that a "bust is, after all better than a boom for the economy."

A Palatine resident, Paris said he is a member of a "small hardy band" of economic thinkers of the Austrian school. "The consumer is king" in their camp, he said. Shoo away the federal bureaucrats to their proper role of protecting the citizenry and settling disputes. Let the free market determine price and supply levels and you'll see a decline in inflation, he says.

"Inflation is excessive creation of money," said Paris. "But many now define it as rising prices. Government is the heart of the problem," Paris said.

So President Ford's comments on control of federal spending and a balanced budget were good news to Paris. "The positive thing is that he raised the awareness of government spending," Paris said. "It's important to hold confidence, especially the way things are going in Europe. To the extent that Watergate is over and other countries will have more confidence in the U.S., it is positive."

REVIVAL OF THE Cost of Living Council as proposed by Ford conjures up the negative spectre of controls in Paris' mind, however. "Watergate, if anything, should have taught us that politicians are only people," he said. "It won't work. The only way is to go through free market system."

Paris, a crusader against inflation — "I think it's a hideous, regressive tax" — is dubious about long-range government programs to curtail excessive credit. "Somebody has got to do something unpopular, and in an election year it's not likely," he said. Unemployment would increase for a time with credit cutbacks, for example.

PARIS BEGAN thinking about a book on the consequences of the credit boom for consumers and the economy four or five years ago. "It's basically a way to explain to myself these things," Paris said of the book.

The U.S. was on the brink of financial disaster in 1966 and again in 1970, and now another string of money-hungry banks and corporations are overextended, Paris said. The consumer and the economist alike have problems rooting out the source of inflation, he said, because the government blames everyone from speculators to the consumer to the gnomes in Switzerland for the problem.

PARIS OUTLINES in "The Coming Credit Collapse" a tremendous expansion of credit that began in the 1930s and credit's continual price-boosting effect for the public. Aided by the creation of credit from thin air by the Federal Reserve Bank, the federal government has set an example followed eagerly by banks and businesses and consumers. The cost of financing the ever-increasing debt is what costs consumers more dollars for the same good each year, Paris said.

How will it all end? "I used to be an optimist," said Paris. "The point is I looked very carefully at all these factors." No less than a complete reform of government philosophy and spending patterns is required, says Paris. And he adds that it will not happen until a crisis occurs.

What should the consumer, the investor and the business executive do in the face of an impending economic crisis? "Get out of debt. Get your financial house in order," advised Paris. And for investment, he said, you can't beat gold as a safe inflation hedge.

When the bust comes, said Paris the optimistic consumers can look to better times and less inflation. A credit collapse "really cleanses the entire economy," he said.

Only one of 10 local communities passes MSD probe

Only one of the 10 local communities has escaped a run-in with the Metropolitan Sanitary District on a sewer inspection and renovation ordinance.

MSD officials said recently that Buffalo Grove is the only local village that has not yet been cited for some violation of the sewer renovation requirements of the district.

Elk Grove Village, on the other hand, has been on the verge of a lawsuit over its alleged nonenforcement of the requirements for a year, the MSD reports.

The cause of all the conflict is the sanitary district's requirement that all communities complete sewer inspections and repairs by Dec. 31 of this year.

THE REQUIREMENTS, enacted by the MSD board in 1972, are aimed at eliminating storm sewage from entering separate sanitary sewers. They call for repairs of broken or cracked sewers that allow leakage, as well as elimination of illegally connected roof drains or sump pumps.

When the MSD originally passed the inspection and repair requirements for separate sewer systems the goal was to save $71 million in treatment costs, as well as to eliminate the problem of having sanitary sewage back up into homes after heavy rainstorms.

But in 1972 the federal government came into the picture and blocked all federal grants for sewage treatment works unless the sewer system leading into the plant can be shown to be free of excess storm inflow. The federal rules have ended sewage treatment grants to the MSD, and the district will only be able to receive future grants for sewage treatment plants when the entire repair program has been completed and evaluated as successful.

BECAUSE THE sewer systems (except for the interceptors or collection sewers) are owned by the individual municipalities, the job of the inspection and repair work falls on their shoulders.

Municipal officials have balked at the MSD requirements because the cost of the work must be borne locally as no federal grant funds are currently available for sewer inspection and repair.

Municipal officials also have questioned whether they had the legal authority to force private homeowners to disconnect storm drains and storm sump pumps from the sanitary sewer system.

So far the MSD has not taken any municipality to court for failure to make progress on the inspections. Twenty-two towns and local sanitary districts have had "show-cause" action started against them by the MSD, however, which is the final step in negotiations before the sanitary district board considers suing the municipality.

Locally Elk Grove, belongs to that group as do the Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District and the Prospect Meadows Sanitary District, which serves one subdivision in Mount Prospect.

MSD OFFICIALS say that although Elk Grove Village has begun testing and repairs in one section of the village, the amount of work done by the village was unsatisfactory. At one point three months ago the village had told the MSD that further work was unfeasible, but negotiations have resumed, and the village is now seeking funding to continue the work, the MSD said.

Richard Schulz, superintendent of the Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District, said his district has been complying with inspection requirements but has not submitted reports to the MSD because of a pending lawsuit which questions the powers of the MSD over the OTSD.

In the case of Prospect Meadows Sanitary District the district had to "show-cause" with the MSD as a result of confusion about whether the requirements applied to the small district, but an agreement has now been worked out, according to James Brand of Prospect Meadows.

THE STATUS of other local towns as far as meeting the MSD requirements includes 10 agencies which have signed consent statements after reaching an agreement with the MSD about how the inspections and repairs will progress. They are Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Wheeling, Palatine Township, Country Gardens Sanitary District, Prospect Heights Sanitary District, Wolf Mandel Sanitary District and the Fern-dale Heights Utility Co.

Locally there are four agencies which are still negotiating with the MSD about the work. They include Des Plaines, Palatine, Maine Township and Mount Prospect.

The MSD said further action or follow-up is necessary in the case of the Mount Prospect Utility Co. and the Forest River Sanitary District.

Satisfactory ratings go to only Buffalo Grove and to Elk Grove Township locally.

Squeeze causes heart problems

The Bath Coup is one of the oldest plays in bridge. Apparently it was used in whist games at the English resort of Bath as long as 200 years ago.

In whist it was designed to get an opponent to continue a suit. In contract it may have that effect, but its more general purpose is to allow declarer to retain control of a danger suit.

North and South are to be congratulated on getting to five clubs. Lots of players would try a very unsuccessful three notrump. Others an almost equally unsuccessful six clubs.

Six clubs would make against a spade lead. South would simply draw trumps; knock out the ace of diamonds and discard his jack and trey of hearts on long diamonds.

When West opened the king of hearts against five clubs it was up to South to let the king hold. If he took it right away East would get in with the ace of diamonds and give his partner two heart tricks.

When South ducked the defense was helpless. It didn't matter what they led. If they led a heart, South would make both hearts good. If they didn't, South had plenty of time to go about the business of drawing trumps and setting up dummy's diamonds.

Public hearing on 'Project Independence' Sept. 9-13

by LEA TONKIN

You can testify at the Chicago hearing on Project Independence. The topic for the Sept. 9-13 session slated by the Federal Energy Administration is the role of nuclear power and advanced energy systems on U.S. development.

"With or without the official plan the public must insist on that conservation and protection of natural resources must accompany development of energy sources," said Nancy Flowers of the Lake Michigan Federation in Chicago, urging the public to participate in the sessions.

Project Independence is a plan conceived during the Nixon administration to achieve independence of foreign energy supplies by 1980. Hearings on the proposed plan will be conducted at 10 locations throughout the U.S., concluding in October. Previous announcements of Project Independence goals included stepped-up licensing and construction plans for nuclear power stations, among other suggestions. "While most people will not quarrel with a goal to achieve independence, there are many who would challenge some methods to pursue the option," said Miss Flowers.

Lee Richardson, director of the FEA consumer affairs office, recently resigned his post. Among his complaints: the agency's heavy emphasis on accelerated nuclear power development without an accompanying emphasis on safety.

Draft summary reports of Project Independence and requests to testify at the hearings may be directed to: Administrator John Sawhill, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington D.C. 20461.

Toxic substance rules filed

Proposed toxic substances regulations were recently filed by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. The regulations would require the registration of toxic substances stored or shipped in quantities sufficient to potentially harm

MSD buys more Fulton County land

The Metropolitan Sanitary District has increased its land holdings in downstate Fulton County by 50 per cent.

MSD board members have voted to spend $2.25 million to buy 5,240 acres of stripmined land to expand the district's Prairie Plan land-reclamation project using sewage sludge as liquid fertilizer.

The MSD has been negotiating for the new land for some time a spokesman said, but had been delayed because one land owner was involved in a lawsuit and was not free to sell the land.

The district already owns 10,529 acres in Fulton County for its Prairie Plan.

The spokesman said that one site of 2,972 acres in the new land acquisitions was already capable of being farmed, but the remaining acreage will have to be graded before it can be used for liquid fertilizer farming.

the general public if released in the environment. Citing the injury, damage and evacuation problems caused by accidents involving toxic substances, director Dr. Richard Briceland said hearings on the regulations will be scheduled shortly.

Whale protection urged

Hope for "a major change in the outlook for the preservation of the world's whales" is reported by the National Wildlife Federation following the recent International Whaling Commission conference in London. Japan and the Soviet Union broke with other nations at the conference, voting against any moratorium on whaling.

The two nations account for 85 per cent of the annual kill, said the NWF report, and the countries are the target of an economic boycott by U.S. conservationists.

Prior to the June meeting, representative of NWF, the Sierra Club, the Wilderness Society, National Audubon Society, Fund for Animals and other groups called on the embassies of the two countries and urged them to "reevaluate your previous objections" to a 10-year moratorium on commercial whaling.

A compromise proposal presented by Australia at the conference was accepted. It provides for a selective moratorium on any species of whale — such as the fin whale — for which the population falls below optimum levels.

Agencies at odds on ozone

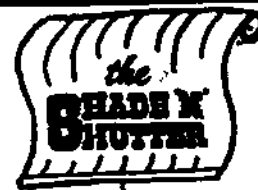

Ozone confusion: The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency disagrees with city of Chicago and federal environmental officials on the necessity for checking ozone levels in the atmosphere. Following a Tuesday meeting between the agencies and Cook County environmental experts on the methods for checking ozone air pollution, a state agency spokesman said the regulations applied to long-range problems rather than day-to-day monitoring.

Bear-proof garbage dumps?

Back to the wilds: the Yellowstone National Park grizzly bears don't need garbage dumps to survive. Assistant Yellowstone Supt. Vernon Hennessey said fears that a shutdown of the park's garbage dumps would cause the death of grizzlies that had depended on them for years have proven unfounded.

A National Academy of Sciences study of the park's grizzly population had recommended that the park's garbage dumps be eliminated or "bear-proofed." Yellowstone's ecosystem extends over 4 million acres in Wyoming, eastern Idaho and southern Montana. The study indicates that supplemental feeding of some 250 to 300 grizzlies is "unnecessary." In 1970, all the dumps in Yellowstone were closed. Although bear deaths increased, the academy concludes that the species is in no danger of extinction within the park. The bears no longer frequent visitor areas in the park, Hennessey said.

We back 'open' VP method

In his efforts to launch his administration in an atmosphere of national unity, President Gerald R. Ford has taken a commendable approach to the selection of a vice president.

Having vowed openness and candor in his relationships with both the Congress and the American people, Ford backed up this vow by inviting nominations for the post from all quarters. As a result, he has been supplied with an ample list of highly qualified individuals.

It is especially pleasing that he specifically solicited members of the Democratic party to make known to him their vice presidential preferences. It is also good to know that the President, recognizing the maturity toward which national opinion is slowly growing, has not ruled out black candidates or women as possible choices.

It is impractical, of course, to consider that any president would choose as his own possible successor a member of the opposition party. But if Ford's choice is among those who have been previously approved by members of the Democratic leadership, it will further cement the aura of cooperation which he has already succeeded in fostering.

While the choice of a black or a woman as vice president would be an historic gesture, it must also be recognized that it would inevitably cause, rightly or wrongly, added controversy in a troubled time.

The nation has had for the moment sufficient historic developments in the presidency. The need for an atmosphere of good will among the many diverse elements of the nation probably precludes a vice presidential choice which would fuel debate.

The list of names which have been submitted to the President — and they include Massachusetts

Car safety 'fiasco'

Responding to a flood of constituent complaints, the House of Representatives has voted overwhelmingly to void government regulations requiring new automobiles to have seat belt interlock systems, buzzers or air bag restraints.

Seat belts still would be mandatory new car equipment, but a dashboard light would be the only warning device that the government could require to inform a motorist that his belts were not fastened.

The House action came in the form of an amendment to a larger motor vehicle and school bus safety bill that now is in conference committee to reconcile differences with a Senate bill. The Senate version left untouched present government regulations dealing with the interlock system, which prevents a car from starting until all front-seat passengers have fastened

Sen. Edward Brooke, a black, and former presidential counselor Anne Armstrong — is in itself reassuring. It again proves that there is a wealth of talent and integrity in this country which can be called upon in time of need.

Meanwhile, those close to the President are correct in their assessment that no one can presume to demand of him the appointment of any one candidate. The choice must be his alone, made in consideration of the concerns of all those he has asked to participate.

When his announcement is made, it is incumbent on us all to accept it in the same spirit of national unity which we are asking of the 38th President of the United States.

their belts. It becomes mandatory on all 1975 model cars.

Despite documentation that seat belts save lives and prevent injuries, there has been widespread public resistance to systems for compulsory use. Motorists have complained that the devices are an unnecessary expense, a nuisance and inefficient — pointing out that a bag of groceries or a dog on the front seat can prevent the car from starting.

Poor design has made some of the new "harness" belts awkward to use and uncomfortable to wear, prompting one congressman to call them "something left over from Chinese water torture."

Despite stiff federal penalties for tampering with the interlock, an estimated 40 per cent or more of new car buyers have disconnected the system.

Government can demand cars be equipped with seat belts and require motorists to pay for them — but there is no certain way government can make it mandatory to force an individual to use them when only his personal safety is at stake.

A sense of personal responsibility cannot be legislated nor instilled through federal fiat. Seat belts make sense; they should be used. Compliance will come only when the public accepts the obvious value of the safety belts and displays the wisdom and maturity to buckle up voluntarily.

The conference committee should adopt the House amendment and bring an end to the ill-fated interlock fiasco.

Bob Lahey's column

Immunity: a hard question

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

There are, you will not be startled to learn, some questions for which the pundits have no answers.

One such question is: What now for Richard M. Nixon?

Is he to be left in peace while others languish in jail for offenses committed in his service? Is the 37th President of the United States to be summoned to court, tried and perhaps convicted? If so, are we to incarcerate the only living former American president? What fine would be proper for a president found guilty of obstructing justice?

There is, I believe, a strong body of sentiment in this country that the matter should be put to rest, that we should have done with it.

It is a sentiment which I, frankly, share. But it is a sentiment with one very large difficulty:

It is totally and absolutely indefensible against the argument that failure to pursue the question of presidential guilt or innocence places one man in this nation above the law.

Is Otto Kerner to sit in a federal prison while E. Howard Hunt goes free?

If there is a place where the alternatives for the nation regarding Richard Nixon may be reconciled, it may be in the philosophy of impeachment which was pursued but never consummated.

An argument may be made that the only penalty attached to impeachment is the removal from office, and that penalty has already been paid.

It is an argument which will not sit comfortably with strict students of the law, who believe that any matter of justice must be pursued to its logical conclusion. According to this layman's understanding, the question of whether a president, once impeached (as, of course, Richard Nixon was not) may then be prosecuted. It is complicated again, it would seem, but the case of Otto Kerner, who was never impeached, but was prosecuted.

Finally, it would seem that there is a large question mark surrounding who must make the determination of all these matters. It would seem clear that the Congress has no power to resolve these judicial matters.

One would think it is a matter needing the wisdom of the Supreme Court? But how can it rule on a proceeding which has never been instituted?

When the extreme alternatives appear equally unacceptable, one must search for a middle ground.

If there is a middle ground in this question, I for one have not found it.

The suggestion has been made that excusing the wrong deeds of the President could be justified if the nation at the same time extended amnesty to all those who resisted the draft during the Vietnam war. Or if, too, all those others who have been convicted of Watergate offenses be pardoned.

Tempting as it may be to clutch at these justifications, both offend logic.

The case for amnesty for war resisters is a compelling one on its own merits. It is abhorrent to maintain that a soldier who refuses to commit an act which his conscience tells him to be immoral may be forgiven only if the commander-in-chief is permitted acts which are clearly illegal.

Are men near the center of power to be allowed to obstruct the nation's justice, and perjure themselves to the Congress, the courts and the people, and then go free to spare the nation embarrassment? If so, what of lesser public officials?

There is of course talk of a presidential pardon. But how does the President pardon anyone for a crime of which he has never been convicted?

Whatever precedent it may set for the future, there is a suspicion that these questions will be resolved — or more likely allowed to go unresolved — only according to the reaction of public opinion. And so far there is no discernible groundswell of public demand for the prosecution of Richard Nixon.

Backs county budgeting

letters to the editor

Our summer rate is less than the regular full-time rate. We pay for these summer employees out of an account labelled extra salaries and overtime. Your editorial writer assumed that the transfer was for overtime and it was not. He would have found out with a simple phone call to my office that we use regular surplus to pay for summer help.

If we had appropriated the amount we needed for summer employees at the beginning of the year, the county would have had to raise taxes to balance the budget. Instead, we relied on our normal surplus and used unexpended funds to pay for summer help thereby reducing the need for taxes and cutting down on the surplus.

Had we not used the excess funds in the regular salary account the county would have had an even greater surplus which certainly would have been a reflection of poor budgeting. We expend between 95 and 98 per cent of our budget by keeping an extremely close watch on expenditures. To be criticized for doing a good job is both unfair to our office and to the public you are supposed to be informing.

the correct way, on the right side of the street, with traffic.

Some members of the Arlington Heights Bicycle Assn. have worked hard reaching and teaching children the correct way to bike; a picture like the one that appeared in The Herald only tends to give an impression that a bicyclist can ride anywhere he pleases which is definitely not correct. I believe this picture should be reprinted and a caption put under it stating that this child is on the incorrect side of the street.

Utility rates hit

I have a few questions on the federal, state and municipal tax rate structure on utilities. I called each utility company office but have not been able to get an answer.

First discrepancy: I don't understand why Illinois Bell charges a state tax of 2.12 per cent when the gas and electric companies' state tax rate is 2 per cent.

Second: Since the village utility tax is 5 per cent on all utilities and the gas and electric companies charge .73 per cent service or handling charge, why does Illinois Bell charge .92 per cent?

Third: Why is the state tax on all utilities figured on the total billing charge plus the municipal tax? To me, this is a tax on a tax. This is true of the federal tax on our phone bills, which is based on the billing plus the state tax plus the municipal tax. This is now a tax on two other taxes.

Fourth: Why is the municipal tax on the electric bill calculated on the light bulb charges but not the state tax?

I realize some of these questions may seem petty, but the attitude of the utility companies has been very negative when I questioned them on these points. Also, I am sure, in total, these discrepancies amount to a lot of money.

I would appreciate a clarification on the legality of these points and an explanation of the different rates.

Collectors' case hit

Your August 5 editorial concerning the five-year court cases between the township tax collectors and the citizens of Cook County is commendable, because you wish to save the taxpayers $35,000 in township attorneys' fees. (Your figures).

But, you miss the point. The township tax collectors want salaries, expenses, and necessary equipment to collect taxes in Cook County.

If your reporter had covered the most recent case before Judge O'Brien, your paper would know that to return the collection of tax bills in Cook County to the townships would cost township taxpayers over $1 million per year.

My wife and I were petitioners to intervene in the most recent case, and we intervened on behalf of the taxpayers. Perhaps, with its resources, the Herald could act on behalf of the Taxpayers. Really!

Videotape makes pupils TV stars at Sacred Heart

Sacred Heart of Mary High School students will be watching themselves on television beginning this fall, with the school's new videotape equipment.

Twelve members of the school's projectionist club are being trained this month to operate the Sony videotape camera, tape recorder, monitor and receiver in preparation for the coming school year.

The equipment was purchased with the help of a $1,000 check from the class of 1974. Nanee Helmeid, Sacred Heart's librarian, will direct the use of the equipment and handle the videotape library the school intends to build.

Besides allowing teachers to videotape class lessons or activities, the new equipment will help students learn from seeing playbacks of their own dramatic productions or sporting events. Teachers will be able to tape television programs for playback during class time. Student-made video productions may not be too far off, as they learn the special effects possible through the camera lens and tape dubbing capabilities.

The 12 girls learning to operate the equipment will have three days to practice and perfect their skills during Sacred Heart's teacher in-service days next week. At that time, they'll be teaching their teachers what television can do for them.

Registration Monday, Tuesday at Sacred Heart

Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows, will register all students Monday and Tuesday at the school.

Payment of tuition and fees, distribution of schedules, books, lockers, bus routes and auto registrations, and the taking of ID pictures will be handled on those two days.

Freshmen should report from 8:30 to noon Monday. Juniors should report from 1 to 3:30 p.m. that day. Sophomores will register from 8:30 to noon Tuesday, with seniors registering from 1 to 3:30 p.m. that day.

The staff will participate in three days of workshops and preparations for a 1975 evaluation by the North Central Association team Aug. 21-23.

First day of attendance for all students is Aug. 26. Freshmen will meet at 9 a.m., and upperclassmen will assemble at 10 a.m. The rest of that day will be devoted to freshmen orientation programs and student advisor selection.

Regular classes will begin Tuesday, Aug. 27, with bus service beginning Thursday, Aug. 29, in both Districts 211 and 214 for girls attending Sacred Heart.

Tuition this year has remained $550 for one daughter, $400 for a second daughter, and free tuition for a third daughter.

Anyone interested in attending Sacred Heart this year may call 392-6880 for further information, or may visit the school between 8:30 and 3:30 p.m. any weekday.

JULIE O'GRADY operates the camera while two other Sacred Heart Projectionist Club members, Rosemarie Reynolds and Mary Louise Harrison, hold a mock interview as part of their training with new videotape equipment at the school. The equipment will be used this fall for the first time.

Suburban Living

Especially for the Family

Kids in summer

A penny's worth of fun

by KAREN THOMPSON

If only we could see the world through a child's eyes.

Last week, while the adult population was caught up in the problems of the country and listening to the President of the United States give his resignation speech, youngsters in Palatine, oblivious to the situation, were having the time of their lives at the park district penny carnival.

After listening to the speech on my car radio in the parking lot, I weaved my way through the 43 bikes parked outside and into the Birchwood Park Gymnasium. The carnival had been rained out the week before . . . and almost this week too, but that didn't dampen the spirits of the throngs of kids, ready to spend their pennies on the homemade amusements.

I MET AMY AND Chris at the drinking fountain. They were too short to reach the stream of water and push the button at the same time, and I was the closest at hand, so I hoisted them up a few inches and we were instant friends.

With our pennies spent on tickets, we set off to try our luck at the carnival. Amy's shoulder-type pouch bag had a strap so long and stretched out that the purse dragged on the floor, so I carried it. It must have been a hand-me-down from an older sister. Chris carried her pennies in a Baggie.

At the far end of the gym we began our trek through the maze of games. First was the Hay Find. "You have 10 seconds to walk to the tire and search for all the candy you can find," read the tempting sign.

Amy led the way. She dove head first into the tractor tire brimming over with hay. She found two pieces of candy. Chris followed. She must have hit a good spot because she came out the winner with seven goodies, and a head of hair filled with straw. I got zero, but they shared the wealth with their overgrown, newly-found friend.

NEXT, WE came to the Cupcake and Cookie Walk, today's version of musical chairs, with homemade treats for the winner. Chris said she had already won this tricky feat once, but she gave her cupcake to her little sister who didn't win anything.

The lines were long for every attraction, but it didn't seem to bother my cohorts. Golf, the Bozo Buckets and the Fish Pond came next on our list of stops.

Then, to the jail. Pay one cent and put your best friend (or favorite counselor) into jail for three minutes. The jail was headquarters for most of the counselors as the youngsters dragged them by an arm or leg to take their turn behind bars.

The final leg of our journey through carnival land brought us to the Hazard Walk, which Chris and Amy approached with apprehension — so did I. We paid our pennies and one at a time crawled cautiously through hay filled tires, back down and under sawhorses covered with sheets, over a slanted board and through a wooden teepee. The girls, the most nimble of our threesome, won again.

THE PENNY prizes were a dentist's horror — bubble gum, jaw breakers, Mary Janes, Sweet Tarts and caramels, to name a few. Every kid in the gym was busy counting his wealth and chewing as fast as he could. It was Halloween revisited for the kids.

I retired to a chair and let Amy and Chris return to their favorite booths.

One dad came in to deliver his crew. He bought a fistful of tickets, cautioned them not to buy any food and not to spend all their money in one place. Waving goodbye, he high-tailed it to the door.

The kids had a ball and as I was getting ready to leave, the counselors were sending a runner to the local grocery store for additional balloons and a large bottle of Excedrin.

YOU SEE, THEIR evening was just beginning. The traditional campout night, heralding the end of the day camp season, was also on the night's agenda. Youngsters, dads and moms were hauling sleeping bags, blankets and their favorite pillows into the gym for an evening away from home.

Not a bit pooped by the carnival, the children settled in for a night of drinking pop, eating their winnings and getting very little sleep. A pancake breakfast next morning topped off their summer of day camp.

Hark! The roll of drums, the sound of brass...

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

Everyone loves a parade! Especially when it is an unscheduled, unexpected, unstructured, unofficial, impromptu neighborhood "happening."

I had ridden my bike to the store the other evening for a bottle of wine, and on my return I thought I heard a distant drum roll. I rode on a little further, and the drum beat became unmistakable.

So, incurable marching band devotee that I am, I had to find the source of this martial sound. As I whizzed up one street and down the next following my ears, a faint sound of brass began to come through, growing stronger as I got closer.

FOLLOWING your ears has its disadvantages, especially in an unfamiliar neighborhood: the street I was on dead-ended, just as the band came into sight across a field. Luckily, a bike path conveniently presented itself, and I cut across to another street. There at the end passed the band — apparently out practicing its parade maneuvers on the residential streets surrounding the school.

Talk about simple wants! I was so excited and eager to catch up with this uniformed bunch of high school kids wending their incongruous way past suburban homes that I almost mowed down a couple of little kids, also pedaling rapidly toward the band.

As I caught up to the rear ranks, I found myself riding neck and neck with dozens of children on bikes and on foot following the band. Despite my irrepressible delight at this unexpected musical treat, I momentarily felt a bit self-conscious — like an overgrown kid, with a wine bottle sticking out of my bike basket yet!

BUT MY EMBARRASSMENT was short-lived as the trail of youngsters behind the band soon became a stream of young and old alike.

Men and women came out of their homes as the sound of tooting flutes and blaring trumpets approached, and they stood in their yards watching, or joined the parade. The sidewalks and the street soon became filled with folks of all sizes, walking, running, riding bikes — and all wearing smiles.

A middle-aged man pedaled ahead of me on a bike with one of those tall flag poles attached to the rear. A mother cruised beside the band with her young daughter riding in a kiddie seat on the back of her bike. A woman called out to her neighbor as the crowd swarmed by — "There goes your grass!" And he just laughed. Farther down, two elderly ladies were seated along the curb on lawn chairs.

And — pardon the cliché — the band played on!

SOME 60 OR MORE high schoolers, clad in all manner of shorts, jeans, T-shirts and sneakers, obviously took their task quite seriously, never looking to left or right at their growing audience. Heads held high and knees pulled high on each step, they pounded tirelessly down block after block, playing their repertoire of marches and fanfares from memory.

"Hey, drummers!" the band director shouted over his megaphone, running alongside the group. "Get those heads up. What are you looking at the ground for? You aren't going to fall into a man-hole!"

Ah, sweet memories of my own band days, and my own colorful band director, to whom anyone marching out of step or playing out of tune was a "meathead." But through the crucible of such abuse are truly fine marching bands born.

AND THEN, AS the band marched literally off into the setting sun, and the crowd vanished, I was left to find my way back home in the once again quiet evening — and to sort of wonder whether this remarkably fun interlude had actually happened.

(Editor's Note: The band Reporter Perin followed was the Hersey High School band which will represent this area at the Rose Bowl Parade next January.)

Dayton graduates marry Aug. 3 in Wayside church

A couple who recently graduated from the University of Dayton (Ohio) were married Aug. 3 in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. The bride is the former Cindy Prasnikar, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Prasnikar, 10 A. Salem Ave., Arlington Heights. Steven's parents are the Donald Muellers of Cincinnati.

Co-celebrants of the nuptial mass were the Rev. Jim Bartlett of Memphis, Tenn., and the Rev. Bob Marine of Cincinnati, both friends of the bride and groom. Another friend, John Habjan, SM, of Cincinnati, served as lector during the mass, and the groom's cousins, Bill Balzer Jr., Dan Klauka and Mark Mueller, were servers.

CINDY CHOSE HER sister, Tessie, as maid of honor. She was attired in a floral printed halter dress with a matching jacket trimmed in beige lace and carried a nosegay of mixed blooms.

Tina Mueller, the groom's sister, and Mary Kay Stearns of Arlington Heights were bridesmaids, wearing ensembles identical to the maid of honor's.

A Victorian gown of ivory organza trimmed in English lace was the bride's choice for her wedding day. She also wore an ivory-veiled rose-trimmed sheer picture hat and carried a bouquet of ivory cabbage roses edged in seed pearls, baby's breath and stephanotis.

BEST MAN FOR the double ring rites was Steve Ashbrook of Cincinnati, with Jeff Poulin and the groom's brother, Scott, as groomsmen.

The wedding guests were seated by the couple's brothers, Tim Mueller and Tom Prasnikar.

Afterwards there was a reception for 175 at the Arlington Park Towers. The couple then moved to Dayton. Cindy is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Sewing contest next Wednesday

Twenty-nine young seamstresses, ages 10 to 18, will be modeling their entries in the Singer Stylemaker Contest at Randhurst next Wednesday evening. The local finals will be held at 7:30 in the mall.

Judges will select winners from the junior division, ages 10-12, the intermediate division, 13-15, and the senior division, 16-18. The three winners in the local finals will be eligible to compete in the regional judging and may go on to the semi-finals and finals to be held in New York in November.

Her high school prom date becomes a lifetime escort

When Kenneth F. Kriskke Jr. escorted Patricia Ann Dabrowski to her high school senior prom, it was only the first of many key escort assignments which culminated July 20 when he escorted her from St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect as her bridegroom.

Both are graduates of Prospect High School. Pat in '71 and Ken in '69. Pat also studied at Illinois State University for two years and Ken studied at both Harper and Illinois State.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casimer Dabrowski, Mount Prospect, Pat and Ken, son of the Kenneth Kriskkes, Arlington Heights, were married in a 4 p.m. double ring service. Pat chose a white silk organza gown with Empire bodice and Venice lace appliques. The A-line skirt ended in a cathedral train. Her lace Camellia headpiece held a fingertip mantilla veil edged in lace, and she carried white mums, roses and baby's breath.

KATHIE DABROWSKI was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Cheryl Price, Berrien Springs, Mich.; Ellen Busse, Aurora; and Michelle Lussan, La Grange. They wore halter gowns and capes in an apricot, yellow and green floral print organza. Their flowers were apricot roses, white mums and daisies with baby's breath.

Jim Kriskke was his brother's best man. Ushers were Matt DeFano, Mount Prospect; Steve Hagg and Carl Rizzo, Arlington Heights; Rich Brix, Rolling Meadows; and the bride's brother, Joe.

A dinner reception for 200 was held in the Des Plaines Elks Club after which the newlyweds honeymooned a week in Burlington, Wis. They are now residing in Solon Mills, Ill. Pat is employed by the Golden Bear management office in Mount Prospect, and Ken is with Motorola, Schaumburg.

Hospital offers pre-natal class for couples

Registration is now being held for Alexian Brothers Medical Center's pre-natal courses scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 9. The classes are offered on both Monday and Wednesday evenings for six consecutive weeks.

Presented as a service to the community, the classes are open to expectant parents whether or not they are planning to have their babies at Alexian Brothers.

The course is one method of fulfilling the preparation requirements for fathers who wish to be present in the delivery room for the birth of their babies. Permission for the delivery room privilege must be obtained in advance from the obstetrician.

THE CLASSES are based on the Red Cross program of pre-natal instruction and are divided into six segments covering conception through the first several months of life. Information included in the course concerns prenatal care for the mother, food for the pregnant and nursing mother, clothing needs of the newborn and techniques for bathing the baby. A film of the birth process is also shown.

Members of the maternity department nursing staff conduct the classes which meet in the cafeteria on the ground floor of Alexian Brothers in Elk Grove Village at 7:30 p.m. on the six consecutive Monday and Wednesday evenings. Interested couples are encouraged to register immediately by calling 437-5360, ext. 594.

Picking, preparing garden goodies

Today I turn from plant grower to international harvester, for what is growing vegetables if the gardener doesn't know when to pick or what to do with the little goodies after picking?

When harvesting broccoli, cut off about three or four inches of the top, including the center head. This will stimulate further production of side shoots that you pick later. Harvest the heads before the florets separate. If kept picked and not allowed to flower, the plant will keep producing up until late fall or freeze-up. Tarragon, dill or caraway seed sprinkled on cooked broccoli improves the flavor.

Harvest carrots when they are thumb-size or larger. Their best flavor is when they are two inches in diameter.

Beets are delicious with a touch of all-spice, caraway seed, cloves, ginger, savory or mustard seed. Beyond three inches in diameter, beets have passed their peak of flavor.

ALTHOUGH SOME PEOPLE let a zucchini grow rampant so they can show off its gargantuan size, this squash tastes best when picked at four to six inches long.

When snap beans reach a good size but are still tender, that's the right time to pick them. If allowed to fully mature, beans will be tough and fibrous. As long as plants are kept picked, they will continue to bear beans all summer long. The flavor of snap beans is improved with a bit of mace, nutmeg or curry powder. Other popular species for beans include marjoram, mint, savory, mustard seed, oregano, thyme or tarragon.

Never lift the vines up high when you are harvesting cucumbers; this tends to tear the vines and reduce yields. Just roll the vines over, pick the fruit and let the vines roll back into place again.

Support the vine in one hand and pick peas with the other, to prevent damage to pea vines.

HARVEST OKRA when it is three inches long, no longer. Baby pods boiled 10 minutes or so are delicious with Hollandaise sauce.

Harvest peppers when they are firm to the touch. Unlike other vegetables, tiny peppers aren't very good. If you leave one-half inch of the stem on the pepper, it will store better.

I have a super tip for harvesting potatoes that allows me to pick potatoes without pulling up the entire plant. I plant my seed potatoes very shallow, just under the surface of the soil, then mulch with straw to a depth of three or four inches. About three weeks after the potato plant flowers, I move aside the straw mulch, feel around in the soil gently with my fingers and pick up potato stragglers. This allows me to keep my potatoes growing all summer as I garner enough for the table, fresh as I need them.

With this system of shallow planting, I have to be sure to replace the mulch, because potatoes left growing that become exposed to the sun will turn green, rendering them unfit for the table.

YOU CAN LEAVE turnips in the ground until freeze-up if you desire. For best flavor, harvest when the root is about two inches in diameter.

Pick summer squash when it is four to six inches long before the rind hardens,

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

and winter squash is ripe when it is hard to the fingernail, after the rind hardens.

Above all, don't overcook garden fresh vegetables. If instructions say, boil for 10 minutes, bring water to a boil first, then drop in the vegetables and simmer for 10 minutes. Overcooking makes vegetables soggy and destroys their attractive color. And to retain maximum color, simmer them in lots of water, preferably with no lid on the pot.

Let tomatoes ripen on the vine for best flavor. But if frost hits early, pick all green tomatoes, wrap each one in newspaper and store in the dark at about 65 degrees. They will ripen gradually. I did this last year and had garden tomatoes up until after Thanksgiving.

P.S. Don't forget about our "Big Tomato" contest running up until Sept. 15. Send reports care of "Big Tomato," Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Newcomers asked to coffee

Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club invites all new women residents to a hospitality coffee at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Pine Street entrance next Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Women who have lived in Mount Prospect less than 24 months, as well as present club members, are welcome. Baby-sitting services will be provided.

This organization is formed for the purpose of welcoming newcomers to the community, providing them with social activities, and giving them the opportunity to become acquainted with other new residents.

Programs and activities for the coming year will be presented by the new officers: president, Mrs. David Kennard; vice president, Mrs. James McCray; recording secretary, Mrs. Ira Jacobson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. David Norby; and treasurer, Mrs. William Hess.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Reuben Michaels, 253-6665, or Mrs. Leroy Hiler, 259-9078.

They met at Prospect basketball game

A romance that began during their high school days at Prospect culminated in marriage July 28 for Joan Selvaigio of Arlington Heights and Jack Christian Sales of Mount Prospect. They met at a basketball game when Joan was a sophomore and Chris a junior and have dated ever since.

HARVEST CORN when ear is black all the way to the tip (not tapered or sharp), and filled out with kernels that spurt milky juice when punctured. Cook or refrigerate the ears immediately after picking.

Both are '74 college graduates. The bride earned her degree from the International Fine Arts College, Miami, Fla., and the groom from Bradley University, Peoria.

The newllyweds will live in Washington, D.C., where Joan is working toward an executive training program at Garfinkel's Department Store and her husband will begin graduate work at the American University School of International Studies.

THE BRIDE'S parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith of 119 S. Rammer St. Parents of the groom are the Jack Muellers, 119 S. Owen St.

For the three o'clock ceremony in St. Raymond Catholic Church, Mount Prospect, the bride wore a white chiffon gown with a bodice of Alencon lace traced with pearls and crystals. Her elbow-length veil was held by a Juliet cap also covered with Alencon lace and pearls. Joan's bouquet was of yellow roses, white carnations and stephanotis.

Her attendants were all gowned alike but in four shades of the rainbow. Maid of honor Nancy Selvaigio, the bride's sister, wore a yellow princess-style dress with a flowered chiffon jacket. She carried matching daisies and carnations in her bouquet.

Palatine Hills will give golfers top tourney test

Bacon was selling for 39 cents a pound, according to one Paddock food ad.

"Kill the Umpire" was playing at the Star View outdoor theatre with William Bendix in the starring role.

And the Korean War began having more meaning to the newspaper's staff as Paddock's cartoonist was called overseas.

It was August of 1950 in the Northwest Suburbs. This was also the month when a little bit of area sports history was made at Mount Prospect Country Club — the first Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament began.

Seven teams participated in that inaugural event with Arlington Bank of the Arlington Heights League winning the title. Little did Bob Paddock, now executive vice president of the Herald newspaper chain, realize how large his tournament would become.

On hand to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the annual handicap event will be an all-time record field of 38 teams. They'll be competing for trophies, prizes and glory over the always challenging 18 holes of Palatine Hills Golf Course this Sunday.

This is the second time the testing park district layout has hosted the tournament. In 1969 a foursome from the Buffalo Grove Men's League solved the 6520-yard, par 72 course with a net 294.

The course was in pretty good shape then despite its newness. However, five years have made it even more enjoyable to play.

Flooding problems that plagued Ralph Lonergan, the course's manager, and Frank Krueger, the greens superintendent, in the past have almost been eliminated. Because of this improvement, only two holes will have to be played under winter rules this weekend — No. 18 and 16.

There are three holes — No. 6, 12 and 14 — that have some small bad spots. Golfers will be allowed a free drop in these areas.

All in all, Palatine's slightly hilly layout was very lush last week when I tried to play it for the hole-by-hole description. The greens held real well despite the long dry spell. Every lie I had in the fairway was good.

The greens were even larger than I could remember, leaving me several three-putts.

Before I teed it up, I was warned by the course personnel that the sand traps lacked the proper amount of sand because of the cement strike. They were hard to blast out of, so a special rule will be in effect for the tournament — a golfer is allowed to rake the spot and then roll the ball of his palm onto the smoothed out area.

Possibly the biggest problem facing the high handicappers will be the openness of the course. Few fairways are tight, allowing golfers to blast away without too much fear. However, getting into this careless habit could cost them dearly on several of the holes where precision is paramount.

Paul

One welcomed addition since the last Paddock tourney was played are the 150-yard markers. The little white stakes resemble out-of-bounds markers, but there's one difference — each has "150" written on it.

Here is the hole-by-hole description:

No. 1, Par 4, 380 Yards — From the elevated tee, the hole is deceptively difficult as a starting point. Trouble follows anyone who goes too far right with tree and creek problems. If you've warmed up properly, a solidly hit drive down the middle or slightly to the left will set up the hole. But how many high handi-the fairway trap, your troubles aren't over. A large pond awaits errant second shots, protecting the elevated green. Staying to the right all the way may bring a par here.

No. 7, Par 3, 170 Yards — That same pond is the problem again, psychologically at least. Your drive should only cut across the right edge unless you tight, slightly doglegged right fairway. Water down the left side and trees on both sides make it an ideal finishing hole.

The back nine is also a par 36. In terms of yardage, the second nine — measuring from the white middle tees — is slightly longer, 3270 to 3250. Helping give it the distance edge are the longest par 3 and par 5 on the course. However, several short holes make up for it. I found the backside slightly easier, but maybe I was just beginning to warm up.

No. 10, Par 4, 390 Yards — Simply put, stay to the right! Plenty of timber and that creek that possibly will bother you on No. 9 is back again on the 10th. It's hard enough as it is without battling wood and water.

No. 11, Par 4, 350 Yards — By playing down the left side of the fairway to this medium par 4, you can avoid its only obstacles — a trap off the tee and another guarding the green. A par here will put you in the right frame of mind for the lengthy holes to come.

No. 12, Par 5, 540 Yards — Besides the out-of-bounds which escorts you most of the way on Palatine's longest hole, a row of trees as well as a trap off the right edge of the green could balloon scores. The trees come into play after the second shot, so a straight fairway wood or long iron is vital.

No. 13, Par 3, 205 Yards — Having back-to-back lengthy holes will thoroughly test most of the handicappers. Some will have to use drivers on this giant par 3. But don't pull your shot for the out-of-bounds can be reached on the far left.

No. 14, Par 4, 405 Yards — Depending on the pin placement, this could be a hard or super hard par 4. A giant trap does an excellent job of forcing players to keep to the right, but a small stand of timber stops golfers from straying too far right.

No. 15, Par 5, 490 Yards — Unless you've got a terrible hook, this hole will be a breather after the last three. An average player will have a short pitch shot if he hits two decent woods on this dogleg left hole. The rough and dead tree will keep some from cutting off yardage.

No. 16, Par 4, 385 Yards — You'll think of the ninth when you reach this testy stretch of real estate. Besides being tight and having water and tree trouble, an out-of-bounds on the left might force some to go to an iron off the tee. However, playing too safe may make this hole play even longer.

No. 17, Par 3, 135 Yards — Although the shortest of the 18, this hole could cause problems for high handicappers because of a pond. A poorly hit short iron can land on the other side of the water and roll back into it.

No. 18, Par 4, 370 Yards — For water worriers, this isn't the fitting finishing hole. Even low handicappers must beware. The big hitters might have to use long irons or 3 or 4 woods because of the target area — guarded on three sides by a pond (on the left), creek (across the fairway) and trees (on the right). If you survive that first shot, the creek (which follows the fairway on the left past the green), trees bordering the left and a sandtrap on the front left of the green will scare hookers.

Tourney times, pairings on P. 7 cappers are ever that warmed up on the first hole?

No. 2, Par 4, 400 Yards — This is a wide open hole. However, a row of trees about 190 to 210 yards out could present problems. Out-of-bounds lurks near the left side of the green.

No. 3, Par 5, 505 Yards — A nightmare for hookers is the only way to describe this dogleg left fairway. "OB" waits for players all the way to the green on the left. Two strategically placed traps guard teeshot landing areas and misplaced approach shots.

No. 4, Par 3, 150 Yards — This is the easiest of the two par threes on the front nine, but a large trap on the left edge could ruin many plans for par.

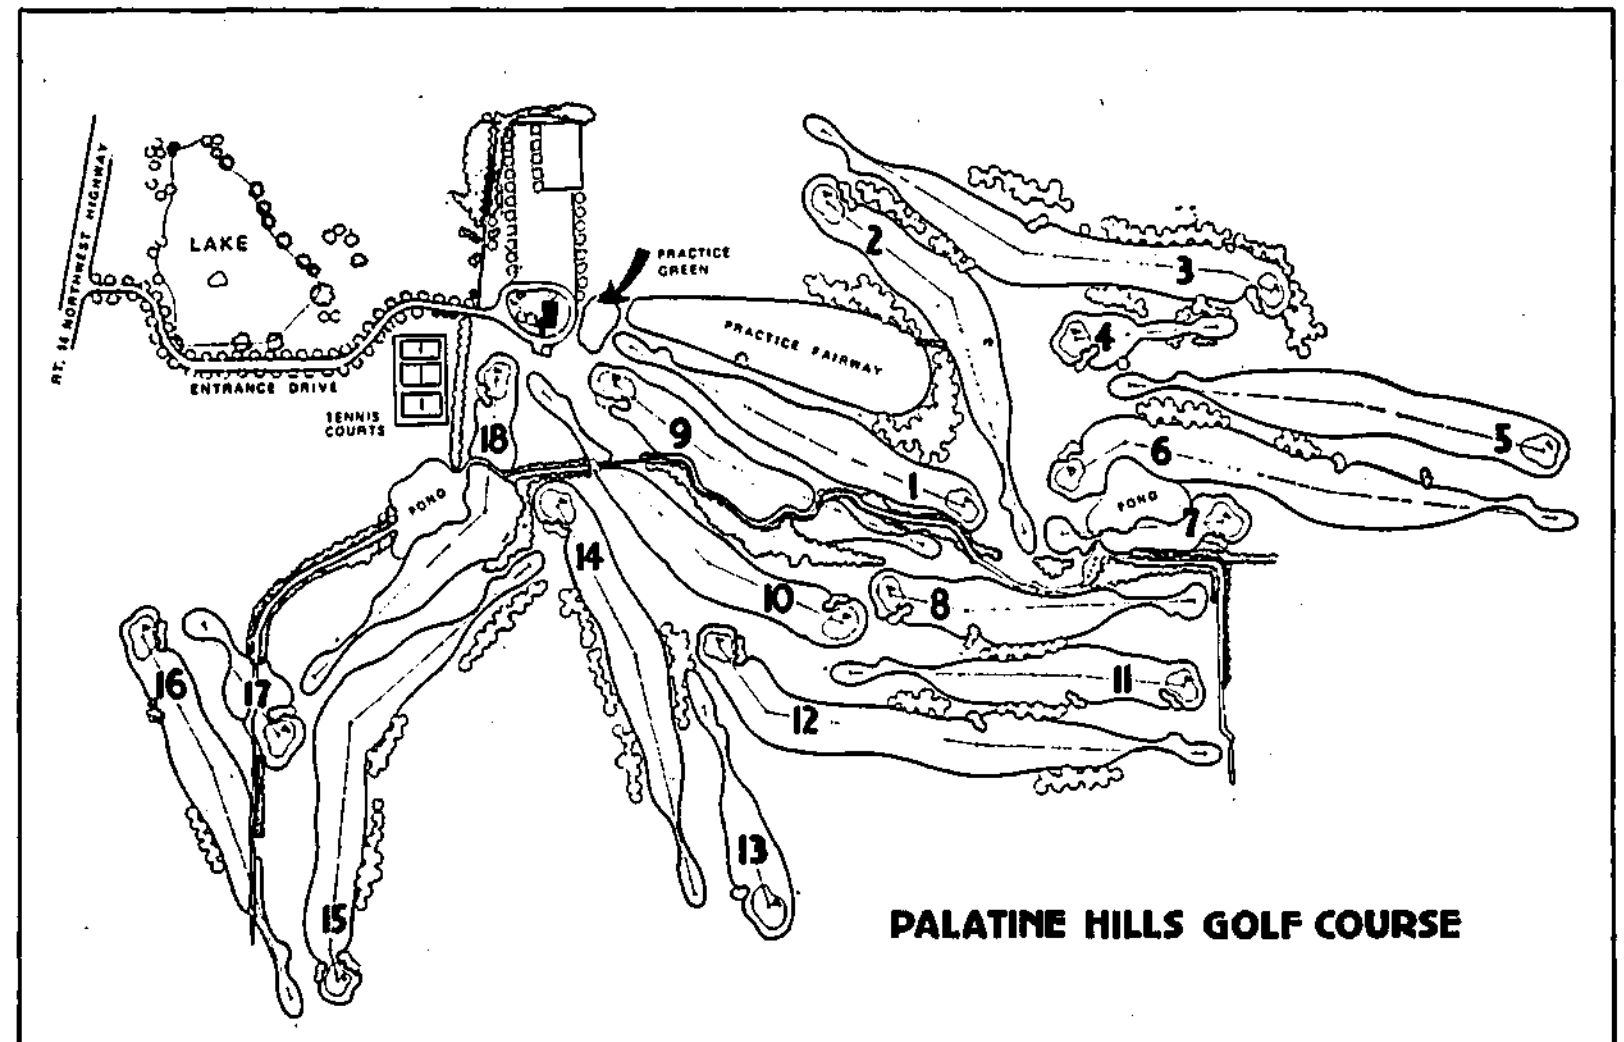

No. 5, Par 4, 410 Yards — You must drive the hill to see the green for your second on this the longest par four. If you crush two straight shots, you can reach the green — the widest and largest. Too long an approach shot will find the woods behind the green.

No. 6, Par 5, 525 Yards — If you miss goof, and many people do. A trap and a small creek, both on the right of the fairway, can also bring on the bogeys.

No. 8, Par 4, 320 Yards — Big drivers can improve their scores here, but only if they stay to the left. The right side has a slowly drying creek and trees.

No. 9, Par 4, 360 Yards — Accuracy is everything here. Some might use a long iron off the tee to avoid the trees on this ARTIST'S RENDERING of Hat Trick Ice Arena, now the largest clear span arena in the country, ranking behind only home of the Chicago Warriors hockey team in Villa Park. It will open later this month and is the third largest Athletic Convocation Center.

Hat Trick Arena to open

The Hat Trick Ice Arena, new home of the United States Hockey League Chicago Warriors, is scheduled to open later this month in Villa Park.

The $3 million dollar facility is unique in the Chicago area, having three rinks for all-season skating under one roof — two regulation size hockey rinks measuring 85 by 200 feet plus a mezzanine level studio rink.

The Hat Trick was developed by noted church designer Emil Greco and is located on Villa Avenue, just a few blocks north of North Avenue.

The building is the first in the "Villa Olympic Sports Complex." Also on the drawing boards are an eight-court tennis club, a swimming club with indoor and outdoor pools, a health club and a domed hockey arena, to seat between 9,000 and 12,000, that will serve as the Warriors' permanent home.

Coached by former Chicago Black Hawks star Gene Ubriaco, the Warriors are entering their third year of play. The team played its first season in the Chicago Stadium and spent last winter at many Chicago arena rinks.

Warrior ticket prices will be set at $3 for general admission and $4 for reserved seats. The south rink, where the Warriors will play, will seat 4,500 fans for each of the team's 24 home games and approximately 6,000 for non-hockey events.

When the Warriors are not playing, the south rink will host concerts, closed circuit coverage of sporting events and other stage shows.

An agreement has been reached between Greco and Triangular Productions to stage between 30 and 60 popular music concerts and theatre productions per year in the Hat Trick.

The Hat Trick will be the largest building in DuPage County and the third largest clear span arena in the country, ranking only behind Houston's Astrodome and Notre Dame University's Athletic Convocation Center.

Hat Trick measures 344 by 252 feet with over 110,000 square feet of usable space. Parking for 1,500 cars with modern, outdoor lighting will also be provided.

Information about Hat Trick events, including Warrior games, may be obtained by calling the stadium at 633-3113.

Glad-handed eagers

Bob Cousy, as a standout guard for the Boston Celtics in 1959, set a new mark for the most assists in one game with 28. Guy Rodgers of the Chicago Bulls set the record for the most assists in a season with 908 during the 1966-67 campaign.

Hersey slates registration

All athletes planning on participating in the fall sports of golf, football and cross country at John Hersey High School are asked to register this Saturday.

The registration timetable calls for seniors from 8:45 a.m. to 10:15 a.m., juniors from 10:15 to 11:30 a.m., sophomores from 11:30 to 12:15 p.m. and freshmen from 12:15 to 1:00 p.m.

Prospective athletes must have completed physical examination forms and parent consent slips at the time of registration.

Arlington girls sports sets fall registration

The girls athletic program at Arlington High School will get off the ground for the 1974-75 season with fall registration from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday at the high school. This is the same time and date as for boys registration.

Opening practices for girls sports are as follows: Archery on Monday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.; tennis on Monday from noon to 3 p.m.; and gymnastics on Monday, Aug. 26, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

The first day of practice in all three sports is open on a tryout basis.

Tourney deadline nearing

It takes a lot of cooperation among high school athletic departments to make Paddock Publications tennis tournament possible. Seven high schools are involved this year, Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Forest View, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling, plus Harper College.

Careful scheduling had to be planned with the high schools because of the opening of the school year Wednesday, Aug. 28. Notification of reservation signs have been placed at all of the courts involved.

The tournament will be held Aug. 26, 27, 28, 31 and Sept. 1-2. Anyone can enter. Entry blank is appearing several times in the Herald, the Weekend Suburbanite and TV Time distributed with the Herald each Friday.

Entries can also be picked up at any Paddock Publications offices in Arlington Heights, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

Deadline for entry is Aug. 21.

Keyser keeps Pinkos atop league

J. Keyser had a 36 for low gross in the latest action of the Mount Prospect Friday Twilight Golf League.

Dick Hunsinger and Roger Van Wazer tied for low net with a 32, while birdies were recorded by Al Giso, Chuck Lynch, Russ Tripp and Dick Mack.

Keyser, M. Menhart, B. Pinkos and R. Swyer are members of the first place Bruno Pinkos Prudential Insurance team which holds a 2½ point lead over Clayton Court Apartments in the league standings.

Warriors to begin running Monday

Maine West High School's cross country team will begin practice at the school on Monday, Aug. 19 at 4 p.m. Boys interested in running on the team this fall should report to the indoor track for locker assignment.

Maine West is the defending Central Suburban Conference cross country champion on both the varsity and freshman levels. The Warriors swept through the conference with an unblemished 11-0 mark and finished the season with a 20-1 overall record, with Conant the only team to defeat them. Invitational victories came at Waukegan, Ridgewood and Libertyville.

The Warriors will open the 1974 campaign on Saturday, Sept. 7 at 9:30 a.m. with the ten-team Crystal Lake Invitational at Veterans Acres Park in Crystal Lake. Freshmen will run a two-mile course and the upper classmen a three-mile route.

Newcomers feature twin victors

Dottie Fisher was a double winner in the first flight of action in the Arlington Heights Newcomers Golf League. She carded a 51 to take low gross honors, as well as having the least number of putts with 14.

Vonnie Sutter had low net with a 35 and Eileen Moynihan won the weekly event of "most fours" with two. Marilyn Riles birdied the par three 12th hole, and scored a single par along with Ben Dunn, Fisher, Jan Gustafson, Sutter and June Terry.

In second flight play, Mary Ann Sears had a low gross with 50 while tying Esther Wheeler for low net with a 37. Ann Zemper had low putts for the flight with 16, and Jeri Buffum won the weekly event of "most fours" with two. Pars were racked up by Bev Huey, Wanda Berry, Mary Beth Lakshmanan and Sears.

Sis Shire took double laurels in the third flight, scoring 61 and 30 in the low gross and low net categories, respectively. Sue Coffey won the "most fours" event for this flight, and tied Judy Reeh for low putts with 19.

Another double-winner was Terry Zimmerman in the fourth flight, shooting a 69 for low gross and 33 for low net. Mary Beth Hungen carded the only par in the flight and tied Zimmerman for low putts with 16. Helen McCall won the "most fours" event.

R.P. Coleman puts lock on twilight crown

R. P. Coleman and Co. won seven points from Mount Prospect Jewelers in the Monday night section of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League and has the league championship sewn up with a 20½ point lead over second place Village Realty and just two weeks of play left.

Jim Brennan carded a low gross of 38 and low net went to Stan Deming with a 40-12-28. Individual point leaders for the year are Brennan, Dave Williams and Ron Trochuck, each with 18½.

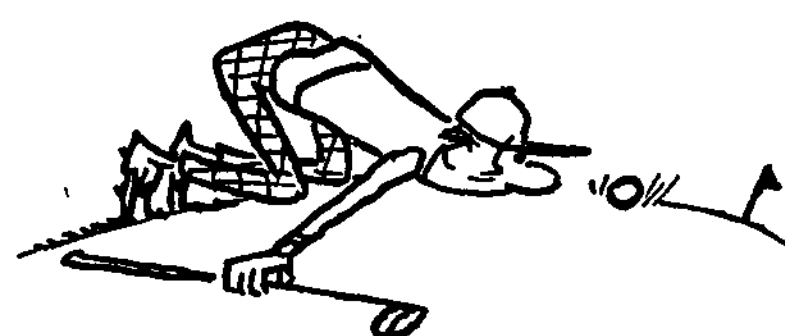

John Engbreton scored a pair of birdies, while Rolla Carrel, Herb Scott, Howard Bersted, Bud Goodling, Ray Projahn and Cliff Reany each turned the trick once.

Hussissians move into 3rd as Baird & Warner roll on Mike Graft carded a 37 to lead the Hussissian & Associates golf team to five out of seven points in a duel with C. P. Floors last Friday night in the Old Orchard Scratch League.

For their efforts, the Hussissians moved into third place in the team standings.

Marty Kolar's two under par 34 that featured seven pars and two birdies, led the way to six points by Team No. 8 over Bob Burrows Chevrolet. A win by Chris Lordots gave the Chevrolet team their only point.

Sauganash Corporation, led by Tom Wallace's team-leading 38, took 4½ points from Miles & Miles Insurance. The Miles contingent, despite 38s by Waara and Meyers, have been unable to gain any ground in the league race.

Baird & Warner Realty continued its winning ways taking 4½ points from Team No. 7. Bob Kronn's par 36 score consisted of three bogies, three pars and three birdies.

The Realty group now enjoys a 20 point lead over the rest of the league entries.

Winners of Tullist balls for closest-to-the-pin shots on par three holes were Kolar, Russ Bedford, Jim Nolan and George Jiminez.

Mt. Prospect golfers shine at NIMAGA Open

Craig Ridley and Rick Reed, both of Mount Prospect, finished third and fourth, respectively, in the Senior Boys division of the Northern Illinois Amateur Golf Association Junior Open at St. Andrews Country Club Monday.

Ridley shot a 33 and 40 for an 18 hole total of 73, while Reed fired a 32 and 42 for a 74 total. Ken Kuhn of Schererville won the event with a 70.

In the Junior Boys category, Mount Prospect's Don Snelton finished with a 38 and 39 for a 77 total, four strokes off the winning pace set by Steve Daly of St. Charles.

Canadian issue honors Mennonites

The second 8-cent adhesive in Canada's multicultural series, to be issued Aug. 28, commemorates the contributions of ethnic groups to the growth of the prairie provinces.

The release coincides with the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the Mennonite settlers in Manitoba.

The Mennonite religion originated in Switzerland during the Reformation. The movement spread to the Netherlands but there met intense efforts to stamp it out. Persecuted also in East Prussia and Southern Russia, it was not until 1874 that its followers found refuge and welcome in the provinces of Canada.

The stamp was designed by Will Davies of Toronto. Twenty-eight million are being printed in four-color lithography.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations should send their requests to The Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ont., Canada K1A 0B5. Send your remittance, to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed plus a 15-cent handling charge for each cover to be affixed with less than 50-cents postage, by international bank draft payable (in Canadian funds) to The Receiver General for Canada.

THE FOLLOWING commemorative stamps and postal stationery will be withdrawn from sale by the Philatelic Sales Division on Sept. 30:

- Progress in Electronics (four denominations)
- 8-cent Robinson Jeffers, Willa Cather, Henry Tanner and Lyndon B. Johnson
- 6-cent John Hansen postal card
- 6-cent U.S. Centennial postal card
- 15-cent Ballooning aerogramme

Orders for the above items must be postmarked by Sept. 30 and, for expedited service on these items only, should be sent to September Withdrawals, Philatelic Sales Division, Washington, D.C. 20036. The usual 50-cent handling charge must be included.

New book tells profit 'how-to'

A fabulous new book, "High Profits from Rare Coin Investments" by Q. David Bowers, is now on the market. Filled with facts, figures and other useful information, this 206-page book is available to all who hope to make a profit from their coins.

Bowers and the staff of Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, tell the secrets of investment success: how they have made fortunes for many of their clients and how you can realize greater profits from the buying and selling of rare coins. The author, writing in a lively and interesting manner, furnishes what may well be one of the most realistic and sensible guides to coin investments ever published.

Drawing on his experience of handling tens of millions of dollars worth of coins, including some of the finest collections ever sold and practically every variety, Bowers gives you information not readily available in other books.

Some chapters in "High Profits from Rare Coin Investments" are "Introduction to Coin Investments," "Advantages of Coin Investments," "Investing in Gold Coins," and "Investing in Coins of the World."

Supported by charts, illustrations and photographs, this book sells for $3.95 and may be ordered directly from the publishers: Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, Inc., 8822 Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. 90028 — Postpaid.

WHITMAN'S 1975 28th Edition of "A Guide Book of United States Coins" by R. S. Yeoman has just been released. The annually revised book is the most up-to-date pricing guide on all U.S. coins.

The "Red Book" as it is affectionately known, contains accurate information about pieces from Colonial to Territorial gold coins and serves as an annual report on day-to-day market conditions. Prices in the book are compiled by a panel of over 50 professional numismatic contributors representing every level of the coin industry and every geographical section of the country.

Collecting coins

by Mort Reed

Dramatic changes in coin values are the most striking features of this year's edition. Almost every U.S. coin has increased in value and many select pieces have reached fantastic levels.

A study of modern proof sets is included in this year's special nine-page editorial section. Information on the values and amounts of these sets produced in the past 25 years is tabulated and the correct procedure for obtaining these sets directly from the mint is outlined.

This 256-page hardbound edition marks another milestone in U.S. coinage history and is a most necessary reference for both the experienced and the inexperienced coin collectors. If it is not available in your local book store or coin shop, mail $3 plus $1 postage and handling to "Red Book," Western Publishing Co., Racine Wis., 53401.

Venture Realty Co.

2020 E. Camp McDonald Rd., Mount Prospect 298-2155

In today's real estate market, a field that boasts many fine firms, Venture Realty Co. has made an impressive beginning. Easily identified by the signs with a bluebird in a nest, the "Bluebird of Happiness" is more than just a symbol of this fledgling company; it is the embodiment of a philosophy being pioneered by its founders.

When broker Al Van Maren and sales managers Bob Barrett and Paul Kolaski opened their doors on March 1, 1974, they dedicated themselves to providing imaginative and innovative service in all phases of home buying and selling.

Ethics, integrity, professionalism and traditional techniques soon became part of each new sales associate's background as he participated in regularly scheduled in-service training classes and sales workshops. In addition to these principles and ideals, the sales force is equipped with the latest and most complete listing and selling aids.

An additional plus program that is a benefit, not only to the sales personnel but also the customer, is the installation of two-way Motorola radio control units in all cars of Venture's sales personnel.

Venture Realty's central location at 2020 Camp McDonald Rd. in Mount Prospect provides coverage for buyers and sellers throughout the northwest suburban area. Venture is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, The Northwest Suburban Computerized Multiple Listing Service and MAP Multiple Listing Service. To maximize market exposure, Venture has instituted large scale advertising in The Herald and in the classified section of the Chicago newspapers as well as the MAP catalog of homes.

Sellers are offered a free Competitive Market Analysis to assist in setting a proper price; a brochure entitled "21 Keys to Selling Your Home," which is a checklist to prepare a home for marketing and some of the do's and don'ts of home selling; and a pamphlet of moving tips so some of those important steps are not forgotten. All can be obtained with no obligation by simply calling.

Venture's greatest new concept is its Five Sixty-Seven Program. This is an attempt to pass valuable advertising savings along to the seller without jeopardizing the cooperation of other firms. This program also maximizes the efforts of Venture's staff to sell their own listings. The program features a sliding commission scale of 5 percent to 7 percent.

Here's how it works: if a home listed by Venture is sold within one calendar month by a Venture associate, the commission is only 5 percent . . . if sold within two calendar months by one of Venture's salespersons, the commission is 6 percent . . . if sold within three calendar months or more, the commission then becomes the listed 7 percent. While giving the seller the best possible return on his investment, the program maintains cooperation from other brokers by requiring a full listed commission if the home is sold by another Realtor. Additionally, when one of Venture's associates sell a company listing, they receive a 5 percent bonus plus their commission.

"To date, the program has been very successful. Many of our clients have saved valuable dollars," said Van Maren. "Our heavy advertising program plus a bonus to Venture associates selling our own listings is the reason for its working. To date we have sold a great deal of our own listings."

The sales force at Venture now numbers 12 in the residential sales department and two in the commercial sales division. At this time, plans are underway for an accredited real estate school and additional offices throughout the suburbs.

Venture Realty Co.'s office is at 2020 E. Camp McDonald Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Safeco has new offices in Plaza

Safeco Corp. has elevated its downtown Chicago service office to division status and moved into four floors of the eight-story Woodfield Plaza Building at the corner of Golf and Meacham Roads in Schaumburg.

The Schaumburg division, Safeco's newest, is presently staffed by 170 employees, headed by Division Manager Dan McLean. Initially, the division will serve over 300 Illinois insurance agents.

Future plans call for the division to expand its geographic responsibility to several other Midwest states.

Realtor explains impact of money shortage crisis

What is the impact of the present money shortage on sellers?

"The shortage of the money supply is reducing the demand for individual property since fewer buyers are capable of purchasing the seller's property," explains Joe Hagee, vice chairman of Mitchell Brothers Realtors. "Any time fewer buyers are bidding for a given piece of property, the property will not command as much value in exchange as it would otherwise."

"Further," Hagee said, "the recent change in the Usury Law from 8 per cent to 9 1/2 per cent has the practical effect of increasing monthly mortgage payments for the buyer who is capable of obtaining a mortgage commitment. For example, a $30,000 mortgage will cost over $30 per month more this week than it would have last week at the old interest rates. If one were to capitalize this increase in monthly payments ($600 per year) at 9 1/2 per cent, the result would be nearly a $8,000 value penalty. Thus, the present owners of real estate may find that the value of their property, at least in the short run, may have decreased 6 to 7 per cent due to the interest rate change. Therefore, between the two converging factors of the shortage of money and the higher interest rates, fewer buyers are in the market this week than last and these fewer buyers are going to be willing to pay less this week than they were last week. The dynamics of the real estate market place today are such that the seller, perhaps more than ever, needs professional guidance from a realtor in making selling decisions," Hagee claims.

Sales volume of existing single-family homes for June dipped 6.3 per cent below the level for the same month last year, reports the National Association of Realtors.

This marks the ninth time in 11 months that sales volume — the number of units sold — failed to equal or surpass the pace of the corresponding month a year earlier.

All regions of the nation reported declining market activity in June. Two-thirds (63.9 per cent) of the 123 market areas surveyed by the National Association reported slumping sales. This surpassed the previous low established last December when 63.1 per cent of reporting areas had a decline for the month.

However, the slump in sales activity has not resulted in lower prices. Median cost of an existing home in June was $32,860, compared with $29,220 for the same month a year ago — an increase of 12.5 per cent. This marked the fourth consecutive month that the year-to-year price rise exceeded 10 per cent. Prices reported are for those homes which actually sold during the month.

NORTHEAST REGION

NORTH CENTRAL REGION

1974 - $28,180
1973 - $25,280

SOUTHERN REGION

1974 - $33,050

WESTERN REGION

1974 - $35,420
1973 - $31,480

By price class, 71.5 per cent of existing single-family homes sold in June cost $25,000 or more; 22 per cent were in the $15,000 to $24,999 range; and 6.5 per cent, less than $15,000. Figures follow a long-term trend during which sales in the highest price class have increased and those in the middle and lower classes have decreased.

Baird and Warner reports gain in dollar volume, steady in sales

Baird & Warner, Inc. has reported that dollar volume for June, 1974, was ahead of June, 1973, while sales production was virtually even.

For the month, the company registered volume of $20,282,643 on the basis of 335 sales compared with $19,637,883 and 337 sales last June.

Despite an erratic mortgage and construction market, performance for the six months through June held up well, the company reported. Participation in 2,242 sales generated a dollar volume of $138,428,218. At the same point a year ago the company chalked up 2,269 sales participations which produced a slightly higher dollar volume of $131,477,243.

The residential sales division posted 317 sales in June, identical with the production a year ago, but produced a dollar volume of $17,533,327, a gain for the month of $1,870,714 over last year's $15,662,558, according to Robert G. Walters, vice president and general sales manager for the division.

Six branch offices topped $1 million in volume for the month. They include Downers Grove, Geneva, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palos Heights and Barrington.

BETTENDORF CASTLE, located in Fox River Grove, is being sold by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wren of Highland Park through the Chicago office of Previews Inc., the international real estate marketing service. The dream child of Ted Bettendorf, the castle is a miniature replica of a medieval fortress in his home town of Vianden, Luxembourg. Containing five rooms, the castle is presently being rented to honeymooners.

Old World castle replica on sale in Fox River Grove

For millions of new comers landing on these shores their dreams have involved freedom, wealth and opportunity. For Theodore Bettendorf, steeped in the craftsmanship of the Old World, the dream was to recreate an ancient medieval fortress he played in as a child in his native Vianden, Luxembourg.

According to Robert Reilly, vice president in charge of the Chicago office of Previews Inc., the international real estate marketing service, "Ted Bettendorf engaged in a labor of love for 36 years until his death in 1967. Before he died he fulfilled his ambition with the completion of 'Bettendorf Castle,' a miniature replica of the original."

Located in Fox River Grove, the castle was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wren, both antique dealers, in 1968. Intrigued by the unusual castle that they had seen unnumbered times, the Wrens, residents of Highland Park, have been renting it to honeymooners for the past six years. Finding the burden of maintaining the castle and running an antique shop too great, the Wrens recently turned to Previews to sell the fortress-cum-lover's retreat. While any new owner could continue to use the castle in this manner, Robert Reilly also feels that it "could be in great demand by advertising and film companies seeking an unusual location for shooting. Of course, any corporation seeking a really unique guest house for out-of-town clients would do well to investigate the castle for this purpose. Imagine what an impression this charming haven would make and what a great way to begin business discussions."

Indeed, the castle has been making a great impression for years on local residents and passers-by. Whether it has been its uniqueness or its romantic aura is hard to say, but any building in this country that has a moat and a functioning drawbridge is certain to draw a great deal of attention. Enclosed by stone walls, the interior was redecorated by the Wrens who used many furnishings more reminiscent of King Arthur's Roundtable than the decor associated with most American homes.

Containing just five rooms, the castle's upper level has a living room done with walnut paneled walls, exposed beam ceilings and a fireplace. For romantic candle lit dinners there is an exquisite dining room for two (literally so, since the room measures 6'x11'). The castle's single bedroom is spacious and has a most unusual bath where two of the castle's four turrets are used for a shower room and other conveniences. The lower level contains an authentic Knight's Hall, complete with a turret holding a suit of armor. Used as a recreation room, the Knight's Hall has a bar, cedar paneling and an alcove with a game table.

While the architecture of the castle is pure Middle Ages, the Wrens have taken great pains to modernize the facilities adding central air conditioning, a stereo system that pipes music throughout the rooms and complete modernizing of the kitchen. Of course, even with this bow in the direction of the 20th Century, Bettendorf Castle still maintains an air of romanticism with its turrets, gnarled oak trees, flower gardens, stone walls, archways and a real wishing well.

The Wrens, who bought the castle simply because they "fell in love with it," are obviously reluctant to part with it. Sympathizing with them, Mr. Reilly hopes to "find a buyer who will feel about the castle the way the Wrens do, and, of course, the way Ted Bettendorf did."

If you're tired of renting a lemon, buy a strawberry.

There's one thing about renting a place to live. It leaves you with a sour taste the first of every month.

That's why Strawberry 1 is such a treat.

Instead of rent money you'll never see again, it's equity money in your own condominium.

But ownership is only part of the story. You'll enjoy living at Strawberry 1. Something that may not be true where you are now.

First, there's the design. Strawberry 1 was conceived for the individualist. Plenty of room for idiosyncrasies, for privacy to kick off your shoes and enjoy beamed ceilings, a fireplace, and a loft bedroom.

Outside there's room to breathe. Sit on your own sun-deck, or stroll around the community lake. Each unit is natural wood and faces discreetly away from your neighbor's windows.

Then there's the people of Strawberry 1. The real clinchers for moving in. They are individuals who like and respect each other. People you'd like to meet around the pool, or play bridge with in the recreation center.

Strawberry 1 condominiums begin at $24,950. You can move in for $1,250, which is only 5% down. The sales office is open daily 10-9, Saturday 10-6, Sunday 10-7. Call us at (312) 473-1882.

So think about it. Why go through the sour rent routine every month when the rewards of Strawberry 1 are so sweet.

ADDRESSING THE Annen & Busse, Inc. organization at their annual sales meeting was Mrs. Lydia Franz, owner of The Country Squire, Realtors in Barrington. Mrs. Franz is shown with Edward J. Busse, president of Annen & Busse, Inc. Mrs. Franz is also president of the Barrington Chamber of Commerce and is on the Board of Directors of the Illinois Association of Realtors as well as the Board of Governors for the Homes For Living Network. In addition, she is on the Board of Governors of the Real Estate Institute and on the editorial staff of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

Association of Realtors reports that prices of homes are up again

Statistics compiled by the Department of Economics and Research of the National Association of Realtors reveals that the percentage of existing single-family homes sold in lower price ranges during the second quarter of 1974 was down sharply from 1973 and 1972 and from the first quarter of 1974.

This means that the supply of homes at prices below $30,000 is dwindling, the department explained. During the second quarter, 55.3 per cent of the existing home sales were for prices above $30,000. In the second quarter of 1973, 46.2 per cent of the sales were in the higher price categories.

The statistics, based upon reports from 123 market areas, also revealed that the median price of homes sold during the second 1974 quarter was $32,210, up 11.7 per cent from the $28,830 reported for the same period in 1973 and 18.9 per cent from the $28,880 figure for existing single-family homes in 1972.

Again, percentage increases for the second quarter were greater than those in the first, the Association noted. During the first quarter of 1974, the median price was $30,880, up 10.1 per cent from the 1973 level of $27,960 and 15 per cent from 1972.

R. J. Faddis Joins Arlington Financial

Paul J. Bruck, president of Arlington Financial Services Inc., recently announced the addition of Roy J. Faddis of Justice, Ill., to the company's financial planning team.

Prior to joining the Arlington Heights financial counseling company, Faddis was a plant engineer for Litton Industries and worked for General Foods, Inc., as a project engineer. He also has served as a captain in the Army.

Faddis holds a bachelor's degree from the United States Military Academy at West Point, and is attending Northwestern University for his master's in business administration.

With cooler season coming, start conserving energy now

"Although it is still outdoor season, the first autumn chills aren't far away. It isn't a moment too soon to be considering ways to save energy in your home."

So say home experts at Esmark, Inc., Chicago, a company with major interests in energy, as well as foods, chemicals and financial services.

"While dining al fresco on the terrace — cold cuts, refreshing salads and an iced beverage — give some thought to the fact that energy conservation is still very much with us."

Approximately 5 per cent of the nation's total energy is wasted in the home, which also represents wasted money.

"It behooves the consumer to make some necessary adjustments," Esmark points out.

He offers some recommendations for more efficient use of precious energy:

- Since heating takes a large slice of the energy pie, take measures to reduce the amount of heated air that escapes. Besides lowering the thermostat, we can install tight-fitting storm windows and doors. This alone will cut the heat loss by one-half.

- If the garage is attached to the house, keep its door closed. Lower window shades and pull draperies at night and also in unused rooms. Take advantage of solar heat during the day and expose rooms to sunlight.

- Use the oven to capacity. When preparing only one item, a small portable appliance is more efficient. Avoid unnecessary opening of the oven door. Skip preheating whenever possible.

- Know what you are looking for before you open the refrigerator door. It's a big energy consumer in the home.

- Close the damper on the fireplace when not in use.

- Limit use of electric blankets and kitchen and bathroom exhaust fans.

- Leaking faucets should be given prompt attention. Much water can be wasted this way.

- Three-way light bulbs and dimmer switches provide flexibility and make it easy to adjust the amount of light according to the need.

- Do household tasks requiring more light during daylight hours.

- As decorating is done, select light colors which will reflect more light.

"If each household in the U.S. cut back on energy consumption 5 per cent, it would be a savings equivalent to supplying energy to more than 2 million households," Esmark concludes.

Life is just a bowl of cherries.

Unless you're poor. Or sick. Or unemployed. Or all three.

Converted condos or new, consider these key factors

A question that perplexes many condominium buyers is whether to buy in a brand-new building or invest in a condominium converted from a former rental building hoping for better value.

"There are no hard and fast rules; you have to look at each building individually," advises William D. Sally, CPM, vice president and general manager of the property management division of Baird & Warner, Inc.

"A converted building that was well-built originally and has been well-maintained can be a good buy, particularly if it's in a good location and has a variety of good room layouts," he said.

To help you evaluate a converted condominium, Sally offers the following checklist:

1. Is it well located? This is the basic consideration in buying any piece of property and the prime determinant of value. A building that's close to shopping, transportation, employment, schools, parks, the library, churches and other community features has a lot going for it.
2. Is it relatively new? If the building is a few years old, chances are it has more up-to-date features and has undergone less wear than an older building. Some buildings were built recently enough to be completely modern, and yet far enough back to boast high quality workmanship. Rooms and hallways are generally more spacious in older buildings.

3. How well has the property been maintained? You can check this out by looking at the building and grounds. Is the exterior fresh-appearing? Are the public areas, such as halls and elevators, clean and neat?

In the condominium apartment itself, check to see that doors and windows operate properly. Test faucets and light switches. Is the apartment well painted? Ask for an engineer's report on the conditions of the building's heating and cooling systems, and inspect the heating plant and basement for evidence of good care.

"Building maintenance is one of the on-going costs that every condominium owner has to contend with," Sally notes. "The better maintained a converted building is, the less costly it will be to maintain it later."

4. What's being done to upgrade the building to condominium standards? Is money being spent to decorate the lobby, halls, and elevators, recarpet halls, improve landscaping, or improve individual apartments with new carpeting and appliances? Is it being done now or just promised?

Is a hospitality room or other amenities being provided for the convenience of the owners?

5. Are the apartments spacious and well-planned? In most older buildings, apartments are comparatively larger, because building costs were lower in those days. The efficiency of the floor plan is something you'll have to check closely.

What other features does the building offer that are important to you? On-site parking is one of the most important. Good storage facilities is another.

7. Is the building designed and equipped for air conditioning? Some older buildings have no air conditioning sleeves, so that air conditioners have to be placed in window openings, thus blocking the view. Will wiring carry or support the additional load?

8. How many former rental residents are staying? This is a good clue to the building's livability. The more tenants who become owners, the more satisfactory a building is.

9. How does the building compare price-wise and feature-wise with other condominiums? Your personal preference is important here. The building you're considering may lack a swimming pool, but if swimming is not important to you, why pay for it in a higher purchase price, maintenance assessment and real estate tax? So note the features that contribute to your way of life.

"On the whole, a converted condominium should be priced competitively, even under what it would cost to build the same building today, amounting to a good value to the astute buyer," Sally said. "He should come out well on the price end, and have an attractive condominium home as well."

Evelyn Fentz has won top salesperson for the month of July at Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors. The announcement was made by Robert Starck, president of the firm.

Fentz serves her clients from the Starck office located at 89 Weathersfield Common in Schaumburg. Winners from the other four Starck offices include: Cal Pierson and Jim Holland, Arlington Heights; Carol Marsh, Mount Prospect; Tom Mercer, Palatine; and Jim Lewis, Hoffman Estates.

Fentz has been associated with Starck Realtors for over three years. During that time she has won numerous sales awards, and was named top salesman twice in 1973.

Fentz has lived with her husband Jack and their three children in Schaumburg for seven years. She is a member of the Sweet Adelines choral group and a member of the 1974 Regional Championship Chorus. She is also chairman of the Pastor parish committee of Our Redeemer Methodist Church in Schaumburg.

Searle Radiographics moves to Elk Grove Village facility

Searle Radiographics Inc., a subsidiary of the G. D. Searle & Co., has moved its corporate sales, service and marketing operations from its Des Plaines headquarters into a leased office and plant facility in neighboring Elk Grove Village.

Robert A. Hagglund, president, attributed the move to the 67,000 sq. ft. building at 2201 Estes Rd. to a need for additional space to meet current and future anticipated growth. A part of its product development group also has moved to the new location, but for the present, the firm will continue to share manufacturing facilities with another Searle subsidiary, Searle Analytic Inc., at 2000 Nuclear Dr., Des Plaines, according to Hagglund.

Searle Radiographics is engaged in the development, manufacture and marketing of nuclear imaging and peripheral systems for medicine. The company was formed in 1973 when Nuclear-Chicago Corporation, Searle's largest subsidiary, was restructured into two companies to reflect the shifting markets for the firm's products. Searle Analytic, which produces analytical instruments for research and clinical laboratories, emerged as the second company.

Minolta Corp. leases space in Elk Grove

Venture Realty Co. recently announced that Minolta Corp. has leased 3,400 square feet of a one-story building at 2351 Devon Ave., Elk Grove Village.

This facility will be used as a regional office and warehouse for the Business Equipment Division of Minolta. Minolta will further use the facility as a service and parts center for their copy machines.

Al Van Maren of Venture Realty represented Minolta in the lease transaction with Dan Foster of McLennan Co. representing the owners.

Savings Associations say housing recovery delayed

The recovery of the housing market in the second half of 1974 is expected to be delayed and an improved housing situation should not be expected for at least three to six months, the United States League of Savings Associations said today.

The Trends Midyear Report, the largest trade association for the nation's savings and loan business, pointed out that a continued decline in housing permits early in the second quarter denied the possibility of any housing recovery until late 1974.

The Trends Midyear Report is prepared by the League's 1974 Committee on Trends and Economic Policies, under the chairmanship of William F. Burks, president, American Savings and Loan Association, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The Trends Report gave several factors contributing to the delay in housing recovery. Among them were:

Savings flows after improving an expected early in 1974 reversed themselves in April and are expected to remain at low levels until sometime into the second half.

Interest rates are much higher than expected, reversing the decline which occurred during the winter months.

The average cost of housing has increased more than expected.

Consumer weariness caused by depressing economic trends has reinforced the reduction in the real purchasing power of consumers to produce a wave of consumer resistance to new home purchases.

"Late in 1974 or early in 1975," the chases.

The Trends Report said that the program announced by President Nixon in late May to stimulate the housing market was viewed by many observers as a "very modest attempt." It is hoped, however, that the program will eliminate the threat of further decline in housing starts from the present low levels.

"Late in 1974 or early in 1975," the Trends Report said, "the economy is expected to get on a slow path toward recovery. Monetary policy should ease in this environment, and the inflation rate should decline. Interest rates will begin to fall slowly, bringing about an improvement in savings flows.

"If this occurs, a reasonable expectation is that housing will begin a slow recovery as this economic environment improves in late 1974. At this point, the housing start outlook can be characterized by saying that housing starts reached a trough in early 1974 and are expected to remain in the trough probably through the third quarter of the year, then a slow recovery is expected."

Mrs. Falkenberg surpasses million mark for fourth year

For the fourth consecutive year, Mary Ann Falkenberg of Quinlan and Tyson has gone over the million mark in real estate sales.

She topped $1 million in sales in July, it was announced by Robert Stern, sales manager of the Palatine area office, where Mrs. Falkenberg is a real estate sales representative.

She is among 12 Q&T sales representatives to sell more than $1 million this far in 1974.

Mrs. Falkenberg has been a member of the Quinlan and Tyson Million Dollar Club for the previous three years and she was named a Life Member of the Illinois Association of Realtors Million Dollar Club.

In both 1972 and 1973, she led all sales representatives in the Palatine Area Office in total residential sales. Her achievements earned her membership in the Q&T President's Circle which recognizes employees for exceptional accomplishments.

Mrs. Falkenberg, who holds a broker's license, now has sold more than $5.7 million worth of real estate during her career with Quinlan and Tyson.

The mother of nine children, Mrs. Falkenberg has been active in a wide range of community activities. She grew up in Wilmette and Northbrook, and she and her husband, Charles, live in Palatine.

Starck associate gets broker's license

James W. Helland

James W. Helland, an associate with the Arlington Heights office of Robert W. Stark & Co., Realtors, has successfully completed the required educational courses and examination to earn his real estate broker's license. The announcement was made by Mary Jane Stark, manager of the Arlington Heights office located at 213 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Helland has been associated with Stark Realtors for four months and has a total of two years experience in the real estate profession.

Helland lives with his wife Arlene and their daughter in Arlington Heights. He is a member of the Ivy Hill Civic Association and attends St. Edna's Catholic Church. Before joining Stark & Co., he worked for a Chicago real estate firm and the Chicago Police Department.

Homefinders opens office in Libertyville

Homefinders Realtors is planning to open a sales office in Libertyville.

It makes the eleventh office for Homefinders and the fourth to be opened this year. In July an office was opened in McHenry, and sales offices were opened in Roselle in April and in Antioch in January.

Bernice Seaverns has been named manager of the Libertyville office, according to Robert L. Zaun, president of Homefinders. Miss Seaverns will be the sixth woman to serve as a manager in the Homefinders organization.

Mahoney named to management training

Garrett J. Mahoney, 32, of Hoffman Estates is named to the management development training program. He is assigned to the material scheduling department.

He started with International Harvester in January, 1965, as a material scheduling clerk at CED headquarters (Melrose Park).

In 1972, he transferred to Melrose Park Plant in the same capacity, a position he held until his recent assignment.

He is a 1959 graduate of Grayslake Community High School, Grayslake. He attended Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Ill.

Spacious Living Area

Sunken Family Room

A French country designed Colonial located in Lake Barrington, a community of elegant homes gently placed in a magnificent setting of quiet elegance. The home is accented by pink brick and black mansard roof with electric de-icers and is nestled on one acre plus lot.

The interior is as elegant as the beautiful exterior. The front entrance opens into a large foyer, a staircase to the upper level originates here. The main level consists of a living room, family room with the warm touch of a Roman brick fireplace, dining room, half bath, kitchen which includes a full compliment of appliances and breakfast area, oversize three car garage and large laundry room that also serves as a mud room.

The master bedroom is located on the upper level and is enhanced by its own private bath and walk in closet. There are three other twin size bedrooms plus another full bath located on this level.

Meticulous attention to detail is apparent thruout in features like custom door entries, beautifully crafted cabinets and exquisite ceramic floors.

The entire home is air conditioned and is carpeted with plush shag carpeting. In addition, there is a private homeowners marina and launch just a block away. $93,500

World's best investment is a house' says business exec

Nothing, but nothing, spells out a good investment like buying a home.

"There just isn't any better place to put your money," emphasizes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston.

Goss, who likes nothing better than seeing people in their own homes, firmly believes that a house should never be considered an expense or a luxury.

"It's not only a lifetime investment for the future — but the first major investment usually made by a couple," he says.

"Mortgage payments should always be regarded as a top priority budget expenditure."

Goss particularly enjoys giving old fashioned advice to young marrieds. He urges them to "save your money and buy a house. Automobiles deteriorate, clothing wears out or goes out of fashion, TV sets fall to operate, and vacations are soon only dim memories.

"A home improves with age and is never really outdated. It is never a dream, but truly a tangible slice of the future. The younger generation is becoming more cognizant of this fact every year; they are far more knowledgeable about financial matters than their parents. So they are saving their money and buying homes," he states.

So impressed with the great tax advantages, the long-term equity growth and the overall increase in value of property, many young marrieds even purchase duplexes — live in one unit, rent the other.

"Others do the same with a second home or a vacation retreat — enjoy for six months plus rent and let others enjoy for the remainder of the year," Goss points out.

Highly sophisticated and innovative mortgage arrangements now make such things quite possible.

"The simple matter of saving one's money makes the difference," Goss concludes.

All of a sudden, life is worth leasing.

With condominiums shooting up everywhere, a lot of people will tell you that buying one is a smart move. But for most marrieds and singles, renting is still a more sensible alternative. A down payment is a lot of money, and a mighty big commitment in these uncertain financial times. Maybe you should rent yourself a better way of life at Country Knoll, a new apartment community in Schaumburg.

There's luxury here. You live in a spacious apartment with cozy, wall-to-wall carpeting and the quiet afforded by soundproof ceilings and 8-inch concrete outer walls. You get a deluxe kitchen, complete with breakfast bar and dishwasher.

Outside your living room, there's a private, 22-foot balcony overlooking trees and rolling hills. And nearby, the clubhouse, with lounge, game room, swimming pool and men's and women's saunas.

Here you'll find people, and a continuing program of worthwhile activities. For instance, free tennis instruction has attracted a lot of players to the courts.

Country Knoll is close to great shopping, and just minutes from downtown Chicago via the Northwest Tollway. Why not come out—where life is worth leasing.

NOW YOU CAN RENT FURNITURE ...BY THE APARTMENT ...BY THE ROOM ...BY THE SINGLE ITEM ...BY THE MONTH

Swingles rents the furnishings you've always wanted. By the individual piece, by the room or by the apartment. For as short as 3 months or as long as you like.

Handsome home furnishings are available in a range of colors and styles ... from stately traditional to gleaming modern. Rent a single sofa ... rent a classic, coordinated bedroom set ... rent furniture enough to fill an entire apartment. Swingles has everything you need.

You won't even have to wait ... Swingles will deliver the furniture you choose within 24 hours if you desire!

AND THE BIG THING ABOUT IT IS THE SMALL PRICE!

A TYPICAL 1-BEDROOM RENTAL MIGHT INCLUDE:

LIVING ROOM: sofa, chair, lamp, end table & coffee table.
BEDROOM: triple dresser with mirror, night stand, lamp, headboard, box spring, mattress & frame.
DINING ROOM: 5-piece dining room set.

In addition, Swingles rents TV's, stereos, washers, dryers, bar units, bookcases, rockers, desks ... plus many other accent pieces, appliances and a complete line of office furniture.

See our beautiful room displays at one of our convenient showrooms and be sure to ask about the options available if you decide to apply your rental fee towards a purchase.

Then pick a room ... or mix and match ... and bring your imagination to Swingles. We can make beautiful rooms together.

Swing your partner—to good health

This is probably a somewhat different letter or inquiry than you are accustomed to receiving. I'm now nearly 72 years. I inherited a fine body and was blessed with parents who never became tired of advising me to breathe deeply, drink plenty of water, chew my food well and never make a glut of myself. They also admonished me to "keep busy doing good and productive things." It all made good sense to me, so I followed their advice. I strayed, but never far — and it has paid off.

I have never required an aspirin nor a doctor's care except for a hernia operation when a young man. I seldom smoke, but drink beer or highballs on occasion to celebrate something. Both my wife and I have always been physically active all our lives. We have played baseball, soft ball, tennis and enjoy skating, swimming and dancing. We take no vitamins or special supplements, but eat simple, nourishing food. We both weigh about the same as when we were kids and have never had the need to diet.

About 22 years ago we switched from ballroom dancing to square and round dancing, which we have both taught and called for over 20 years. Many people we teach and call for enjoy much the same good physical and mental alertness and health. We believe this wholesome sport does help most people enormously.

My question is, why do so few doctors ever recommend this wonderful sport? Several doctors have told us that participation in this light exercise, both physical and mental, was probably largely responsible for our well being. Why don't they recommend it to others or participate in it themselves? Our company doctor, who checks me every year, usually greets me with "Hey, what are you doing here? I should be getting advice from you." But when I say, "Why don't you take up square dancing?" he changes the subject. Can you tell me why? My wife contends they are afraid they'll run out of patients. Could this be true?

Dancing is wonderful exercise. It's great for those who enjoy it. I have often recommended it to people. It is a lot more fun than jogging. You can dance in accordance to your own level of physical fitness and health. A slow ballroom dance is fine for those who are not used to much activity. When you are in better shape you might want to do something more active. Of course, if you haven't been doing much physically for some time I would suggest taking it easy at first and gradually building up your tolerance as you would in any other sport.

I suspect that most doctors don't recommend it because they don't like to dance themselves (because of lack of experience). What your doctor recommends often has a lot to do with his own habits. If he smokes he may be reluctant to tell you that you should stop. If he is on the fat side he may be too easy on you about your own diet problems.

Jackie Sorenson of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports has been promoting "Aerobic Dancing" from one end of the country to the other. By vigorous dancing, as she demonstrates, you can get a tremendous amount of physical activity. And, this helps a lot in maintaining health and controlling weight. Anyway, I'm all for it and think it is good exercise for all people at all ages. Just choose the right level to start with and enjoy yourself on the way to better health.

Food-processing plant to open

A food-processing plant to make textured vegetable protein products will be established in the former Pollo Foods store at 601 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg.

The plant will make breakfast strips (a bacon substitute), patties and links (sausage substitutes) and a ham slice product (Canadian bacon substitute).

The food, made primarily from soy protein, will be sold under the Morning Star Farms label. It will be set up under the grocery products division of Miles Laboratories Inc.

The plant should be ready for production by Sept. 1.

FLIP OVER!

GOOD SPORTS

For the casual-minded it's still pants and tops. This year the smoother pant shaping is topped either clingy or big and loose in new dusty shades. Here's a sampling of our young arrivals.

A. Skinny sweatshirt, slim and snug. Soft, brushed cotton. Dusty rose, green or beige. S.M.L. $15
Hi-waist, side-button corduroy pant. Rust, black. 5-13 $13

B. The interest is behind. Big overblouse gathers in back. The collar gently forms a placket in front. Cotton. Wine, orange, jade. S.M.L. $16
Sophisticated western-cut pant in softest corduroy. Natural waist. Brown, with orange stitching. Navy with red stitching. 5-13 $18

Back Porch Picnic

A great back porch or patio picnic depends a lot on the menu. Here's a new suggestion offering a combination of delicious hot and cold dishes that are economical and simple to prepare.

Still the most inexpensive thirst-quencher of them all, iced tea rates high in popularity among cool-off beverages. Try canned and boxed pastas for convenient and quick-cooking casseroles. Sweet and Sour Mini Ravioli Salad, tangy and bacon flavored, is a modern version of old-fashioned potato salad. Lasagna takes a new form as roll-ups for easy eating on picnic plates.

Focus on broiler-fryers for barbecuing; they're nutritious and versatile while lending themselves with equal success to myriads of sauces, bastes and marinades. Canned cling peaches are the base for two tempters, a splashy fruit salad and homemade peach ice cream.

SUPERB GLAZED CHICKEN

- 2 whole broiler-fryers, halved
- ½ cup salad oil
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper

Rosy-Glaze

- 2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce
- 1 cup orange marmalade
- 4 tablespoons minced onion
- ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard

Liberally brush chicken with salad oil and season with salt and pepper. Place chickens on grill and cook approximately 30 minutes before applying glaze. Mix tomato sauce, marmalade, minced onion, lemon juice and mustard together. Lightly brush glaze over chicken. Turn occasionally and continue basting with glaze about every 10 minutes or until chicken is tender.

WINE MARINADE CHICKEN

- 2 whole broiler-fryers, halved
- ½ cup salad oil
- ¾ cup dry white or red wine
- 1 stalk celery, grated
- 1 small onion, grated
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon garlic salt

In a shallow pan, place the 4 chicken halves. Combine salad oil, wine, celery, onion, soy sauce, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Refrigerate for several hours. Pour marinade over halves and refrigerate for 3 hours. Drain off marinade and use as basting sauce for grilling chicken. Makes 1 ¼ cups.

BARBECUING AND BROILING DIRECTIONS

Cooking time depends on the parts you're using — the smaller the parts, the shorter the time it takes to cook them.

The National Broiler Council advises allowing 45 minutes to 1 ¼ hours total cooking time, depending on the weight of the chicken and distance from heat (generally 3 to 6 inches). To test for doneness, the leg should twist easily out of thigh joint and if pierced with a fork juices should run clear.

Place the bone or rib-cage side of chicken down on the grill next to the heat and the bones will help act as insulators to prevent the chicken from cooking too fast. If you're using a sauce with a tomato base, don't start basting until chicken is almost done so it won't be overly brown. If an oil base sauce is used, baste during the entire cooking process.

Turn chicken occasionally while cooking.

SWEET AND SOUR RAVIOLI SALAD

- 4 slices bacon
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ½ cup onions, chopped
- ½ cup green peppers, diced
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 cans (15 oz. each) mini ravioli
- 4-5 slices green pepper

Fry bacon, blot on paper toweling; crumble. Pour off all but two tablespoons of bacon fat. Saute onions, celery and green peppers lightly in fat. Add vinegar and sugar; stir. Add ravioli and bacon. Cover; heat gently for 10 minutes. Garnish with sliced green peppers.

Serves four to six.

LASAGNA ROUND-UPS

- 1 package (23 ¾ oz.) lasagna dinner
- 1 lb. ground beef
- ½ cup finely chopped green pepper
- ½ cup finely chopped onions
- 1 ½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 egg
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen broccoli flowerets

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Cook noodles as directed on package. Combine ground beef, green pepper, onions, salt, ½ cup shredded cheese, egg and contents of grated cheese can. Mix well; drain noodles and separate. Place 3 tablespoons of meat mixture on noodle, spread to ends of noodle. Roll up. Place ¼ cup tomato sauce from package in the bottom of an 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan. Place meat round-ups in the pan so that meat ends are exposed. Pour remaining sauce over round-ups. Bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes. Sprinkle remaining ½ cup shredded cheese over round-ups and return to oven for 5-10 minutes. Garnish with cooked broccoli flowerets. Serves six.

GOLDEN PEACH ICE CREAM

- 1 can (29 oz.) cling peach slices
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup chilled evaporated milk

Drain peaches reserving syrup for use in gelatin desserts. Puree peaches in electric blender. Separate eggs and beat whites until stiff. Gradually beat in half the sugar. Beat yolks well; add remaining sugar. Stir in lemon juice and pureed peaches. Fold in egg white mixture. Whip chilled milk in chilled bowl until stiff. Fold into peach mixture. Turn into freezing container. Freeze until firm, following ice cream freezer directions or turn into refrigerator trays and freeze at lowest available temperature.

Makes about 1 quart.

FRUIT BOWL SALAD

- Cling peach slices
- Quartered bananas
- Melon balls
- Strawberries
- Lettuce leaves
- Curried topping

Arrange fruits on lettuce leaves and serve with curried topping.

Curried Topping

- 1 can (17 oz.) fruit cocktail
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 pint small curd cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- ¼ cup finely chopped celery

Drain fruit cocktail, reserving ½ cup fruit syrup. Place reserved syrup, mayonnaise, curry powder, cottage cheese, lemon juice and salt into blender; whirl until smooth. Pour into bowl. Stir in fruit cocktail, green onions, and celery. Serve chilled over fruit salad. Makes 3 ½ cups.

THE COOL OFF PITCHER

Iced tea is America's favorite cool-off beverage. Low in calories and cost, it is truly thirst-quenching and refreshing. Make a big pitcherful to serve before, during and after summertime porch parties.

Here are three easy ways:

• For a 2-quart pitcherful, bring 1 quart of water to a boil. Remove from the heat and add 15 teabags or ½ cup loose tea. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water.

• Make it the cold water way — fill a quart pitcher with cold water. Add 8 to 10 teabags (remove tags). Cover and let stand at room temperature or in the refrigerator at least 6 hours or overnight. Remove teabags, squeezing against side of container.

• Use instant tea — 2 rounded tablespoons for each quart of cold water. Or 2 packages (½ cup) lemon-flavored iced tea mix per quart of water.

Mrs. Carl Fuerst

Her patio meals team ease, flavor

By LOIS SEILER

Summer is Joyce Fuerst's favorite time of year to entertain. She likes the casual atmosphere of the patio and picnics that are uncomplicated, yet flavorful.

Joyce can be completely relaxed when she serves the menu featured today. Most of the preparation can be done in advance and the recipes are always a success. It's her family's favorite meal, but appealing enough for guests.

When entertaining, she serves a dill dip first, with an assortment of fresh vegetables. The dip is made from mayonnaise and sour cream, seasoned with onion, dill weed and seasoned salt. Celery, carrot sticks, green pepper, cucumber, zucchini, slices, cauliflower and cherry tomatoes are attractively arranged around the platter. Although the dip sounds rich, it isn't filling yet stimulates the appetite, according to Joyce.

For the entree, her husband, Carl, presides at the grill, cooking a marinated London Broil to perfection. Joyce buys a London Broil roast, which is made from a piece of the rump, at Dominicks. (This is different from the London Broil made from flank steak.)

SHE MARINATES the meat for several hours in a mixture of oil, soy sauce, catsup, vinegar and seasonings. The Fuersts have a gas grill, and because the meat is two to three inches thick, Carl cooks it about 30 to 40 minutes on high setting, turning and basting it with the marinade. Sliced thin on the diagonal, the meat is always tender and juicy and exceedingly popular with guests.

As accompaniments, this Mount Prospect cook recommends pilaf and a broccoli casserole. Both can be prepared early in the day, and Joyce is completely at ease knowing all will go well.

The pilaf simply consists of regular rice, mixed with butter, coarsely minced mushrooms and onions. Before serving, it is baked until tender and fluffy, and will hold well if dinner is delayed.

The casserole is a savory combination of chopped cooked broccoli, Cheddar cheese and mushroom soup topped by onion rings and baked for a mellow blending of ingredients. Every time Joyce has taken these to pot-luck gatherings, she has brought home an empty dish, and both are excellent accompaniments for beef.

TO TOP OFF this appetizing meal, Joyce suggests an elegant Peach Whipped Cream Pie. Made in a graham cracker crust, it has a filling of melted marshmallows, whipped cream and fresh peaches. A delightfully refreshing dessert, the pie is a favorite of the Fuerst children, Julie 17, David, 16, and Jeffrey, 8.

Because of her husband's appreciation of good food (he is also creative in the kitchen), Joyce is inspired to vary her menus and frequently tries new recipes. She also enjoys sewing and needlework, teaches Sunday school at Saint Mark's Lutheran Church, and is an assistant in the learning center at Westbrook School during the school year.

DILL DIP

2/3 cup mayonnaise
2/3 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon dried minced onion
1 tablespoon dill weed

1 teaspoon Lowry's seasoned salt

Mix ingredients together and chill for several hours. Serve as a dip with a variety of raw vegetables such as celery, cauliflower, carrot sticks, green pepper, cucumber, zucchini slices and cherry tomatoes.

MARINATED LONDON BROIL

2 lb. piece of London Broil roast (made from a piece of the rump)
1/4 cup oil
1/4 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Mix together oil, soy sauce, catsup, vinegar and seasonings. Place meat in marinade in a glass dish, cover and refrigerate for several hours, turning occasionally. Cook on grill over hot coals or on high setting on gas grill about 30 to 40 minutes, turning and basting with remaining marinade. Slice thin on the diagonal to serve. Serves 4 or 5.

PILAF

1 stick butter or margarine
1 small onion, chopped
1 large can mushrooms, drained
2 cans beef consommé soup
1 cup uncooked regular rice

Melt butter in a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Mix in remaining ingredients. Bake, covered, for one hour at 350 degrees. Serves 6.

BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

2 packages frozen chopped broccoli
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 can mushroom soup

1/2 cup milk
1 can onion rings

Cook broccoli in salted water for 4 minutes. Drain well. Place in a two-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Mix soup and milk and pour over cheese and broccoli. Sprinkle onion rings generously over the top. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking until top is golden brown. Serves 6.

PEACH WHIPPED CREAM PIE

1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter, melted
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
25 large marshmallows
1/2 cup milk
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
8 fresh peaches, peeled and sliced

Mix crumbs, sugar, butter and cinnamon and press into a 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 minutes. Let cool. Melt marshmallows with milk in top of double boiler. Cool. Fold in whipped cream and peaches. Turn into prepared pie shell and chill for several hours. Serves 6 to 8.

Pack a perfect picnic with pork

The perfect summer picnic requires children, a doting grandmother or two, and a sprinkling of uncles and aunts. A balmy day is equally necessary, a grassy site, and a picnic basket bursting with goodies.

After the youngsters play ball and the older people have lounged under the trees enjoying the fresh air, it's time to eat. And glazed Picnic Porker is a most welcome sight.

It's a pork butt, the kind that offers pink, juicy hamlike meat. Simmer the pork in orange juice for about an hour to remove any traces of saltiness and then bake the pork for another hour. The glaze is a mixture of orange juice concentrate with mustard, brown sugar and cloves. The pork butt travels beautifully, tastes most delicious cold. Sliced thinly, it goes into sandwiches. Sliced with a generous hand, it's fork food to be served with slaw and potato salad.

Youngsters and rownups alike will love the dessert . . . mellow Orange Picnic Cake. It's an orange cake that includes oats, walnuts and cinnamon on the ingredients list . . . and it's frosted with a crumbly orange-coconut topping.

PICNIC PORKER

1 3-pound smoked, boneless, pork shoulder butt
2 cans (6 ounces each) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, reconstituted
1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

Place pork in large kettle. Add reconstituted orange juice; cover and simmer for 1 hour. Remove pork from liquid and place in shallow baking pan. Combine undiluted orange concentrate with remaining ingredients; brush over pork. Bake in 350 degree oven for 1 hour, basting with orange sauce every 15 minutes. Slice pork and serve hot or cold on rolls with remaining sauce. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

ORANGE PICNIC CAKE

1 1/2 cups orange juice
1 cup quick-cooking oats
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Heat orange juice to boiling and pour over oats; set aside. Cream butter with granulated and brown sugar; beat in eggs one at a time. Add vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cinnamon; blend into creamed mixture alternately with orange juice and oats, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Fold in nuts and orange rind. Pour into greased 13x9x12-inch baking pan. Bake in 350 degrees oven for 40 minutes, until cake tests done. Cool and spread with Orange-Coconut Topping. Place under broiler for 1 minute, or until topping is golden brown and bubbly. Serve warm or cold. Yield: 12 servings.

Orange-Coconut Topping

1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 cup flaked coconut
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Combine brown sugar, butter, orange rind and juice in small saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add coconut and walnuts.

Consumer magazine doubts home-canning methods

Average prices of whole broiler-fryers dropped this week, indicating a good consumer buy at 41 cents a pound. Wholesale prices are only slightly less than the 37-cent low found at one store on Monday.

Good supplies of fresh and frozen fish products reported by the National Marine Fisheries Service were reflected in a seven-cent drop in ocean perch fillets this week.

The average price of bacon declined four cents but is still 21 cents higher than recent average lows of 81 pound.

Ground beef rose six cents, according to Monday's price survey, however, pork chops remained stable.

American processed cheese averaged a substantial jump of 14 cents this week. Margarine and butter rose two and three cents, respectively, while milk and eggs each declined one cent.

Lettuce, down five cents, and celery, down four cents, reflected low trends which follow seasonal produce supplies. Although some area stores have advertised fresh potato sales, the average price has remained close to the 20-cent range.

With the exception of salad oil, up four cents, cereals and dry groceries remained stable from a week ago.

Food prices are based on averages obtained from four area stores on Monday of each week to record general price trends.

One of the hazards of home canning concerns a form of food poisoning called botulism. Generally, it is caused by the toxin produced by botulism bacteria that grow in foods in the absence of air. Nonacid vegetables, meats and poultry, are the most susceptible foods and should be processed with a pressure canner at a temperature high enough to kill the botulinum spores.

Tomatoes have been the exception to the rule, being considered a high acid vegetable. They contain a great deal of acid which reduces the spores' survival time under heat. However, an article in August Consumer Reports questions the acidity and processing techniques currently recommended for tomatoes.

The article states: "Current books on home canning classify them as such (an acid food) and even a standard technical reference lists tomatoes with the acid foods suitable for canning by the boiling-water method."

"UNFORTUNATELY, most of the popular and technical literature on home canning has not caught up with the types of tomatoes now being grown commercially and by the home gardener. Today's tomatoes have a broad range of acidity, from the traditionally acid to matos to the tomatoes that are sweet and near neutral."

Consumer's Union implies that tomatoes should now be considered and processed as a nonacid vegetable.

"CU recommends the one safe way to home-process foods — by pressure canning only. It takes 15 pounds per square inch of pressure to reach a temperature of 250 degrees... We suggest 15 minutes after 15 pounds per square inch has been reached for canning loosely packed tomatoes."

However, the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois, which sponsors workshops on home canning, disagrees. A home economist expressed surprise when informed that Consumer Reports no longer considered current home canning methods for tomatoes adequate.

"OUR RESEARCH indicates that the tomato is a high-acid food and we do not have information to consider them otherwise," she said. The times and temperatures are extremely important in home canning, she said. When the recommended directions are followed carefully there should not be any danger.

"Drawing from two sources, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and University of Illinois, there is no current research to support such a claim, according to the Extension Service spokesman.

The controversy focuses on the acidity of tomatoes. A quality control specialist with a local food chain said that many of the sweeter varieties of tomatoes are often close to neutral.

THERE IS NO way to determine the acidity at home, he said. Those high in acid have a more tart taste than those with less. For instance, yellow tomatoes, which have a rather bland taste, are neutral, according to the spokesman.

It without tasting.
The boiling period may be rather hard on some foods and result in mushy vegetables but it insures total destruction of any toxin that may be present.

Add short ribs to cookout menu

In the wide open western cattle country, cooking outdoors is an everyday thing, and women are aware of the many flavorful beef cuts from which to choose for a cookout. Here more than a steak goes on the grill, as a ranch cook knows that less tender cuts make great fare when first broiled.

Short ribs are such a western favorite. To obtain maximum tenderness, it is best to cook them slowly in a covered heavy pan or skillet right on the grill over low heat. The meaty ribs are then ready to receive a tasty barbecue sauce while broiling.

LOVE STAR SHORT RIBS

- 3 to 4 pounds beef short ribs
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/3 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon chili powder

Place short ribs in covered frying-pan on grill or range and cook at low to moderate temperature, for 1 1/2 hours, turning occasionally. Season with salt and pepper. Combine tomato sauce, catsup, brown sugar, vinegar, mustard, onion, garlic and chili powder in saucepan and simmer 5 minutes, stirring to blend. Remove each short rib from pan, dip in sauce to coat all sides and place on grill over ash-covered coals. Cook at low to moderate temperature, brushing with sauce and turning occasionally, for 20 to 30 minutes or until done. 4 servings.

Mints for frosting

Frost a cake quickly with thin chocolate covered mints. Cover the top with a single layer of mints while the cake is still hot and spread the candy as it melts. Cool cake before cutting to prevent crumbling.

Fish fillets will be moist and delicious if baked at 450 degrees for a short period and basted often with white wine or other liquid.

Keep vegetables fresh by refrigerating them in plastic bags and buying only as much as you can use in a few days to a week. The bags prevent dehydration.

Variety packs of cold cuts cost more than packages of single cuts sold separately.

Before washing the frying basket of an electric cooker deep fryer combination, wipe excess grease away with paper towels.

When campfires are going recipes are sure to follow

Belvidere Park is a typical colony of summer cottages built on a hillside to capitalize on lakeshore frontage. Two rows of cottages face each other, separated by a cul-de-sac which has a flowing spring as centerpiece.

This particular park is on Lake Geneva, near Fontana, Wis. Geneva is still one of the most beautiful of inland lakes even though somewhat overrun with people. I've spent many happy days at Belvidere fishing, boating, swimming and cooking.

On a recent visit, there were lots of young people, an abundance of children, and an outdoor chef at every cottage. Visitation is frequent when the fires are going and a good recipe get passed along by word of mouth.

Here are two you'll find worth trying. First is Belvidere Park Chicken which was the star of the park picnic. Select 3 medium frying chickens. Cut in serving pieces, wash and pat dry. Arrange pieces in a large baking pan. Mix an 18-ounce jar of apricot preserves, 1 envelope of onion soup mix, and 1/2 cup creamy French dressing. Blend thoroughly then pour over the chicken, cover and bake for 1 hour at 350 degrees. Simple but tasty. If you want to prepare a smaller amount, use only as much of the liquids as needed and store remainder in a jar in the refrigerator.

by Charles Flynn

Belvidere Park Zucchini Casserole was given to me by Mrs. Fred Wham of Rockford, Ill. You'll need 6 young and firm medium-sized zucchini. Cut off ends and quarter lengthwise. Peel 3 medium fresh tomatoes and cut in wedges. Peel and slice a medium onion.

Butter a large casserole and in it layer the zucchini, tomatoes and onion, sprinkling each layer with cracker crumbs (3/4 cup in all) and grated sharp Cheddar cheese (1 cup).

Season as you go with salt (1 teaspoon), pepper, oregano and summer savory. Sprinkle brown sugar (1/2 tablespoon) on the layers of tomato and dot each layer with bits of butter. The top layer should be of grated Cheddar cheese.

Preheat oven to 350 and bake 45 minutes covered, then remove cover and bake an additional 15 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Chinese rice, and old favorite

If you're looking for ideas to get you out of the kitchen in fast order on hot summer days... try some of the Chinese dishes.

The basic Chinese method of cooking — stir frying — was developed centuries ago. It seems the ancient Chinese had their own fuel shortage, and thus their recipes and cooking techniques were designed for speed and low fuel consumption.

The basic cooking utensil for stir frying is the wok, a deep curved bowl supported by a stand, the equivalent of the American skillet.

If you're ready to begin serving Chinese dishes at home, here's a simple recipe for an old favorite:

CHINESE FRIED RICE

- 3 tablespoons oil
- 2 cups onions, coarsely chopped
- 2 cups cooked rice, cold
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Place wok on medium heat, and add oil. Add onions and fry until golden brown. Add cold rice and stir. Add eggs, seasoned with soy sauce and salt. Stir fry until done... about 5-10 minutes. As a variation, add your choice of 2 cups of chopped cooked meat, bacon, ham, chicken, shrimp, or chopped green pepper or roasted peanuts. Serves 4 to 6.

Dilled Tomato Aspic

Why give up entertaining just because you're counting calories? Chances are most of your friends are also watching their weight. So, go ahead, invite the group to your house next week and serve a buffet lunch that's a slimmer as well as a taste swinger.

Dilled Tomato Aspic looks good, tastes good and is a sure bet to fool even the skinniest of guests. Each serving of this cool salad is only 186 calories — including the shrimp and dressing. That leaves room for a bread stick (30 calories), orange-rind-and-sweet-spice flavored iced tea (no calories at all), and a serving of sweet mixed pickles (15 calories).

For a delicious, easy and attractive low-calorie hors d'oeuvre or snack, try the Pickle Carrot Appetizers, only 9 calories each.

DILLED TOMATO ASPIC SURPRISE

1 quart tomato juice
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2½ envelopes (2½ tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
¼ teaspoon grated lemon peel

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup chopped dill pickles
1 1/3 cups finely chopped celery
¾ cup finely chopped green pepper (about 1 large green pepper)
1½ pounds cooked, shelled, cleaned shrimp, chilled
Yogurt dressing
Mix 2 cups of the tomato juice with onion, garlic and seasonings in 1½ quart saucepan; simmer, uncovered 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Meanwhile, soften gelatin in 1 cup of tomato juice; stir into hot tomato juice, mixture until gelatin is dissolved. Add remaining 1 cup tomato juice, lemon peel and juice. Chill gelatin mixture until partially set, about 1 hour. Drain pickle on paper towels; stir pickle, celery and green pepper into gelatin mixture.

ture. Pour into 6½ cup ring mold; chill until firm, about 4 hours. Unmold onto chilled plate; fill center of mold with shrimp and serve with dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Yogurt Dressing — (Makes 1 cup): Blend 1 container (8 ounces) plain yogurt, 1 clove garlic (minced), ¼ teaspoon seasoned salt and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire.

Calories per serving: 186 (includes shrimp and dressing).

PICKLE CARROT APPETIZERS
2 cups carrot curls (about 2 large carrots)
1 cup sliced sweet gherkins (about ½ inch thick)
2 tablespoons low calorie French-style salad dressing
Wrap carrot curls around pickle slices; secure with cocktail picks. Dip snacks in salad dressing. Make about 2 dozen. Calories per snack: Approximately 9.

8 MEAT CUTTERS TO SERVE & MAKE YOUR MEAT BUYING A PLEASURE

Party tips for easy summer entertaining

by JEANNE LESEMI

Partying this summer can be a breeze, with some help from the pros.

The following suggestions were gleaned from Hospitality, a restaurant industry magazine.

• Cool off with an all-salad buffet. Green, vegetable, rice, macaroni and meat salads, for instance, with a fruit salad for dessert.

• Or feast on soups, some hot, some cold. Start with Spanish gazpacho, cold tomato soup with chopped or diced raw vegetables for garnish. Serve a meat and vegetable soup as main course. Middle Eastern cucumber-yogurt soup in lieu of salad and Danish chocolate soup for dessert. If recipes for the more exotic ones aren't in your cookbooks, try the Public Library's cookbook collection.

No soup tureen? Substitute any large, pretty container, from a punch bowl or salad bowl to enameled Dutch ovens.

• Place little dishes of garnishes — crumbled bacon, minced fresh chives or parsley, whipped cream, grated cheese, popcorn and chopped egg — beside the soups they complement best.

• Make edible centerpieces for a sit-down meal. Fill a clay flowerpot with styrofoam and plant it with skewers full of fresh vegetables — green pepper chunks, cherry tomatoes, raw mushroom slices, and tasseled celery and scallions.

To make tassels, cut narrow slits in both ends of short pieces of celery and scallions; soak them in cold water in the refrigerator until the ends curl.

• For out of hand eating, serve scoops of ham salad or similar types in ice cream cones.

• Hollow out a large cabbage to make a bowl for cole slaw.

• Serve chopped or pureed green vegetables in hollowed out tomatoes. Mixed vegetable salad with mayonnaise dressing would be good this way, too.

• Make a bread basket for tiny sandwiches: hollow out a loaf of unsliced bread. First, slice off the top to use as a lid.

• Party pears make a spectacular looking dessert with very little effort or cost. Place canned pear halves cut side down on a platter; frost them with whipped cream cheese thinned with a little water, then cover the frosting with halved grapes.

• Frosted grapes in bunches are an edible centerpiece; little clusters make a pretty garnish for meat and poultry platters. To frost them, coat with lightly beaten egg white and sprinkle with sugar or a mixture of sugar, cinnamon and ground cardamom. Dry on a rack.

• A restaurant-style cheese crock is easy to copy. Whip a cheese spread with a little curry, then stir in chopped chutney and roasted diced almonds. Sprinkle a few almonds on top for garnish.

• Hold club sandwiches together with skewers. This idea is great for cookouts and picnics where guests of ten need an extra pair of hands to assemble all their food on one plate and get it safely to a table.

• Use parsley bouquets in mustard pots or small glasses or cups as centerpieces for small round tables.

• Cut barbecued spareribs into individual riblets and arrange them around a platter or tray of drained canned pear halves dressed with Polynesian-style sweet and sour sauce. The sauce also makes a good dip for the ribs.

Beef roast offers carefree cooking

If the heat of summer has crept into your kitchen, step out into the back yard, sit in the fresh air and soak up the sun as your dinner cooks on the outdoor rotisserie. Beef sirloin tip, boneless and compact, is a perfect meat choice for this leisurely preparation. The slices are especially juicy and tender when the meat is of high quality, roasted to only rare or medium doneness and carved in thin slices.

Stay with the easy-to-prepare theme for the remainder of the meal with corn on the cob, wrapped in foil and roasted, and a simple salad of sliced cucumbers and tomato wedges.

Beef Sirloin Tip Roast Rotisserie-Style

Insert rotisserie rod through the center of a 4 to 8-pound beef sirloin tip roast (boned and tied). Balance roast on rod and tighten split forks so the roast will turn with rod. Insert a roast meat thermometer at a slight angle so bulb is centered in roast, but not touching rod nor resting in fat. Make certain, too, that the meat thermometer clears the cooking unit and the drip pan when the roast turns.

Roast at moderate heat to 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium. Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a 3½ to 4-pound roast; 30 to 35 minutes for a 6 to 8-pound roast, depending upon the degree of doneness desired.

Retail prices should drop with good supplies of fish

by JEANNE LESEMI

Consumer resistance in the United States and Japan is helping cut the price of frozen fish and shrimp.

Wholesale prices already have dropped sharply on a wide variety of products. The savings are expected to show up at the retail level within the next month or two, say industry spokesmen.

We've never had such a big backlog before, says Henry R. McEvoy, marketing specialist for the National Marine Fisheries Service, Gloucester, Mass.

The 424 million pounds of frozen fish and seafood now in cold storage is 57 per cent greater than the 270 million pounds on hand a year ago, McEvoy added in an interview.

Even king and snow crabmeat are in good supply, he said.

Per capita consumption of fish had shot up to twelve and a half pounds during the beef boycott last summer, after hovering around 11 pounds for many years.

This led to increased imports. But when the meat boycott succeeded and prices dropped, U.S. consumers went back to their old shopping habits and supplies began to pile up in warehouses.

McEvoy said only 36 million pounds move out to stores, restaurants and institutions during the first six months this year, compared with 145 million pounds during the same period in 1973.

McEvoy also said retail prices have remained high partly because of the cost of doing business. Prices are up on everything from boat construction to fishing gear and insurance for fishermen and their vessels.

He emphasized that the decreases will apply only to frozen products. And they do not apply to such frozen items as lobsters, clams and the largest size shrimp, which are used primarily by restaurants and institutions.

He said all fresh fish and seafood remain scarce, and prices correspondingly high. But frozen fillets of flounder, Greenland turbot, whiting, ocean perch, cod and pollock are in good supply and breaded fish sticks are in very good supply. All should be comparatively better buys than they have been for quite a while, he added.

The drop in frozen shrimp prices began in Japan as a chain reaction, says the National Fisheries Institute, Washington, D.C.

The Japanese are enormous importers and consumers of shrimp but even they cut back on imports and consumption when the yen was devalued as a result of the Arab oil boycott and skyrocketing oil prices, an institute spokesman said.

Shrimp earmarked for Japan then became available to the U.S. market instead. This, combined with a big catch during the 1974 season that began in April, dropped wholesale prices to only 92 cents a pound by July for small shrimp, and only $1.40 per pound for medium ones.

As a result, many supermarket chains are expected to feature specials on frozen shrimp in coming weeks.

But the dramatic price change is not expected to occur in restaurants, which use mostly large shrimp, because the 1974 catch of this size was not good.

Dominick's New

PRICE PROTECTION POLICY...

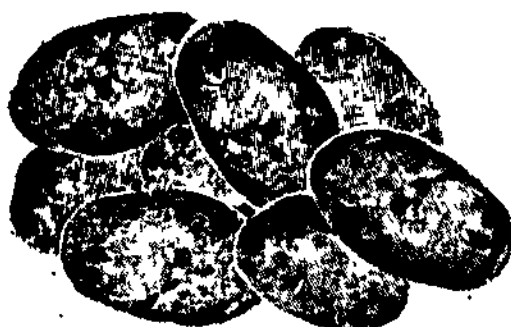

Now in effect at Dominick's Finer Food Stores... a price protection policy on shelf items in all of our stores. Dominick's will no longer increase prices on shelf items already price marked. If the retail price on any price marked shelf item should drop in cost, the prices will be lowered and Dominick's Customers will pay the lower price. If a can or package shows more than one price mark, the customer will pay the lowest price. The only exception to the policy will be weekly advertised items, or specials; however, these items will be prominently identified in the stores. This policy makes it evident that Dominick's is conscientiously doing everything possible to end pricing confusion; to make it easier, and profitable to shop at Dominick's Finer Food Stores.

Y-intersection also earmarked for redesign

2 signals planned along McHenry Road

Residents along McHenry Road in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can expect some relief in the next 12 months from problems caused by high-speed driving and heavy traffic.

Roy Fonda, north area traffic engineer for the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said two traffic signals should be installed "within a year's time frame." In addition, he said the state also is planning to improve the Y-intersection at Ill. Rtes. 83 and 53 in Buffalo Grove.

Fonda said the state plans to install traffic signals at the intersection of McHenry and Elmhurst roads in Wheeling, with a second set of signals at the intersection with Arlington Heights Road.

A Wheeling citizens group has been pushing for both lower speed limits along McHenry Road and the installation of signal lights to control the flow of traffic. Citizens of Old McHenry Road Proposing Slaughter Elimination (CORPSE) began the campaign last month, charging the road has become so hazardous that there are serious traffic accidents nearly every other day.

FONDA SAID THAT as a result of the CORPSE efforts, the state plans to conduct more speed studies along the road.

"We're going to continue to monitor that section of road perhaps a little closer than we would on a routine matter," he said.

Speed limits are set by the state according to the speed that most drivers already travel. The number of driveways, amount of pedestrian traffic and parking are also taken into consideration.

Recently, the state reduced speeds along a section of McHenry Road from 55 to 50 miles per hour. Residents believe the reduction is not sufficient, and are asking for a 40 m.p.h. limit.

Fonda said the state is now working on a speed study. He said data from that study will have to be evaluated before any decision is made on further speed reductions.

The first traffic signal to be installed on McHenry Road will probably be at the intersection with Arlington Heights Road, according to Fonda. He said the contract for that project should be awarded shortly. "That one should be under construction early this fall," he said.

SIGNALIZATION AT the intersection of McHenry and Elmhurst roads, however, is not expected for about a year. Fonda said this work will not be awarded until at least the end of the 1975 fiscal year.

Work on the intersection of Routes 83 and 53 is expected to be under contract by the fall, according to Fonda. He said the present Y-shaped intersection will be changed to a T-intersection, with the work being partially financed by the Lake County Highway Dept. Some widening of the intersection also is planned.

As part of their campaign, CORPSE members are distributing bumper stickers asking drivers to travel at 40 miles per hour on McHenry Road. Signs will also be posted along the road to ask drivers to travel more slowly. The group hopes that the voluntary speed reduction will show up on state speed surveys, allowing speed limits to be reduced.

Fonda said the CORPSE effort will have its greatest effect in getting drivers to voluntarily reduce speeds. He said that the group's impact will not be known until the speed surveys are evaluated.

EARTHMOVING WORK continues at the 228-unit Plum Creek Gardens condominiums being built on Wolf Road just south of Wheeling, while village officials are opposing the issuance of a well permit for the site in hopes of stopping the project. Plum Creek is being built with county permits, and village officials fear they will be forced to annex the property, which will have a high density.

Community response 'terrific'

Paramedic program a life-saver: chief

Wheeling's three-month-old paramedic program has saved lives or reduced the severity of injuries in 25 to 30 cases, according to Fire Chief Bernhard Koepfen.

Koepfen said the paramedic program has been most effective in heart attack cases, diabetic comas and drug overdose cases, since the paramedics can give limited medical treatment while transporting patients to the hospital. "Those are the places that make the biggest difference," he said.

According to Koepfen, there have been few problems created by the new paramedic program. He said that it now costs a little more to operate his department, but said community response to the program has been "terrific."

The increased cost comes from the fact that two trained paramedics must be scheduled on each shift. Since the department now has only nine certified paramedics, Koepfen said some men must work overtime. He said, however, that this extra overtime expense should decrease as more of his firemen complete their paramedic training.

Three men are scheduled to start their paramedic training the first week in September, and Koepfen said others in the 18-man department will be trained in the future. "Hopefully we're going to hold around 15 men for paramedics," he said. "We should have our total within the next eight or nine months."

KOEPFEN SAID there was little problem in adjusting to the paramedic program since his department had operated an ambulance service for the past several years. "It has just increased the service, the responsibility," he said.

In switching to the paramedic program, the village purchased a new paramedic van and converted the old ambulance into a paramedic unit. Koepfen said the village now has two emergency vehicles fully equipped to keep in contact with the hospital emergency room and for administering treatment while en route to the hospital.

"By having the two ambulances, we're not requesting Buffalo Grove so much.

They backed us up there quite a bit for a while," Koepfen said, noting that Wheeling often asked for outside emergency assistance. "With the two ambulances, we have a better chance of covering our calls."

Although Koepfen said the number of ambulance calls has not increased with the start of the paramedic program, he said the number of letters to the department has increased. "We get an awful lot of letters back for the short time we've had it," he said.

KOEPFEN SAID that while his men "are quite proud and happy" with the paramedic program, he thinks that eventually the emergency medical program will have to be separated from fire-fighting duties.

"As this thing grows and as it gets bigger and bigger, I think it is going to have to be put in that category," he said. "I'm not saying this year or next year. As it grows, it's going to be a whole new field. Until that time comes, we'll carry the ball."

Lights for several parks to be discussed by panel

The Wheeling Park Board tonight will review plans for installing lights at various park locations as part of the 1972 park improvements referendum program.

The lighting program is the third major referendum package to be reviewed by the board in an effort to speed the referendum improvements.

Before the meeting, the board will also review the referendum budget to see how the $700,000 approved by the voters in 1972 is being spent.

THE BOARD WILL also review bids on the installation of acoustical tile at the Indoor Neptune's Pool. Approval of this project, which will be financed with School Dist. 214, depends on whether there are sufficient funds in the park district's budget.

The park attorney will present a report on the establishment of a fixed-asset account. Also on the agenda is the purchase of equipment for the new park district garage and the presentation of awards to the recreation advisory committee.

The committee meeting will begin at 7 p.m., with the regular board meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Heritage Park recreation building, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

Man, hit by car on weekend, dies

A 45-year-old Wheeling man, struck by a car just before midnight Saturday, died Tuesday night at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

The hospital said Kenneth Glade, 815B Valley Stream Dr., died at 8:30 p.m. He had been admitted to the hospital in a coma.

Glade was struck by a car on Elmhurst Road, north of Dundee Road. Police have filed no charges against the car's driver, Cynthia A. Laganowski, 18, of 784 St. Mary's Pkwy., Buffalo Grove. The woman told police Glade suddenly stepped in front of her vehicle and she was unable to stop in time to prevent the accident.

Funeral services for Glade will be 11 a.m. Friday at Friedrich Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

by BARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full cycle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Park board wrapup

Parks find no answer to vandal woes

The Prospect Heights Park Board of Commissioners looked at the district's vandalism problem Tuesday night, but could come up with no solutions.

Park Director Ronald Greenberg said "the only way" he sees to cut down vandalism is to patrol the parks nightly. "Ninety-nine per cent of our vandalism is more a nuisance than a monetary loss."

Greenberg told the park board that vandals destroyed the door to the skating rink warming house Monday. The house is on the Eisenhower School property along Camp McDonald Road. Greenberg also said one seat had been destroyed and another seat damaged on playground equipment at Jaycee Park, Brook Drive and Compton Street.

Last week Greenberg told The Herald he caught several youngsters after they had damaged guard swimsuits at Lions Pool. The children's parents are making restitution.

Board Pres. Max Lyle said the board should give "serious thought" on ways to combat vandalism. He also said the district will take to court any teen-agers they find vandalizing the parks.

Lighting of Jaycee and Kiwanis parks and the warming house was suggested as one means to cut down vandalism. Greenberg also told the board he had received information that youths were congregating at the new service center, 13 Prospect Ct., in the late night and early morning hours.

Burglars 'steak out' pub, meat no resistance

Ninety-four T-bone and sirloin steaks were stolen from Donovan's Family Pub, 393 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling police said Wednesday. It was the second meat theft in less than a month and came a day after the restaurant was burglarized. The 94 steaks, valued at $232.04, were stolen from a kitchen freezer between 1 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday, police said. There was no sign of forced entry to the freezer, police added. On July 29, nearly 100 steaks valued at $344 were stolen from the freezer.

Sometime Monday morning, burglars took between $500 and $600 in cash and an air pistol from the restaurant. Police said the burglary occurred between 1:30 a.m. and 2:05 p.m. and there were no signs of forced entry.

The money had been kept in a milk cooler being used as a safe.

Football weigh-in, signup Saturday at Heritage Park

Wheeling youngsters will be able to weigh in and register for the Wheeling park football program from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

There is a $15 registration fee for the program, which will cover the cost of a helmet, jersey and insurance. A second weigh-in and registration has been scheduled Aug. 24 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The football program has been revamped this year with the help of the Wheeling Park Football Committee. Previously tackle football was offered only to seventh and eighth graders, with youngsters providing their own helmets.

This year, fifth and sixth graders will have their own junior tackle program, while seventh and eighth graders are eligible for senior tackle football.

Third and fourth graders will be able to register for a flag football program, which will cost only $5 for registration.

The weigh-in will be used to determine the average weight of youngsters participating in the program so that running backs can be chosen. The program is to begin in late August.

Census takers to come knocking

Wheeling residents can expect a special census taker to knock on their doors in the next two weeks.

The census takers will begin their job of counting all Wheeling residents this morning for the first census in the village since 1970. At that time the census showed 14,799 residents. The village now estimates its population at about 22,500.

Residents will be asked to give their name, age, relationship to others in the household, race and sex.

Population figures are used to determine the village's portion of both state income tax and motor fuel tax funds. Village Mgr. George Passolt has estimated that the special census will increase the village's portion of these funds by about $130,000.

THE CENSUS is expected to cost about $7,500, based on the estimated village population.

The village delayed the special census, which can be taken only once every two years, until the population hit an estimated 22,000. Passolt said this figure is halfway between the 1970 census figure and the anticipated 30,000 residents expected to live in Wheeling by 1978.

Data from the census is not expected to be available until the end of this year.

Police nab 3 suspects in record theft try

Wheeling police captured three persons suspected of attempting to steal some 300 record albums from the K Mart store, 780 W. Dundee Rd., Wednesday afternoon.

Details of the arrests were unavailable, although Lt. Ronald Nelson said the attempted theft is believed to have been "a professional job."

Sampson receives plaque

Former Park Comr. Wendell Sampson, who served from 1972 to 1974, was given a plaque commemorating his contribution to the district at Tuesday's park board meeting.

Consider water from village

The park district is considering buying water from Mount Prospect for its new community center/sports complex which will be built at the Lions Pool site on Camp McDonald Road at Elm Street. Mount Prospect has a water main on the other side of Camp McDonald Road.

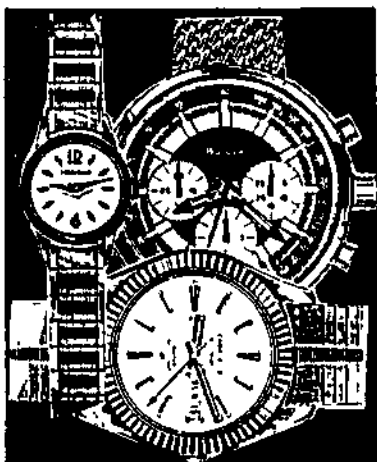

Construction of the new building is tentatively scheduled to start Oct. 1, with bids to be accepted at the end of this month.

Baseball field approved

In connection with the park expansion program, the park board approved plans for a baseball field with 60-foot bases on the Eisenhower School park site.

OK $73,342 tax ordinance

The park board Tuesday passed its tax levy ordinance, in the sum of $73,342, for next year. The vote was unanimous.

Only school employees eligible at first

Schools planning 'self growth' program for community

by JILL BETTNER

School Dist. 21 is setting up a self-growth program to provide help and "creativity resources" for teachers, other school employees and eventually anyone in the district interested in exploring his potential.

Dist. 21 serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and portions of Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect.

The $100,000 federally funded program is titled "Self-Renewal" and is staffed by project director Larry Chase and his assistants Gregg Crocker and Carrie Delen, both former elementary school teachers. Mrs. Dellin taught at Hawthorne School in Wheeling and Crocker taught in Elgin. The program is intended to aid everyone from teachers to custodians who want to sharpen old skills and discover new ones. Later this year, Chase said, there will be opportunities for area residents to become involved in the program.

To kick off the program, the staff will conduct two workshops next week for Dist. 21 teachers, whom they say are excited about the possibilities the program offers. More than 100 teachers have signed up to participate in the week-long sessions, Chase said.

IN THE WORKSHOPS, the self-growth program will be explained and teachers will be asked to begin identifying "things they'd like to get better at," Crocker said, such as communicating more effectively, better utilizing time, finding innovative teaching methods and developing curriculum materials for classroom use.

"Once we can identify the needs of the teachers, we want to start to meet those needs by providing resources," Chase said, adding that the resources could be provided in additional workshops later this year by the project staff or by "community professors" such as a local man who already has offered to speak to teachers about creative thinking.

Chase plans to find ways of including workshops or help for teachers in the regular school day whenever possible, although sessions will be offered whenever a need arises and will be planned around the schedules of participants.

The resource center being established in the Dist. 21 administration building will contain educational materials including books, filmstrips and other classroom aides as well as information on topics in which teachers or others express an interest.

THE PROJECT STAFF is brainstorming on other activities unrelated to the classroom that may be offered as they try to anticipate what Dist. 21 employees and the community might want to gain from the program. For example, Chase said a weekly "fun night" may be set up for Dist. 21 employees including various gym activities and possibly sports lessons if groups would like to develop particular athletic skills.

Dist. 21 PTA and PTO groups will also be able to benefit from the program. A workshop by the project staff on parent effectiveness training is planned at Tarkington School, Wheeling, on Sept. 24.

Chase indicated if there is sufficient interest in parent effectiveness training, the project staff may later develop a course for area residents.

A newsletter will be published by the staff several times during the year including feature stories on activities of people in the program, teaching ideas, book and movie reviews, interviews and classified ads relating to Dist. 21 employees. The newsletter also will contain a calendar of upcoming opportunities, Chase said.

Class offered to help know your kids

School Dist. 96 plans to offer a special course this fall designed to aid teachers and parents in better understanding and dealing with early adolescent children.

Dist. 96 serves the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove and Long Grove.

Ronald Warwick, assistant superintendent and principal of Twin Groves

School in Buffalo Grove, plans to teach the course that will deal with the behavior of children ranging in age from 9 to 13.

Warwick said he is hoping to make the course available for college credit through the National College of Education in Evanston. At least 15 persons would be required to register for the course for it to be offered for credit, he said, and participants would be charged the standard $64 National College of Education entrance fee.

Warwick said, however, that even if the course is offered for credit, persons not interested in gaining college hours may take the course free.

The course probably will be designed as a weekly seminar, the principal said. Among topics likely to be discussed are the psychological, social, physical and emotional aspects of early adolescent youngsters.

Persons interested in participating in the course may contact Warwick at Twin Groves School at 459-0022.

Park programs set for women

The Wheeling Park District is offering a variety of new programs for women beginning this fall.

A woman's drop-in volleyball program has been scheduled for Thursday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. A competitive volleyball program also is being offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday night at Heritage Park.

The drawing and painting classes are scheduled for both beginners and advanced students. Classes will be at Holmes Junior High School from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Several popular programs have been rescheduled for the fall, including belly dancing, holiday arts and swim and trim. Two new classes have also been added, yoga and modern dance and jazz.

To accommodate mothers with pro-school-age children, some classes have been scheduled at the same time as the district's preschool program.

Persons interested in participating in or supervising programs not listed in the park district brochure should contact the park district at 537-2222.

Copper stolen from building site

An estimated $1,000 worth of copper, which was to be used as a water line, was stolen sometime during the weekend from an apartment construction site at 600 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling police said Tuesday.

The theft was reported Monday by the Decon Construction Co. Police said four walls at the complex also were knocked down.

Park district slates doll show Sept. 29

Wheeling girls will be able to display their favorite dolls at a doll show scheduled for Sept. 29 at the Wheeling Park District.

Each girl can register one doll for the show for a cost of 60 cents. Professional doll collectors will judge the dolls and display their collections.

The show is scheduled to run from noon to 3 p.m. at the Wheeling High School cafeteria. Girls should register their entries at Heritage Park before Sept. 23.

In addition to the doll show, the park district will preview some of its fall classes, including yoga, belly dancing and arts and crafts. Refreshments will be available.

2 traffic signals planned by state for McHenry Road

Residents along McHenry Road in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can expect some relief in the next 12 months from problems caused by high-speed driving and heavy traffic.

Roy Fonda, north area traffic engineer for the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, said two traffic signals should be installed "within a year's time frame." In addition, he said the state also is planning to improve the Y-intersection at Ill. Rtes. 83 and 53 in Buffalo Grove.

Fonda said the state plans to install traffic signals at the intersection of McHenry and Elmhurst roads in Wheeling, with a second set of signals at the intersection with Arlington Heights Road. A Wheeling citizens group has been pushing for both lower speed limits along McHenry Road and the installation of signal lights to control the flow of traffic. Citizens of Old McHenry Road Proposing Slaughter Elimination (CORPSE) began the campaign last month, charging the road has become so hazardous that there are serious traffic accidents nearly every other day.

FONDA SAID THAT as a result of the CORPSE efforts, the state plans to conduct more speed studies along the road. "We're going to continue to monitor that section of road perhaps a little closer than we would on a routine matter," he said.

Speed limits are set by the state according to the speed that most drivers already travel. The number of drive-ways, amount of pedestrian traffic and parking are also taken into consideration.

Recently, the state reduced speeds along a section of McHenry Road from 55 to 50 miles per hour. Residents believe the reduction is not sufficient, and are asking for a 40 m.p.h. limit.

Fonda said the state is now working on a speed study. He said data from that study will have to be evaluated before any decision is made on further speed reductions.

The first traffic signal to be installed on McHenry Road will probably be at the intersection with Arlington Heights Road, according to Fonda. He said the contract for that project should be awarded shortly. "That one should be under construction early this fall," he said.

SIGNALIZATION AT the intersection of McHenry and Elmhurst roads, however, is not expected for about a year. Fonda said this work will not be awarded until at least the end of the 1975 fiscal year.

Work on the intersection of Routes 83 and 53 is expected to be under contract by the fall, according to Fonda. He said the present Y-shaped intersection will be changed to a T-intersection, with the work being partially financed by the Lake County Highway Dept. Some widening of the intersection also is planned.

As part of their campaign, CORPSE members are distributing bumper stickers asking drivers to travel at 40 miles per hour on McHenry Road. Signs will also be posted along the road to ask drivers to travel more slowly. The group hopes that the voluntary speed reduction will show up on state speed surveys, allowing speed limits to be reduced.

BUFFALO GROVE POLICE ticketed 125 bicycle riders for traffic violations in July. Police Chief Harry Walsh said this is the second summer that police have cracked down on cyclists who ignore traffic rules. In most cases, the tickets are only warnings and don't require court appearances.

Personnel morale discussed

by RON NORBERG

The Buffalo Grove Village Board conducted an apparently illegal closed meeting Tuesday to discuss what several board members described as "matters of employee morale."

Trustees Clarice Rech said the meeting was called in executive session "because we had heard rumors of unrest in employee ranks."

Trustee James Shirley said the meeting was a "blanket discussion among department heads about grievances of employees."

"Sometimes you have to have the opportunity to sit alone with the boss, and get things off your chest," he said.

The Illinois Open Meetings Act allows closed sessions "to consider information regarding appointment, employment, or dismissal of an employee or officer or to hear testimony on a complaint lodged against an employee or officer to determine its validity."

The act does not include discussions of personnel morale as justification for an executive session.

In a recent interpretation of the act, Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott wrote, "the language of the statute 'an employee or officer,' limits its application to an individual and does not include a class of employees or officers."

Scott said the use of closed sessions applies only to hiring, discharging, and appointing, and "does not relate to matters arising between the beginning of a work relationship and the end of it."

Mrs. Rech said the rumors of employee dissatisfaction were "distorted," but agreed that there was discussion about some village employees desiring retro-active pay increases.

She said "there has been some dissension in the past," but "the meeting was not a gripe session whatsoever."

She said much of the discussion was on practical matters, such as the number of employees and the amount of equipment that will be needed by the village in the future.

Village employees were reportedly asked if there were any difficulties created for them by any board decisions.

Mrs. Rech said very few were mentioned, and "most of the employees understand the financial picture of the village."

Shirley said part of the meeting was devoted to discussions about relationships between employees in village departments.

"How do you get into blanket discussions without dealing with individuals?" he asked.

Mrs. Rech admitted allegations made ex-patrolman Floyd Merenkov were "briefly discussed," but said most comments made were that "the situation has been resolved."

Merenkov was the Buffalo Grove policeman who alleged that some sergeants were guilty of theft and misconduct while working for the department. He later resigned from the force.

Village officials defended the legality of the closed session meeting, calling it "proper and necessary."

Village President Gary Armstrong said "as far as we're concerned, it was a legal meeting to discuss personnel."

Shirley admitted, however, most of the what was discussed could have come out in an open session.

Village Atty. Richard Raysa could not be reached for comment.

Correction

The 1973 tax rate for High School Dist. 125 was incorrectly listed Wednesday in a Herald story on Lake County tax rates.

The correct 1973 tax rate is $2.170 per $100 assessed value, an increase of 9 percent over the 1972 levy of $1.977 per $100.

by HARRY SIGALE

Monana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full cycle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

$140,000 borrowed still not enough

Village seeks way to get out of financial problems

Buffalo Grove may have to take additional measures to relieve the village's financial problems, Finance Director Richard Glueckert said Tuesday.

The village board July 23 approved borrowing of $140,000 through tax anticipation warrants to meet its payroll, but financial problems are still present, Glueckert said.

He said the village is still $160,000 short of expected income for May, June and July of this fiscal year, but said the village "would do everything in its power" to avoid a second sale of tax anticipation warrants.

Last month's warrant sale was the highest allowed by law.

Glueckert said the village has fallen $65,000 short of expected revenue for its "general fund," and $95,000 short in its water fund because of construction slowdowns this summer.

He attributed the delays to the nine-week cement-truck drivers' strike and difficulties for homebuyers in obtaining mortgages.

Compounding the village's financial problems are delays in both Cook and Lake counties in mailing tax bills.

GLUECKERT SAID the village would not receive any revenue from property taxes until late September or October.

To balance the delay in incoming revenue, Glueckert said village expenditures are now running under budget.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson Monday said all village expenditures are being cleared through his office before purchase is made.

William Bulling, Larson's administrative assistant, said a tax levy ordinance, calling for an additional 5-cent levy per $100 assessed valuation will be brought before the village board Monday night.

If approved, the levy would go into effect next year.

The village will also have to repay the $140,000 bank loan, along with almost $2,000 accrued interest, Glueckert said.

Cite lack of police protection

N. Yale Avenue residents feel slighted

by JOE SWICKARD

The residents of the 1800 block of N. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, contend they are being slighted with village services, including police protection.

The street, a one-block-long cul-de-sac, with 12 houses, is accessible only from the frontage road of Palatine Road and although it was annexed to the village two years ago, residents claim they are still being treated as though they were still unincorporated.

Lack of snow removal and street cleaning operations, disputes with the library and the police department are common complaints voiced by the residents.

"We're here on the border and the village services are just not up to par," said Mrs. Maria Delsing, 1832 N. Yale Ave.

Another resident, Mrs. Melanie DeMaria, 1833 N. Yale Ave., agreed with her neighbor that the cul-de-sac is not getting full service for its taxes.

"AND EVEN GETTING library cards. My husband had to argue with the library to get his card. They said we weren't in the village," Mrs. DeMaria said.

"It's just one thing after another. It's getting ridiculous," she said.

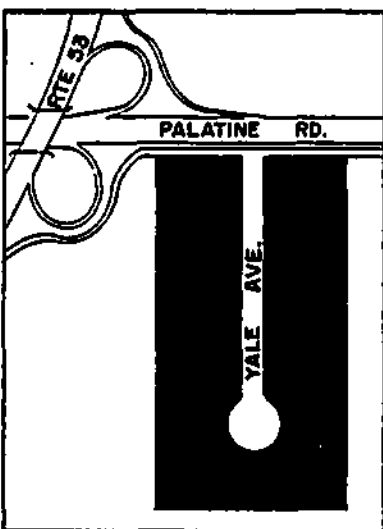

"I know it sounds like a lot of nit-picky little things, but when you put them all together it doesn't."

The latest, in what homeowners there claim to be a long history of boundary disputes arose Sunday night with the Arlington Heights police.

Mrs. Delsing, said police were called after their home burglar alarm was activated. Mrs. Delsing said it took the police 20 minutes to respond and then only after another telephone call and an argument with the radio dispatcher.

Golf clubs stolen

A set of golf clubs valued at $200 was stolen sometime during the past month from a garage at the Bruce W. Heath residence, 725 Old Post Dr., Buffalo Grove, police said Tuesday.

SHADED PORTION of map indicates the 1800 block of N. Yale Avenue. It was annexed two years ago, but the residents say they are still being treated as if they were outside the village limits of Arlington Heights.

"The alarm went off and we called the police. Five minutes later they called back and asked for directions. When we gave it, we were told we were in the county and it was the sheriff's jurisdiction," Mrs. Delsing said.

She said a squad car did respond but only after a lengthy discussion about whether their home was within the village limits.

Mrs. Delsing said at one point the dispatcher blamed their maps. The dispatcher said, according to Mrs. Delsing that the maps in the radio room were old and showed the street to be still unincorporated.

VILLAGE PLANNER Joe Kesler said that while he is unsure of the exact date of the cul-de-sac's annexation, it has been in the village for about two years.

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said a "mistake" had been made in the handling of the incident by the radio operator.

"If it's a call, we'll take care of the emergency first and then find out if it's in the village or not," Calderwood said.

"We don't want to make mistakes."

"There was a mistake of the radio operator's making," he said of the incident.

However, when residents of the street attempted to listen to the tape recordings of the telephone call in question, an 18-minute gap was discovered. A malfunction in the recorder that automatically tapes all calls to the dispatch center was the reason offered by Calderwood.

"Yes, there is an 18-minute gap. It's just one of those things," he said.

Schools planning 'self growth' program for community

by JILL BETTNER

School Dist. 21 is setting up a self-growth program to provide help and "creativity resources" for teachers, other school employees and eventually anyone in the district interested in exploring his potential.

Dist. 21 serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and portions of Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect.

The $108,000 federally funded program is titled "Self-Renewal" and is staffed by project director Larry Chase and his assistants Gregg Crocker and Carrie Delten, both former elementary school teachers. Mrs. Delten taught at Hawthorne School in Wheeling and Crocker taught in Elgin. The program is intended to aid everyone from teachers to custodians who want to sharpen old skills and discover new ones. Later this year, Chase said, there will be opportunities for area residents to become involved in the program.

To kick off the program, the staff will conduct two workshops next week for Dist. 21 teachers, whom they say are excited about the possibilities the program offers. More than 100 teachers have signed up to participate in the week-long sessions, Chase said.

IN THE WORKSHOPS, the self-growth program will be explained and teachers will be asked to begin identifying "things they'd like to get better at," Crocker said, such as communicating more effectively, better utilizing time, finding innovative teaching methods and developing curriculum materials for classroom use.

"Once we can identify the needs of the teachers, we want to start to meet those needs by providing resources," Chase said, adding that the resources could be provided in additional workshops later this year by the project staff or by "community professors" such as a local man who already has offered to speak to teachers about creative thinking.

Chase plans to find ways of including workshops or help for teachers in the regular school day whenever possible, although sessions will be offered whenever a need arises and will be planned around the schedules of participants.

The resource center being established in the Dist. 21 administration building will contain educational materials including books, filmstrips and other classroom aides as well as information on topics in which teachers or others express an interest.

THE PROJECT STAFF is brainstorming on other activities unrelated to the classroom that may be offered as they try to anticipate what Dist. 21 employees and the community might want to gain from the program. For example, Chase said a weekly "fun night" may be set up for Dist. 21 employees including various gym activities and possibly sports lessons if groups would like to develop particular athletic skills.

Dist. 21 PTA and PTO groups will also be able to benefit from the program. A workshop by the project staff on parent effectiveness training is planned at Tarkington School, Wheeling, on Sept. 24.

Chase indicated if there is sufficient interest in parent effectiveness training, the project staff may later develop a course for area residents.

A newsletter will be published by the staff several times during the year including feature stories on activities of people in the program, teaching ideas, book and movie reviews, interviews and classified ads relating to Dist. 21 employees. The newsletter also will contain a calendar of upcoming opportunities, Chase said.

The project director stressed that this year. The district intends to seek additional federal funding for a second and third year to continue the program. During the successive years, the program will be expanded.

Village to complete census by January

Buffalo Grove will conduct a special census, to be completed by next January, a village official said Wednesday.

William Balling, administrative assistant to Village Mgr. Daniel Larson, said the village, with the cooperation of the U.S. Census Bureau will try to complete the census by January, in order to receive additional funds from the state for the final quarter of this fiscal year.

Balling estimated that through annexation and construction within the village, the population has risen to more than 19,000.

The 1972 census showed the village's population at 15,653.

Balling said the population growth is important, because it could mean as much as $72,000 additional income for the village in state income and motor fuel tax rebates.

The rebates are paid on a per-capita basis with the village receiving $10 per person in motor fuel tax and more than $8 per person in state income tax rebates, Balling said.

HE ESTIMATED the cost of the census at more than $7,000.

Since the 1972 census, the village has annexed the Oak Creek, Mill Creek, Lake County Strathmore apartments, and the Cambridge-on-the-Lake condominiums.

Balling said population growth estimates, based on number of building and occupancy permits granted the village in the last two years, do not indicate that the village could qualify as a home-rule community.

The home-rule status is for villages or cities with populations of more than 25,000 and provides greater autonomy, with less reliance on the state for local government decisions.

Balling said a date for the special census will be chosen after the census bureau appoints someone to oversee the operation.

Elderly eligible for 2 tax programs

Senior citizens in Wheeling Township may contact the township assessor's office for information on two estate tax programs which may result in additional benefits.

Marshall P. Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, said that persons 65 or older are eligible to receive benefits from the Illinois Refund Grant and the Homestead Exemption Act.

The details of the two programs are spelled out in a letter sent to all township senior citizens after the 1973 real estate tax bills were issued.

The Illinois Refund Grant provides benefits for seniors with a 1973 total income of less than $10,000. Owners or part owners of their residences may receive a reduction in the assessed value of their property that may cut 1974 taxes in the Homestead Exemption program, said Theroux.

For information on the two programs call Theroux at 259-7732 or visit the township office at 1816 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Village seeking parade participants

Buffalo Grove is looking for people to take part in the Buffalo Grove Day Parade, at 1 p.m. Sept. 1.

Dr. Alan Lauter, parade chairman said he is looking for individuals, neighborhood groups, or business organizations to build floats and is asking for convertibles to drive dignitaries during the parade.

Lauter said prizes will also be awarded to children with the best decorated bicycles. Children interested in joining the competition should assemble at noon Sept. 1 at Bernard St. and Indian Hill Drive.

Officials also are asking for persons with antique cars to participate.

The theme of the parade is Showboat.

Persons interested in joining should call Lauter at 537-3422.

Report cites design for furnace failures

Village rejects legal action

Elk Grove Village officials will take no legal action against the builder, furnace manufacturer, or installer, but intend to warn all residents of the possibility that dangerously defective furnaces are in their homes and the responsibility to repair the defects is theirs.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek said the village will notify residents by letter that there is a possible problem with their furnaces due to a manufacturer's problem with a certain furnace model.

In discussing how the letter should be worded, Zettek said "we should also point out that it is a problem between the homeowner and the manufacturer."

Zettek said, "It's become a personal responsibility of the homeowner, we've done well beyond what most governmental bodies do. We've done all we can to identify the problem and will make the report available to residents."

The letter to homeowners will not contain any mention of the fact that the officials plan to discuss building code deficiencies with Centex Homes Corp.

ZETTEK SAID HE plans to sit down with Centex "to see if we can't get them to do something to help with things like air combustion, or come up with a remedy. Personally I think if people just left the furnace room door open, enough air would get in to alleviate the problem," he said.

Trustee George Specs was concerned that village conversations with the builder might encourage residents to delay furnace repairs.

"In no way is big father government going to take care of this problem; don't give people false hope," Specs said. He also questioned the value of leaving the door open.

Village Attorney Norman Samelson told officials he questions the propriety of spending village funds on any further action other than the Polytechnic report. He said many consumer purchases have the potential to lead to hazardous situations and the village should not use village funds to fight battles for a few.

Trustee Michael Tosto and Ronald Cherruck urged that the letter tell people to take immediate action to have furnaces repaired.

THE LETTER IS being drafted now and should be in residents' mail boxes within a week. Zettek suggested free village furnace inspections be continued to the end of August but dropped after that date.

Trustee Nanci Vanderweel was concerned that the report by the consultant hired by the village to pinpoint the furnace problems be made available to village residents. Copies of the report are available to interested residents at a nominal reproduction cost. Trustee Vanderweel at first objected to charging residents for the report, stating "Taxpayers' funds were spent for the study," but agreed to the slight reproduction fee.

When the furnace issue problem was being studied by village officials they included a warning note on water bills suggesting residents have their furnaces checked periodically by a reputable firm.

by JERRY THOMAS

Faulty furnace design, corrosion by chlorides, fire protection code and building code violations have been pinpointed as contributing causes for premature furnace failure in Elk Grove Village homes.

Polytechnic Inc. of Chicago, consulting engineers and chemists were hired by Elk Grove Village in May to conduct a technical investigation of a widespread incidence of furnace failures in the community.

The firm Tuesday, reviewing its report with village officials, cited the three reasons as probable cause for furnace breakdowns in the Centex Homes Corp. built houses.

Marvin Salzenstein, Polytechnic president, stressed that the study does not offer a cure for furnace problems but does indicate approaches toward correcting the situation.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS were alerted to the possibility that an estimated 1,700 homes had dangerous furnace defects and possible building code and furnace installation violations by local heating contractors two years ago.

In June, Village Pres. Charles Zettek said residents were not informed of the possible danger in the first months of the village's study because the defective furnaces were not realized to be a substantial problem.

Further research by officials led to the hiring of Polytechnic.

Centex Homes Corp. has built virtually all of the estimated 6,000 homes in Elk Grove Village and most are equipped with one of the various models made by Johnson Furnace Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio.

The Polytechnic report states that in the Johnson furnace (WAS model) heat exchangers, a sectional sheet metal part, failure is the result of a design, or manufacturing problem. "Repeated flexing at a bend in the metal, caused by alternate heating and cooling of the heat exchanger causes cracks," states the report.

"THIS REPRESENTS a deficiency in the furnace unit," it adds. The metalurgical report further states it is possible that corrosion accelerates this process but the primary cause of the crack in the metal is the repeated flexing. The Furnace maker refuses to comment

Officials of Johnson Furnace Corp., Bellevue, Ohio, had no comment Wednesday in regard to the technical report on furnace heat exchanger failures in Elk Grove Village.

"The company has no statement to make at this time," said Milt Taggart, engineer with Johnson Corp. Taggart is expected to come to Elk Grove Village today to discuss the report with village officials.

Robert Curran, president of Servaire Metropolitan Service Co. of Berwyn which installed most of the furnaces in the village, said he had not obtained a copy of the report and therefore could not comment.

Will Liebow, vice president of Centex Homes Corp., also said he had not seen the report and reserved comment.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 14 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Call to hospital may start alcoholic toward recovery

by LINDA PUNCH
For many alcoholics, a five-minute talk with Betty Stadler or Nancy Scovill may be their first step toward recovery. Program specialists at the Lutheran General Hospital Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholism, the two women are the first contact many alcoholics have with the center. Their phone interview with the patient often determines whether the alcoholic continues to seek help.

Program specialists are trained to counsel alcoholics as well as give out information on the various types of programs and facilities available for treatment. As part of their orientation, the women go through the same type of interview and evaluation program as the patients.

"A LOT OF PEOPLE look on alcoholism as a moral problem — we consider it a health problem," Mrs. Stadler said. Mrs. Scovill notes that many of the callers expect a hostile reaction to their drinking problem.

"We never act horrified or overreact to the callers — we try to come across very casually," she said. "They figure if we're so casual then they can't be as bad as they think."

Many callers phone and seek a "little information for a friend," according to Mrs. Scovill, but later admit they have the problem.

"A lot of people who call in are more or less forced to by their family or employer," she said. "Denial is one of the biggest things to overcome. Admitting he has a drinking problem is a big step for an alcoholic."

The program specialists also try to clear up any misconceptions about the center's program.

"A lot of people have read or heard about the center but they don't know what they're asking for," Mrs. Scovill said. "Most have this terrible fear — we call it the state hospital syndrome — that they'll be locked up in a room and left to shake it out alone."

"PATIENTS HERE come and go as they please — there's a great deal of freedom," she added. "The center is a very calming place — you can't tell the patients from the staff."

While the program specialists are on duty for only 8 hours a day, there is staff available at night to handle any crisis situations. "There is always someone at the nursing stations who can either admit a patient or refer them to other sources," Mrs. Stadler said.

The staff is also equipped to handle inquiries from the families of alcoholics, she said, noting that alcoholism is "definitely a family illness."

"Sometimes it's hard to convince families that they all need help," she said, adding that anyone close to an alcoholic is affected by the illness to some extent.

The program specialists lean heavily on organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), Al-Anon and Alateen, groups devoted to helping the alcoholic and his family find solutions to their problems.

Design cited as reason for failure of furnaces

cracks allow exhaust fumes to leak into heating ducts.

Salzenstein called the WAS model heat exchanger's tendency to crack "fatigue failure and a definite indication of improper design."

Rusting out in another model, the cylindrical WTS Johnson furnace heat exchanger, is the result of corrosion by chlorides, the report says.

Salzenstein said samples of loose scale were analyzed and found to contain significantly large amounts of chlorine and fluorine.

"Frequent use of aerosol spray cans can release these materials into the home atmosphere. By themselves the materials are innocuous but drawn into the flame of the furnace they are converted into acids that are a possible cause of corrosion," said Salzenstein's report.

THE REPORT FURTHER states that the corrosion problem is complex because some of the units are eight or nine years old but others are only one to three years old and are clearly failing prematurely. Increased use of aerosol products is noted, but discounted as the absolute reason for the corrosion with the note that older homes east of Salt Creek surely use as much aerosol products as those in the suspect area without an evidence of an epidemic of furnace part corrosion.

Salzenstein pointed out that one factor common to all homes with defective furnaces is the lack of adequate air combustion to furnaces.

He said ventilation registers in furnace doors are about half the size they should be in almost all Elk Grove homes.

"This is in violation of the Fire Protection Assn. Code," he said.

Too short chimney terminations, also a code violation, contribute to corrosion of furnaces, he added.

Salzenstein's recommendations were "to bring homes up to code and avoid the indiscriminate use of aerosol spray products indoors."

He added that the WAS model's heat exchanger's tendency to crack is a manufacturing problem and the manufacturer should be responsible within the scope of his warranty.

Youth hurt in crash improved

An Elk Grove Village youth, seriously injured in a downstate car accident Sunday, has "improved tremendously" in the last 24 hours, but still is listed in poor condition, said a hospital spokesman Wednesday afternoon.

Mark Goodyear, 17, of 618 Dauphine Ct., suffered severe head injuries along with a broken collarbone, fractured ribs and multiple cuts and bruises when the car he was driving ran off Interstate 57 near Mattoon.

A passenger in the Goodyear car, Stanley Quinn, 16, of 970 Lonsdale, still was listed in fair condition late Wednesday afternoon in Carlo Hospital, Urbana.

A spokesman for Mattoon Memorial Hospital, Mattoon, where Goodyear still is under intensive care, told The Herald the youth's condition was stable and he had regained consciousness.

According to Illinois State Police reports, Goodyear's auto left the road, striking the end of a metal guardrail, then overturned several times before coming to rest at the bottom of a concrete embankment.

Both are students at Elk Grove High School.

Church school slated all next week

A vacation church school, sponsored by the Prince of Peace United Methodist Church in Elk Grove Village will be held all next week, Aug. 19-23.

Children who were in kindergarten through sixth grade during the 1973-74 school year are eligible for the church school. Cost is $1 per child plus a $3 per family charge.

Sessions will run from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. for kindergarten and 9:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. for first through sixth graders. Children are to bring a sack lunch. Drinks will be provided.

Further information can be obtained by calling the church office any morning at 439-0688.

A 10-ACRE lake bordered by terraced residential buildings, with office buildings in the background, is part of the Woodfield 76 plan, presented to Schaumburg's zoning board Wednesday night. The development will include commercial and recreational facilities. It is proposed for 237 acres bounded by the Northwest Tollway, Ill. Rte. 53, Golf Road and Meacham Road. Phased construction calls for early development of the eastern half.

'Nationwide' EPA hearing held in Des Plaines

Local control of rail noise urged

by ANNE SLAVICEK
Regulating railroad noise is "an essential local power" which must be left to cities rather than being preempted by the federal government, Des Plaines Corporation Counsel Robert Dileonardi Wednesday urged officials of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Federal regulations being proposed by the EPA to set noise levels from locomotives and railroad cars would "dissipate and emasculate local power" not only for home rule communities but for all cities and villages, he said.

He urged the government to strengthen federal noise limit proposals to match the 55 decibel reading in Des Plaines' ordinance if preemption of stricter local ordinances must be a part of the federal rules. He expressed concern that the success Des Plaines has had in getting mufflers and operational changes from the Chicago and North Western Ry. could be lost if the new federal rules go into effect as proposed.

Dileonardi's statements brought protests from one EPA official who said he interpreted the proposed rule as allowing local noise control ordinances, but banning the city from requiring the railroad to install mufflers on locomotives. The official's interpretation left participants at the informal hearing shaking their heads in bewilderment over the varied interpretations of the proposed regulations.

ALVIN MEYER, deputy assistant administrator for noise control programs of the EPA, said he believed cities and villages could still regulate train noise by zoning or by such methods as requiring installation of noise barriers along rights-of-way or regulating the practice of locomotives sitting all night with their engines idling.

Meyer admitted however that a court test of whether the city was illegally impeding interstate commerce would be one defense the railroad would have against such regulations.

The interchange was part of an all-day session Wednesday in the Des Plaines City Hall, the only public hearing in the nation on the proposed railroad noise regulations.

At the outset of the session, Henry Thomas, EPA acting director of standards and regulations for noise control programs, explained that the proposed rules would essentially set noise standards at status quo levels for properly maintained equipment when the rules go into effect in 10 1/2 months.

A SECOND SET OF regulations would require reductions of locomotive noise at the end of four years to levels of 90 decibels when moving, 87 decibels when stationary and 67 decibels when idling.

Thomas admitted that even those levels of noise are "very loud indeed." Philip Lindahl, Des Plaines environmental officer, said rule of thumb is that noise in the New York subway averages 90 decibels while an average office has a noise level of 50 to 60 decibels.

The majority of the testimony at the hearing criticized the proposed rules as taking into consideration too heavily the costs to railroads while ignoring the public health.

Committee sticks to its school boundary decision

by BOB GALLAS
A committee appointed to study boundary changes in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 has decided to stick with an original decision that would send Mount Prospect school children into Des Plaines schools, despite strong objections from Des Plaines residents.

The committee, made up of school community council members, board of education members and residents of the affected school areas, met Tuesday to formulate a recommendation to the board at its next regular meeting Monday.

The committee also voted to allow a minority report, representing views and recommendations of Des Plaines residents on the committee, to be presented to the board.

The committee's decision, which came after weeks of meetings and arguments, now clearly asks the board of education to make a decision on a hotly contested issue.

THE PROPOSAL WOULD eventually send an estimated 59 children from Crystal Towers and Forest Cove apartments in Mount Prospect to Brentwood School, 260 W. Dulles, Des Plaines. The proposal also would eventually send an estimated 26 children from Laurel Estates apartments to High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dura James, Des Plaines.

The children would have otherwise gone to already overcrowded John Jay School, 1835 W. Pheasant Tr., Mount Prospect. Since most of the apartment units involved are either under construction or not yet started, only 15 additional children would be sent to the two schools this fall as a result of the change. No children will be transferred from Jay. Children from the three complexes already attending Jay will be allowed to continue.

ALAN ABRAMS, a Des Plaines alderman from the west side of the city, and a member of the boundary committee said he was "distressed" by the committee's decision. Abrams said he thought the group making the study "did not proceed properly" referring to the fact that representatives from High Ridge Knolls and Brentwood schools were not seated on the committee until after a decision on the boundary changes were made.

Original members of the committee had earlier said the two schools were not asked for representatives because it was not anticipated their schools would be affected.

David Russell to head Bridge Youth Service

David R. Russell will begin his responsibilities today as the newly appointed director of The Bridge Youth Service in Palatine.

Russell, program director and youth counselor at The Bridge for the past three years, Tuesday night was appointed as director by the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

The Bridge Youth Center is at 434½ E. Northwest Hwy. and is a counseling center for youth.

Russell, 30, is a resident of Palatine and will receive a $14,000 yearly salary in the new position. Russell received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Oberlin College in Ohio, and a Master of Divinity degree from the Chicago Theological Seminary where he also received his Doctor of Ministry degree.

Russell is the former founder and director of the "Place for People" youth center in Des Plaines, and was formerly the assistant minister of youth education of the First Congregational Church in Des Plaines.

RUSSELL WAS chosen by the youth committee from three major candidates for the position on the basis of his present participation in The Bridge, his demonstration of administrative abilities in past experience, and his ability to relate to young people, said youth committee member Paul Jung.

Russell said that his philosophy and future plans for The Bridge are concurrent with those of the former Bridge director, Donald Rago. Rago left as Bridge director in June to accept the position of assistant director of Cook County Sheriff's Youth Services.

"I think that The Bridge should continue to function as a problem solving and crisis agency, but that it should also begin to function as a prevention-education agency as well," Russell said.

Russell said that he plans to conduct workshops and education sessions for adolescents and adults on such topics as drugs, finishing high school, alcohol, and pregnancy. He feels that The Bridge should try to prevent many of the crises that happen between parents and their children due to the lack of education in these areas.

RUSSELL SAID that he also plans to have The Bridge work more closely with other community agencies like the police, park district, YMCA, schools, and civic organizations to "utilize all community resources in educating the public on these problems."

More effort is also planned in a youth outreach program in which Bridge counselors will go to the kids "instead of waiting for the kids to come to The Bridge with their problems."

"I think that having some of The Bridge counselors and employees out-

THE STREETS IN WILLOW WALK extend in a circular pattern around the subdivision's central lake and pool area in the western edge of Palatine. The area pool officially will open Saturday to mark the near completion of the Kennedy Brothers development. Willow Walk was first developed in 1972.

Willow Walk awaits pool opening

This is another in a continuing series of stories examining Palatine's neighborhoods.

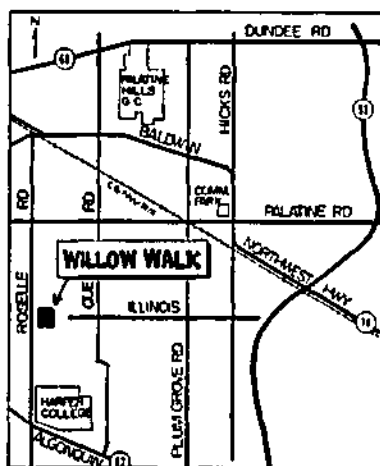

by DIANE STEFANOS

Residents of Willow Walk area of Palatine are anxiously awaiting the opening of their pool Saturday which will mark the near-completion of the new subdivision.

The pool was scheduled to open last summer, just a year after homes were being built on the subdivision's 60-acre tract. The unavailability of the land on which the pool was to be constructed, and the recent cement drivers' strike delayed completion.

The Kennedy Brothers acquired the undeveloped land east of Roselle Road and next to the Hunting Ridge subdivision in 1971 from the developers of the neighboring Cannongate subdivision. After naming it Willow Walk, the Kennedy Brothers announced plans for a 100-single-family home development that would have a total value of $7 million.

ALMOST THREE years later, 65 of those 100 homes on half-acre lots, have been built, and only 12 lots in the subdivision remain vacant.

Residents in Willow Walk have been working through their homeowners association, established in January, to assure that the developer completes the improvements in the area, including paving and asphalt of sidewalks, installation of street lights throughout the area, and

Village land-grant policy changed

The Palatine Village Board has made it possible for village-owned property to be donated to the Salt Creek Park District if the land lies within the district's limits.

Village trustees have changed a policy which said that village land suitable for park sites should be given to the Palatine Park District. This action came following a presentation by Salt Creek Park Supt. James DeVos at Monday's Village Board meeting.

"We're about ready to ask for certain areas in Palatine when our master plan comes in," DeVos said. Salt Creek expects to hear full details on its newly devised master plan for development at its next board meeting, Aug. 20.

The two Palatine sites which Salt Creek has in mind are on Belle Avenue, leading to Willow Lake, and just west of Palatine Road and Winston Drive on the Salt Creek. The Belle Avenue site is a possible location for Salt Creek Park District's proposed outdoor swimming pool, DeVos said. The Palatine-Winston site could serve as a playground, eventually becoming a rest stop on the Palatine bike trail, DeVos added.

DeVos said that Salt Creek previously had asked for the Palatine-Winston site, but was barred from receiving it because of the village's policy of donating park land only to the Palatine Park District.

Palatine Village Mgr. Anton Harwig said that no ordinance changes were involved. The decision to donate village park lands to Salt Creek Park District in the future was merely a policy statement, he said.

Enforce district renewal law evenly, village told

Palatine officials have been warned against picking and choosing which buildings will remain in the downtown business district.

Village Atty. Bradley M. Glass has advised the village board that if it decides to enforce an amortization ordinance, which took effect July 1, it should be done uniformly against all properties that are affected.

Enforcement of the ordinance would eliminate all wood buildings, houses and buildings with dwelling units in the downtown area.

Glass' opinion has been referred to the planning, building and zoning committee of the board, which is reviewing the ordinance and is expected to make a recommendation soon.

A flexible approach to enforcement of the ordinance had been recommended by Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones so some of the character of the downtown area could be preserved.

Glass said he would have "grave concerns" about this type of flexible approach but adds each building must be reviewed individually.

Glass further warns that indefinite failure to enforce the ordinance, adopted in 1957, will tend to weaken it and make it more difficult to enforce at a later date.

"The village could again preserve its enforcement rights by granting a grace period pursuant to a resolution making reference to an overall plan to redevelop and update its business district and other parts of the village," Glass states.

A $300,000 lottery Bonanza may answer their prayers

by BARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on ... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

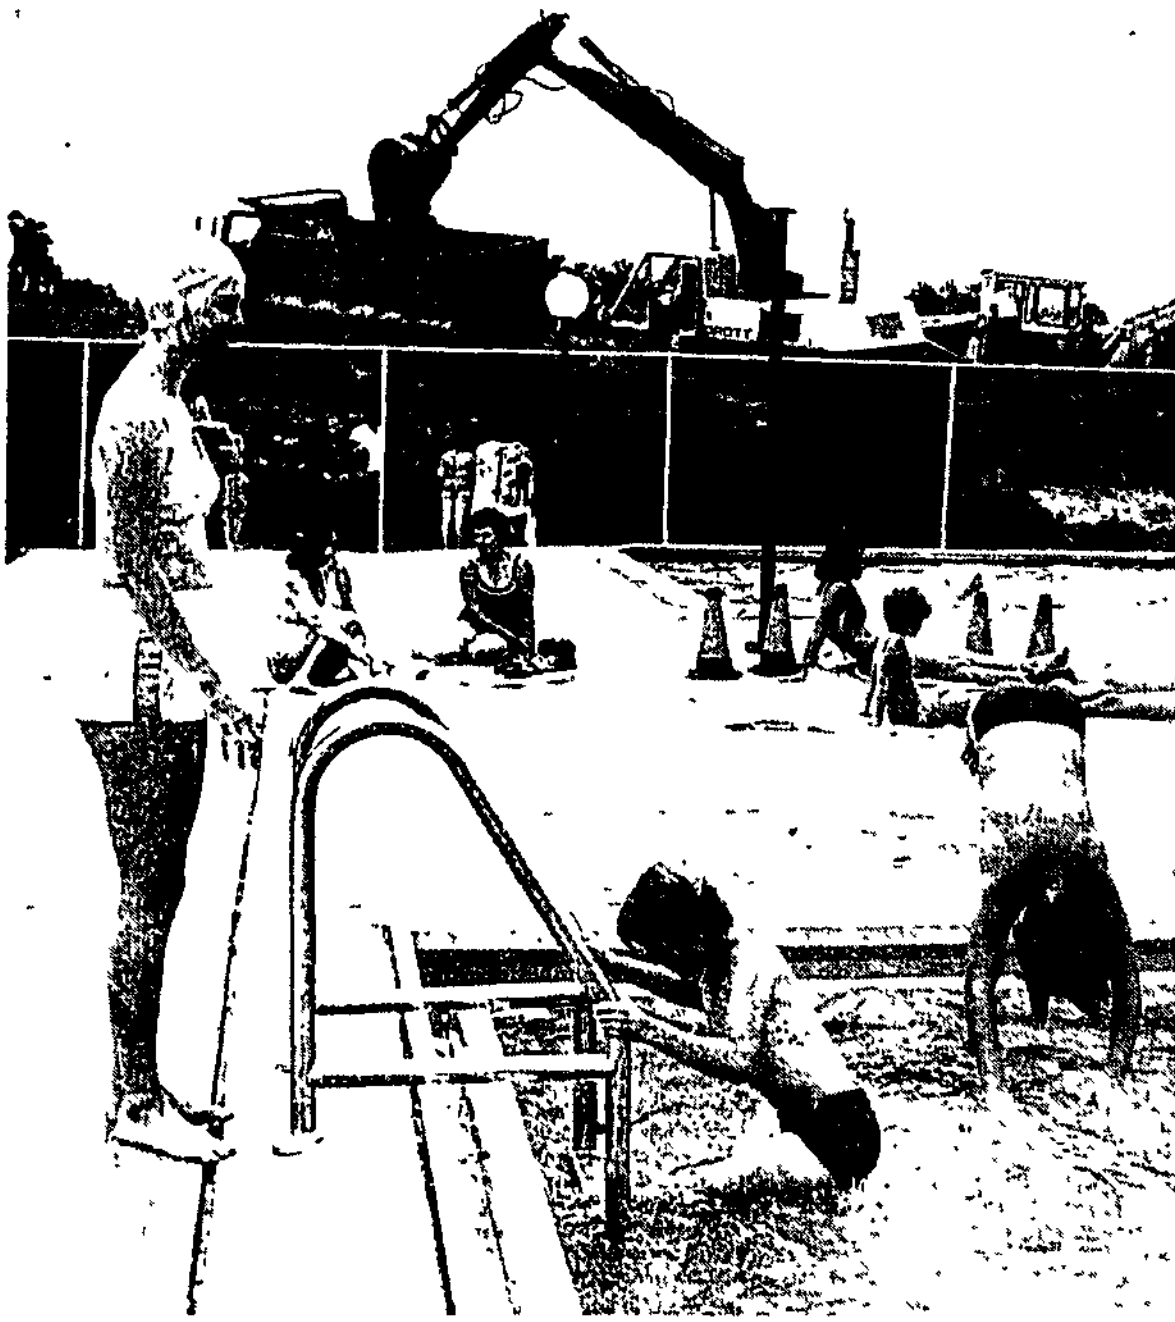

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-drawing of the Illinois Lottery. The Hoffman Estates couple, both Spanish teachers, are natives of Pinar del Rio, Cuba.

PALATINE RESIDENTS were able to use the new Birchwood Park Pool last week when it opened after almost one year of construction. The pool, 435 Illinois Ave., is completed although the contractor still is working on the parking lot and driveway area. The pool will be open daily during the remainder of the summer.

Homicide charge filed in fatal crash

Salvatore Loschlavo has been charged with reckless homicide by Arlington Heights police in connection with the one-car crash last week that took the life of his passenger, Kathleen M. Edgett, 39, of Rolling Meadows.

Loschlavo, 40, of 730 Hicks Rd., Palatine, was the driver of a 1972 Cadillac that crashed on Dundee Road near Kennicott Avenue. He is listed in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital with multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

Police said Loschlavo was driving westbound on the north side of Dundee Road. That side of the road is under construction and is closed to traffic.

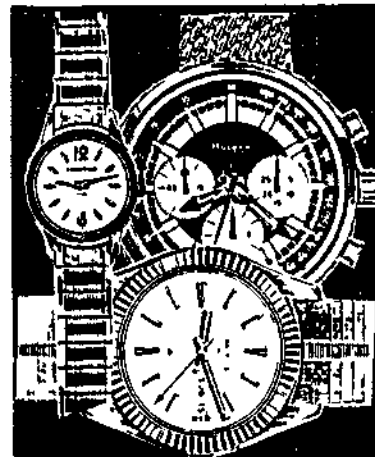

The road is paved except for a 20-foot section that will be the intersection with Kennicott. The car apparently left the paved road and went across the gravel section before striking the road where the pavement resumes, according to police.

The pavement at that point is about nine inches higher than the gravel, police said.

The bumper of the car struck the raised pavement and the impact "tore loose" the engine and seats, police said.

Miss Edgett died at the hospital after being pulled from the wreckage.

The filing of charges, approved by the state's attorney felony review board, marks an end to an eight-day police investigation.

Village board wrapup

Gas fumes gone in Palanois Park

Gasoline fumes have been eliminated in the Palanois Park subdivision but Palatine officials aren't quite sure what they did to correct the problem.

Trustee Robert J. Guss Jr. reported to the Palatine Village Board that there have been no complaints of gas fumes from the homeowners for nearly three months and he believes the problem is solved.

Since homeowners and village officials started meeting in January to seek a solution to the problem, the village has tested the tanks of all gas stations in the area and monitored the sewers. Questionnaires were also sent to residents, seeking information on the problem.

Guss said if the fumes, which we identified as being caused by gasoline in the sewers, became a problem again the village would continue its investigation into the cause.

Guss to head committee

Palatine Trustee Robert J. Guss Jr. has been appointed temporary chairman of the village board's planning, building and zoning committee and a temporary member of the administration, finance and zoning committee and a temporary member of the administration, finance and legislation committee.

Guss is temporarily replacing Trustee Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. who is recovering from surgery at Northwest Community Hospital and is expected to be absent from board meetings for a month.

McDonald's disannex denied

The board has rejected a request from McDonald's to disannex the parking lot on Northwest Highway so it can be annexed to Arlington Heights, and officials of that village have rejected a request to disannex the building so it can be annexed to Palatine.

Palatine officials thought Arlington Heights should disannex the property because Palatine had disannexed property to Arlington Heights for the new train station.

Parks' liquor fee waived

The board has agreed to waive the liquor license fee for the Palatine Park District.

Later liquor permit sought

Swiss Bavarian Village in the Palatine Mall has applied to the village board for a liquor license permitting it to stay open until 1 a.m. on weekdays and 2 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

This type of liquor license does not currently exist in the village. The request has been forwarded to the health, safety and welfare committee of the board for review.

Little City tag day OK'd

Little City Foundation has received approval from the village board to hold a tag day Sept. 6. Little City is a residential community for mentally retarded children.

Village workers charged with politicking

Law bans employe campaigning

Charges of politicking by village employees in the last local election were made Monday as the Palatine Village Board adopted an ordinance banning political activity by municipal employees in village elections.

"This ordinance primarily comes out of a concern that anyone would interpret this administration as being interested in using employees politically," said Trustee Richard W. Fonte, referring to a recent statement by Trustee Fred H. Zajonc in The Herald.

Zajonc charged the Republican administration with building a "political organization" and said he would not be surprised if the new department heads are "expected to help in the elections."

Fonte called Zajonc's charges "a lie and distortion," and said he believed they were made "for political reasons." He demanded a public apology from Zajonc to the new department heads.

ZAJONC REFUSED to make a public apology and said, "I ask the people to

Fred Zajonc

Richard Fonte

judge what is happening to the employees."

Republican use of the police department in the 1973 village elections was charged by Zajonc to which Fonte charged the Village Independent Party (VIP) with using village employees as VIP precinct captains.

"There have been abuses on both sides. I can name names on both sides," said Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones, stating the new ordinance would clearly prohibit abuses by all political groups in the future.

Provisions of the new ordinance, which was introduced by Fonte, include:

- No village employee shall campaign for or make a contribution to the campaign of any candidate for a village office.

- It is unlawful for any person to coerce or solicit a village employee to campaign or contribute in a village election.

- No village employee shall have adverse personnel action taken against him for refusing to participate in a village election.

Violation of the ordinance carries a misdemeanor charge and fine of $500 for each conviction.

Village employees include volunteer firemen, deputy policemen and all compensated officers of the village other than elected officials. In order for a village employee to run for election and campaign for himself, he would first have to resign his position with the village.

A copy of the ordinance will be enclosed with village employees' paychecks this week.

the completion of subdivision facilities such as the pool and cabana.

Residents of Willow Walk are just starting to sit back in a sigh of relief now

Community Park hit by vandals

An estimated $100 damage was done to playground and park property at the Palatine Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd., last weekend.

Palatine police report that shrubs were uprooted, a children's slide was tipped over, and the fence around the hockey rink was damaged between Saturday morning and Sunday night. The park district reported the vandalism Tuesday.

that the characteristic first few years of struggle in any new subdivision is over.

An old-fashioned gas light stands in front of each of the two-story French provincial and colonial homes in the subdivision. The gas street lights shed light on the central pond in the subdivision, that is bordered by some of the homes. The man-made retention pond offers sailing, swimming, fishing and skating activities to residents in the area. The subdivision's new pool and cabana facilities will be located adjacent to one side of the lake. The homes were originally sold for a beginning $58,000 and higher. The average range of home prices today in Willow Walk is $80,000 - $100,000.

MIKE BURGET, president of the Willow Walk Homeowners Assn., said that the association, "although new, is very well supported by the residents."

Members of the association have met with the Kennedy Brothers to discuss the completion of the subdivision and any problems that have arisen in the development of the area.

Homeowners association members have also taken an active stand opposing along with residents of the Hunting Ridge subdivision in opposition to the proposed Draper development south of Willow Walk.

"I would say that this homeowners association will be a very, very good one, in that its members are already quite concerned about the area," Burget said.

"It's something that every new subdivision really needs so that residents can get things done quickly, the way that they want them to be done," he said.

Russell said that more specific changes will be taking place in The Bridge programs within the next two months.

"The Bridge will continue its crisis line and counseling services, and all the other services, but it will just expand on those services and try to offer more in areas we have been weak in — preventative problem prevention," Russell said.

David Russell to head Bridge Youth Service

David R. Russell will begin his responsibilities today as the newly appointed director of The Bridge Youth Service in Palatine.

Russell, program director and youth counselor at The Bridge for the past three years, Tuesday night was appointed as director by the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

The Bridge Youth Center is at 434 1/2 E. Northwest Hwy. and is a counseling center for youth.

Russell, 30, is a resident of Palatine and will receive a $14,000 yearly salary in the new position. Russell received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Oberlin College in Ohio, and a Master of Divinity degree from the Chicago Theological Seminary where he also received his Doctor of Ministry degree.

Russell is the former founder and director of the "Place for People" youth center in Des Plaines, and was formerly the assistant minister of youth education of the First Congregational Church in Des Plaines.

RUSSELL WAS chosen by the youth committee from three major candidates for the position on the basis of his present participation in The Bridge, his demonstration of administrative abilities in past experience, and his ability to relate to young people, said youth committee member Paul Jung.

Russell said that his philosophy and future plans for The Bridge are concurrent with those of the former Bridge director, Donald Rago. Rago left as Bridge director in June to accept the position of assistant director of Cook County Sheriff's Youth Services.

"I think that The Bridge should continue to function as a problem solving and crisis agency, but that it should also begin to function as a prevention-education agency as well," Russell said.

Russell said that he plans to conduct workshops and education sessions for adolescents and adults on such topics as drugs, finishing high school, alcohol, and pregnancy. He feels that The Bridge should try to prevent many of the crises that happen between parents and their children due to the lack of education in these areas.

RUSSELL SAID that he also plans to have The Bridge work more closely with other community agencies like the police, park district, YMCA, schools, and civic organizations to "utilize all community resources in educating the public on these problems."

More effort is also planned in a youth outreach program in which Bridge counselors will go to the kids "instead of waiting for the kids to come to The Bridge with their problems."

"I think that having some of The Bridge counselors and employees out there circulating with kids, where they usually hang around, is going to improve our relationship with them and will allow us to truly relate their problems and situations," Russell said.

Russell said that more specific changes will be taking place in The Bridge programs within the next two months.

"The Bridge will continue its crisis line and counseling services, and all the other services, but it will just expand on those services and try to offer more in areas we have been weak in — preventative problem prevention," Russell said.

"GIVE ME LOVE" is the theme of Rolling Meadows Park District's water show to be held Friday at the sports complex pool. The Water Ballet Club and several district swimming programs will participate in the water show beginning at dusk. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Parks to issue $25,000 in tax warrants soon

The Rolling Meadows Park District board will issue tax anticipation warrants for $25,000 Aug. 20 because of late returning tax funds.

The warrants are being issued to cover August expenses. The district expects to begin receiving more tax money after Sept. 16 when tax bills are due.

Stephen Person said that $34,197.99 is needed to cover August's bills and payroll, and only $12,620 is on hand. He will ask district lawyers to authorize the sale of warrants for $100,000, but said that warrants for only $25,000 will be sold. The $100,000 limit would allow further tax warrant sales in the event that tax funds are further delayed.

Although the interest charged on the warrants will not be known until the sale date, Person said rates are running at 6 per cent.

David Adams

David Adams to go to school in Mexico

David Adams, 16, of 3902 Wren Ln., Rolling Meadows, will leave for Mexico Friday as the Rolling Meadows Rotary Club's foreign exchange student.

He will attend classes as a high school senior, although he already has been graduated from Rolling Meadows High School. The youth hopes to study liberal arts at Harper College upon his return here next year.

Teacher salary agreement reached; details withheld

An agreement has been reached in teacher salary talks in High School Dist. 211 but both sides are withholding the details of the settlement until next week.

Shirley Mertz, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, said an agreement on teacher salary contracts for the coming school year was reached between the teachers' negotiating team and the Dist. 211 Board of Education Tuesday.

Neither side will release the details of the agreement until Wednesday. "Details will not be made public until the negotiating team has had time to get back to the teachers," said Mrs. Mertz. She said teachers will be informed of the contract settlement by mail next week and will be asked to vote on the agreement Aug. 30. The board of education is expected to approve new teacher contracts Sept. 12.

TEACHERS HAVE been asking for a 10 per cent raise in salary next year to keep up with the rise in the cost of living. They argued that the consumer price index rose 12.6 per cent between February last year and February this year but teachers received an increase in salary of only 4 per cent last year.

Teachers have asked the board to raise the base salary, for a beginning teacher with no experience, to $9,850.

The board had offered teachers a 6.2 per cent increase in pay next year which would raise the base salary from $9,950 to $10,550. The board claimed the district is limited in its income and cannot pay the teachers more.

Salary talks in Dist. 211 began last February and intensified in June when 250 teachers rallied in support of their negotiating team. A mediator from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service was called in to settle the dispute.

Dist. 211 classes begin Aug. 29. Last year teachers and the board reached a settlement in June.

Parks, Rotary Club to sponsor water carnival

Rolling Meadows Park District and Rolling Meadows Rotary Club will co-sponsor a water carnival at the sports complex pool from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Aug. 26.

Rudy Nelson, facility coordinator for the park district, said that all ages are welcome to this free annual event, paid for by the Rotary Club.

The evening will feature raft races, diving for coins, a watermelon struggle, swimming races, a splash dive contest, and will end with a water volleyball tournament between the park district and the Rotary Club. Last year the Rotarians took two out of three games in the contest.

Admission is free and watermelon and lemonade will be served. All participants in the carnival will receive a ribbon or certificate noting their participation.

A $300,000 lottery Bonanza may answer their prayers

by BARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $100,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and travelling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 62-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco of Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full cycle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

City Council wrapup

Hearing requested on city's budget

A public hearing on a proposed $985,587 appropriation ordinance in Rolling Meadows has been requested by Ald. Kenneth Rietzke, 5th.

Rietzke made the request during a meeting Tuesday of the city council when the ordinance was presented for a first reading. The hearing would likely be held at the Aug. 27 council meeting when the ordinance must be passed.

The ordinance calls for an increase in tax revenue, including a new $225,000 levy for the police department and general funding needs. The proposed ordinance likely would mean a tax increase, but the exact rate would not be determined until calculations are made next year.

The ordinance must be passed and sent to the county clerk's office by the second Tuesday in September. However, part or all of the requested funds could be abated by the council by Dec. 31 if it is determined that other revenue sources will provide sufficient funds for the city.

Police radio hearing set

The police committee will meet Aug. 22 to discuss a proposal from Motorola Inc. to equip city police squad cars with a new mobile communications system.

The new system, the first of its kind in the world, has been offered to the city for $50,000, although its actual cost is nearly $90,000. The company is anxious to have the system operational by Sept. 21 in time for demonstration to the International Chiefs of Police Association.

However, the city's treasury currently has no surplus funds for the project. During a presentation before the city council Tuesday, Motorola vice president Roy Grimes said the company would be willing to arrange a payment plan if one can be agreed to between the city and the company.

The council will make the final decision on whether to purchase the equipment.

Manager to attend parley

City Mgr. James Watson has been authorized to attend the fall meeting in Texas of the International City Managers Assn. Ald. Thomas Scanlan, 1st, and Ald. Stephen Eberhard, 3rd, were the only two of six aldermen present to vote against the $600 trip expense.

Fees waived for carnival

The council voted to waive all permit fees except liquor license fees for the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center's annual West Fest carnival. The carnival will be held Aug. 22-25.

$143,000 in tax revenue

Motor fuel tax revenues for June amounted to $17,973 and sales tax rebates to the city for May amounted to $125,079, Dept. City Clerk Elizabeth Houldsworth reported.

To Lutheran General Hospital

Telephone call alcoholic's first step

by LINDA PUNCH

For many alcoholics, a five-minute talk with Betty Stadler or Nancy Scovill may be their first step toward recovery.

Program specialists at the Lutheran General Hospital Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholism, the two women are the first contact many alcoholics have with the center. Their phone interview with the patient often determines whether the alcoholic continues to seek help.

Program specialists are trained to counsel alcoholics as well as give out information on the various types of programs and facilities available for treatment. As part of their orientation, the women go through the same type of interview and evaluation program as the patients.

"A LOT OF PEOPLE look on alcoholism as a moral problem — we consider it a health problem," Mrs. Stadler said.

Mrs. Scovill notes that many of the callers expect a hostile reaction to their drinking problem.

Many callers phone and seek a "little information for a friend," according to Mrs. Scovill, but later admit they have the problem.

"A lot of people who call in are more or less forced to by their family or employer," she said. "Denial is one of the biggest things to overcome. Admitting he has a drinking problem is a big step for an alcoholic."

The program specialists also try to clear up any misconceptions about the center's program.

"A lot of people have read or heard about the center but they don't know what they're asking for," Mrs. Scovill said. "Most have this terrible fear — we call it the state hospital syndrome — that they'll be locked up in a room and left to shake it out alone."

"PATIENTS HERE come and go as they please — there's a great deal of freedom," she added. "The center is a very calming place — you can't tell the patients from the staff."

While the program specialists are on duty for only 8 hours a day, there is staff available at night to handle any crisis situations. "There is always someone at the nursing stations who can either admit a patient or refer them to other sources," Mrs. Stadler said.

The staff is also equipped to handle inquiries from the families of alcoholics, she said, noting that alcoholism is "definitely a family illness."

"Sometimes it's hard to convince families that they all need help," she said, adding that anyone close to an alcoholic is affected by the illness to some extent.

The program specialists lean heavily on organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), Al-Anon and Alateen, groups devoted to helping the alcoholic and his family find solutions to their problems.

Committee sticks to its school boundary decision

by BOB GALLAS

A committee appointed to study boundary changes in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 has decided to stick with an original decision that would send Mount Prospect school children into Des Plaines schools, despite strong objections from Des Plaines residents.

The committee, made up of school community council members, board of education members and residents of the affected school areas, met Tuesday to formulate a recommendation to the board at its next regular meeting Monday.

The committee also voted to allow a minority report, representing views and recommendations of Des Plaines residents on the committee, to be presented to the board.

The committee's decision, which came after weeks of meetings and arguments, now clearly asks the board of education to make a decision on a hotly contested issue.

THE PROPOSAL WOULD eventually send an estimated 50 children from Crystal Towers and Forest Cove apartments in Mount Prospect to Brentwood School, 260 W. Dulles, Des Plaines. The proposal also would eventually send an estimated 26 children from Laurel Estates apartments to High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dara James, Des Plaines.

The children would have otherwise gone to already overcrowded John Jay School, 1835 W. Pheasant Tr., Mount Prospect. Since most of the apartment units involved are either under construction or not yet started, only 15 additional children would be sent to the two schools this fall as a result of the change. No children will be transferred from Jay. Children from the three complexes already attending Jay will be allowed to continue.

ALAN ABRAMS, a Des Plaines alderman from the west side of the city, and a member of the boundary committee said he was "distressed" by the committee's decision. Abrams said he thought the group making the study "did not proceed properly" referring to the fact that representatives from High Ridge Knolls and Brentwood schools were not seated on the committee until after a decision on the boundary changes were made.

Original members of the committee had earlier said the two schools were not asked for representatives because it was not anticipated their schools would be affected.

Abrams wants the John Jay children to be sent to Robert Frost School, Mount Prospect, but original members of the committee already had ruled the school out, saying a planned unit development proposed for that area would soon send an estimated additional 60 children to that school.

ABRAMS SAID HE thought the committee's decision to change the boundaries was "premature." "That area will have a population explosion in the next one or two years and all the boundaries are just going to have to be changed all over again," he said.

Abrams said he did not know what recommendation his minority group would present to the Board of Education, but that they would meet this week to discuss the matter.

A board decision on the matter will be made Monday at the 8 p.m. board meeting at the district administration center. The meeting immediately will adjourn to Friendship Junior High, 550 Elizabeth Ln., Des Plaines, in order to accommodate an anticipated large crowd.

Woodfield 76 plans queried by zoners, residents

Schaumburg zoning board members and residents Wednesday night questioned the ability of the village to control development of Woodfield 76 under the terms of an ordinance proposed by developers.

In a Planned Metro-Center zoning district requested by developers, complete responsibility for insuring that a schematic design is followed becomes the responsibility of the building commissioner.

The Planned Metro-Center, proposed by Union Oil Co. of California, the Pritzker family which owns the Hyatt hotel

3 east lanes of tollway to open Aug. 22

All three eastbound lanes of the Northwest Tollway between Ill. Rte. 53 and Barrington Road should be open Aug. 22, John Binder, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, said Tuesday.

The westbound lanes of the tollway were opened to traffic over the weekend, Kinder said.

The roadway was widened from two to three lanes in each direction, and three-foot concrete median barriers have been constructed. The construction work was part of a $4½ million improvement program funded by money collected in tolls. Striping of two eastbound lanes must be finished before the stretch of tollway can be fully used, Kinder said.

TRAFFIC HAS traveled on two narrow lanes created from one resurfaced lane and part of the median strip.

Construction began a year ago, and work was done in two phases. The first phase included barrier and widening construction, and the second was resurfacing of lanes used during the first phase.

The concrete barriers were constructed to eliminate the possibility of cars crossing the median and crashing head-on with oncoming vehicles. State officials have said head-on collisions are among the most serious when high speed driving is involved.

chain, and Bennett and Kahaweller Associates, a Chicago real estate firm, would be developed on a 237-acre Golf Road site north of Woodfield Shopping Center.

Sandy Carsello, 1436 Kingston Ln., asked for clarification at Wednesday's zoning hearing on whether developers will be required to appear before the plan commission for phasing approval during the 20-year project.

"IT DEPENDS ON THE development plan. Once approved, like other developments, it would be up to the building department to process, but in this case there is no phase approval required by the plan commission," replied Village Atty. Jack M. Slagel. He was referring to the proposed ordinance prepared by developers.

Normally, in Schaumburg, planned unit developments are brought back to the village board or plan commission for individual phase approval.

Zoning board members also questioned whether a metro-district should be limited to specific areas of the village accessible to major roads. They also considered designating an urban core for this type of development.

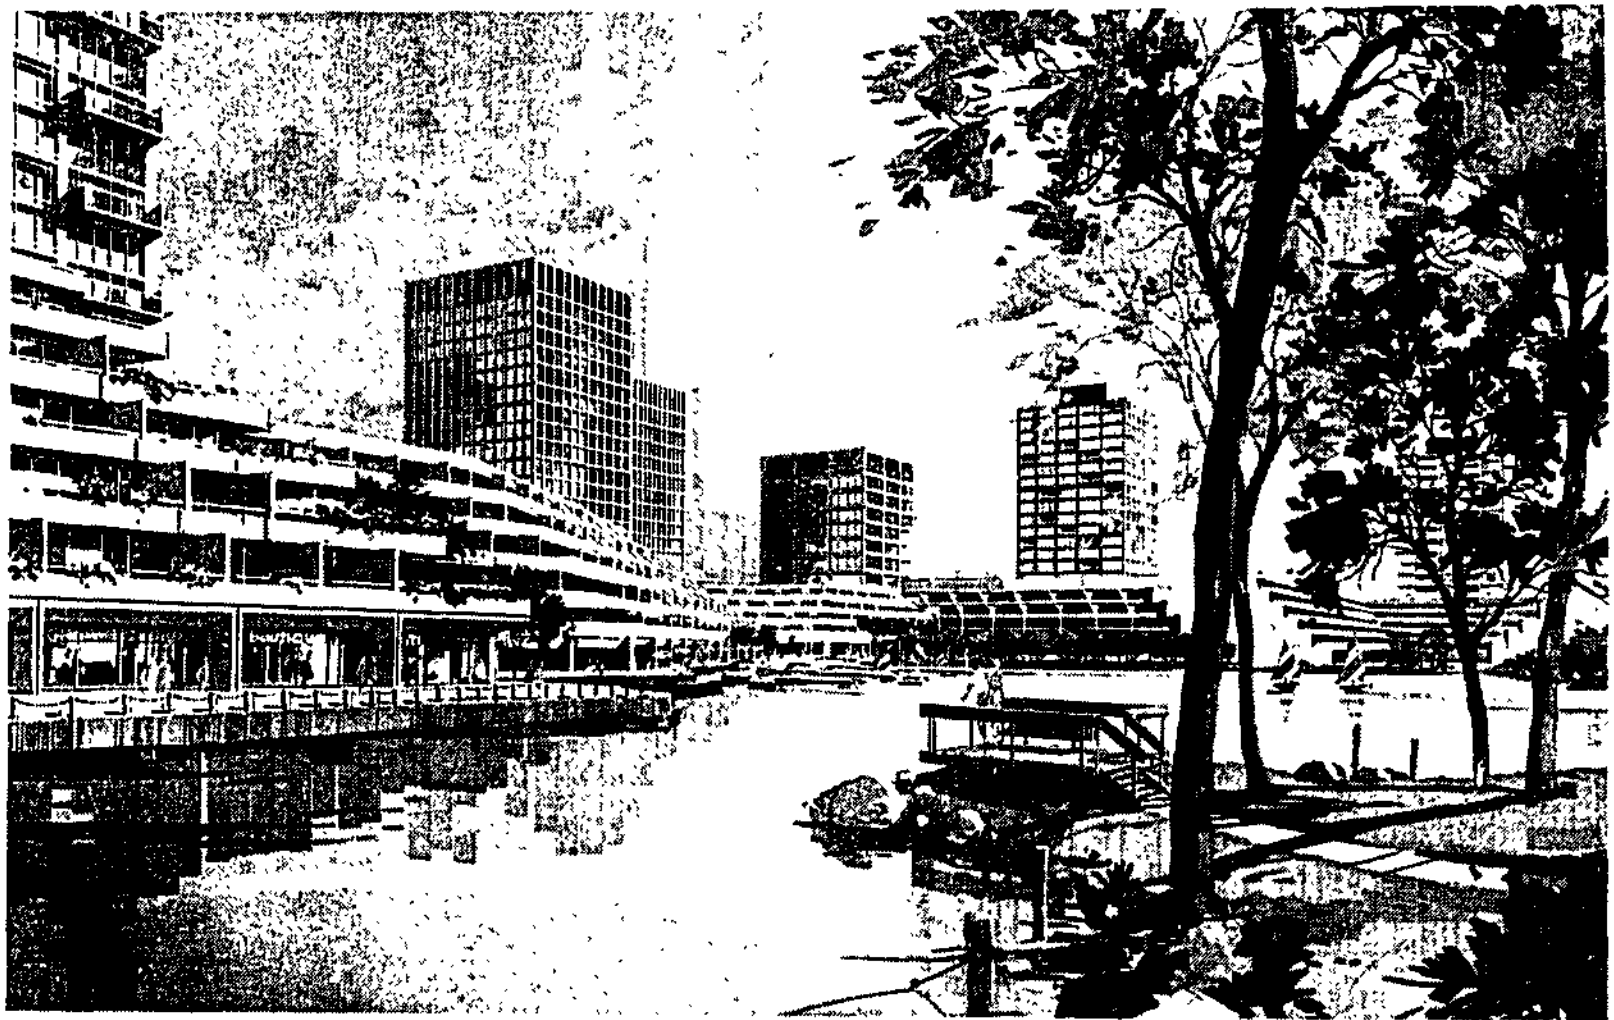

H. James Rosenberg, 1918 Filntshire Dr., asked zoners to carefully consider the entire philosophy of the proposed ordinance. Rosenberg questioned approval of a "planned urban area in an area not now urban."

ONLY BROAD CONCEPTS of the proposed $250 million project were revealed at Wednesday's hearing. Plans call for 50 per cent of the project to be covered with buildings, 30 per cent paved area and 20 per cent to remain open space.

Zoning board members had not yet begun an examination of the schematic site plan at press time. It was noted, however, that building heights had not been specified in the site design.

Barry Angerola, 513 Summit Dr., asked zoners to rewrite the developers ordinance giving it additional study before making a recommendation to the village board.

The basic presentation was made by Marshall Bennett, of Bennett and Kahaweller, who explained the plan had been prepared over the last four years. Market studies indicated that more than 5,000 residential units could have been included, but developers have chosen to limit the development to 3,500 units plus commercial and recreational areas, he said.

A 10-ACRE lake bordered by terraced residential buildings, with office buildings in the background, is part of the Woodfield 76 plan, presented to

Schaumburg's zoning board Wednesday night. The development will include commercial and recreational facilities. It is proposed for 237 acres bounded by the Northwest Tollway, Ill. Rte. 53, Golf Road and Meacham Road. Phased construction calls for early development of the eastern half.

A six-member slate for the April, 1975, village election will be named Oct. 24 by Schaumburg United Party.

Nominees for village president, village clerk and four expiring trustee posts will be selected at SUP's second party convention at Lancer Restaurant, 50 E. Algonquin Rd.

Trustee Ray Kessell has said he will probably seek the village president position on the SUP ticket.

Terms of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher and Clerk Sandy Carsello will expire next year. Trustee positions to be filled in the April 15 election are now held by Ray McArthur, Ray Kessell, James Guthrie and Edward Olsen.

McArthur was elected to a two-year term in 1973. Kessell is completing his third four-year term, and Guthrie is finishing his first full term.

OLSEN WAS APPOINTED to the village board earlier this year to fill the unexpired term of Denis Ledgerwood. Ledgerwood, who resigned in January was elected to a four-year term in 1973.

Atcher, elected in 1959, has indicated he does not plan to seek another term and in preparation for that event, the village board has adopted an ordinance creating the post of village manager, paving the way for a future part-time village president.

Atcher has served as full-time president since 1967 when anticipated growth of the village mandated the job.

McArthur recently said he is uncertain about seeking a four-year term and Guthrie has expressed reluctance to continue in public office.

OLSEN IS, HOWEVER, expected to run for the remainder of his unexpired two-year term. Before the trustee appointment, Olsen served a nine-month stint on the zoning board.

Mrs. Carsello has not made her plans known, though SUP sources have suggested she might next year seek an elected office other than clerk.

At any rate, every dues paying SUP member is entitled to one vote at the October convention.

Dennis Conley, SUP area chairman for Sheffield Manor, has been named convention chairman.

TRUDIE CAFFERATA and Nancy Larson will serve as co-secretaries of the convention. Mrs. Cafferata is president of SUPWA, the women's auxiliary of SUP; Mrs. Larson is SUPWA past president.

SUP was formalized as a permanent village political party in 1971 and carried its four-member slate to victory in the 1973 village election.

Since that time Atcher has served as party chairman and Kessell is deputy chairman.

by BARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Planners recommend OK of K-mart Shopping Center

The proposed K-mart Shopping Center between Higgins and Golf roads east of Gannon Drive received the approval of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission Wednesday night.

The commission's recommendation for partial annexation and zoning changes will be presented to the village board Monday. However, the village board must hold a public hearing at a later date to conform with legal requirements.

Before the development can proceed, the builders also must obtain site plan approval from the plan commission and the village board.

THE SHOPPING center is to include a grocery store in a mall with smaller shops. One plot in the 20-acre project is not included in the plan. It is directly across Gannon Drive from the Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Assn. building currently under construction and is to be developed later under a restricted set of potential uses.

Plan commission members reaffirmed their agreement with E. N. Malsel, K-mart's development firm. The construction would start within one year and be completed within two years.

Plan commissioners also suggested changes in traffic patterns around the center to minimize accident hazards.

E. N. Malsel's spokesman, Marshall Goldman, said he would consider them but that his decisions would be based on the cost factor. The recommendations included eliminating a proposed cut through the Higgins Road median strip, and perhaps eliminating a similar median cut on Golf Road.

Plan Comr. Edward Kalasa questioned whether a K-mart is the best use of the land.

Kalasa voted for the zoning change for the portion of the site already in the village but voted against annexing the portion outside the village and giving it commercial zoning.

Other commissioners suggested the area could become overabundant with discount shopping centers. They noted the proximity of a Zayre Shopping Center and Robert Hall Village.

Plan commission chairman Richard Regan warned them not to base their vote on that possibility, saying it would constitute unfair restraint of trade.

Part of 'Operation Alive On Arrival'

Jaycees to give $5,000 for Paramedic unit

Schaumburg Jaycees will present a $5,000 check to the Schaumburg Fire Dept. tonight toward the purchase of an ambulance equipped with paramedic equipment.

The contribution and fund-raising project to follow will be part of the group's "Operation A.O.A. — Alive On Arrival."

The Jaycees aim to have the $35,000 vehicle operating in Schaumburg by August, 1975, said Robert Starzyk, co-chairman.

TELEMETRY EQUIPMENT in the ambulance will allow fire fighters to transmit via radio to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, the electrocardiogram reading of emergency patients.

A doctor receiving the reading will then transmit instructions to the paramedics. A defibrillator also will be in the ambulance and is used to regulate faulting heart beats.

The paramedic program initiated in the Northwest suburbs in 1972 has been credited with saving numerous lives in the area. The paramedic ambulance the Jaycees will provide is to be Schaumburg's second.

THE JAYCEES' contribution tonight will be accepted by Village Pres. Robert

O. Atcher, who will add a personal gift, and Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen.

Jaycee Pres. Don Mjeon; Walter Childs, Operation A.O.A. co-chairman and Starzyk will make the presentation.

Starzyk said the federal government will be asked to provide half the cost of the special vehicle and that Jaycee fund-raising efforts over the year will provide additional funds.

Businesses, community organizations and residents also are asked to support the project by sending contributions to Operation A.O.A., c/o Schaumburg State Bank, 320 W. Higgins Rd., Schaumburg, Ill. 60172.

Widening OK'd at Meacham, Nerge

A contract providing for the widening of the traffic-plagued intersection of Meacham and Nerge roads has been approved by the Cook County Board of County Commissioners.

Also included in the $238,000 contract is the construction of a concrete pipe culvert on Plum Grove Road about one mile north of Nerge Road.

The Meacham-Nerge intersection improvement is expected to relieve rush hour congestion at the intersection by providing turning lanes. Existing pavement also will be resurfaced at the intersection.

It won't be known for at least one week when construction will start or how long the project will take, said Francine Stuart, director of public information for the Cook County Dept. of Highways.

Mrs. Stuart said a pre-construction hearing among those who will be involved on the project will be held, probably within the next two weeks, before any estimate on construction time can be given.

Rock Road Construction Co. was awarded the contract for the project which will be paid for with motor fuel tax funds.

Village named Bicentennial town

Schaumburg has been designated as an official Bicentennial community by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, Washington, D.C.

Community certification will be presented by Delbert Black, regional ARBA director, and U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said Kitty Conley, chairman of Schaumburg's bicentennial commission.

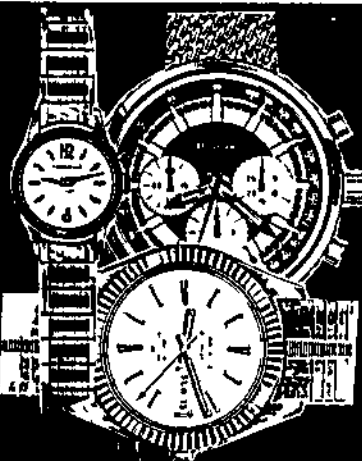

The presentation will serve as the main agenda item at the Aug. 27 village board meeting, Mrs. Conley said.

"In order to be designated as an official Bicentennial community, certain written requirements must be met and supported with a number of planned activities," she said.

Schaumburg's annual Septemberfest, a restored one-room school house at Roselle and Schaumburg roads, the village's proposed Schaumburg Centre historical district, and Spring Valley nature preserve provide "more than adequate" activities for certification, Mrs. Conley said.

A triumvirate color guard consisting of members of Schaumburg's police and fire departments and a representative of the Civil Defense unit will participate in the presentation ceremonies.

Police wrapup

Chicagoan fined $50 for shoplifting

A Chicago woman was fined $50 Wednesday in Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court for shoplifting a $4 bra from a store at the Woodfield Shopping Center, 44 N. N. Road and Rte. 53, Schaumburg.

Associate Judge George Zimmerman found Martha Samuels, 29, guilty of theft under $150 after a short trial. Miss Samuels was arrested June 24 by Sears Roebuck & Co. security agents for taking the undergarment.

About $1,540 worth of items was reported stolen Tuesday from Jeffrey Dale's apartment, 1004 N. Plum Grove Rd., Apt. 111, Schaumburg.

Taken in the burglary were an adding machine, two cameras, a television set, a watch, a suitcase, three rings and a $30 bill. Police said they could find no means of forced entry to the apartment.

Schaumburg police are investigating three thefts from cars, one in which four tires and wheels were stolen.

Officials for Larry Paul Oldsmobile, 1230 E. Golf Rd., reported Tuesday that the tires and wheels valued at $450 had been taken from a late model sports car in the car lot.

In another car theft reported Tuesday, Michael Lust, 162 Des Plaines Ln., Hoffman Estates, told authorities a battery, stereo equipment and radio valued at $450 were stolen from his car while it was at Roselle Dodge, 208 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

About $375 worth of items was stolen Tuesday from a car belonging to Robert Schmitt, 613 Bahama Ct., Schaumburg, while it was at the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Taken were a stereo unit, radio, brief case, binoculars and a pocket calculator.

Five cabinets stolen

Five cabinets valued at $300 were reported stolen Tuesday from a house under construction at 418 Summit Dr., Schaumburg, police said.

The cabinets belonged to the Asbrook Construction Co.

Village board wrapup

Builders to share sewer line expense

Developers who benefit from installation of the Walnut Lane trunk sanitary sewer in Schaumburg will be obligated to pay a share of the cost of installing the $500,000 system.

Trustees this week approved an agreement with Levitt Residential Communities insuring recapture of funds supplied in advance by the east coast builder.

The agreement requires future developers to pay a proportionate share of the system's cost.

The trunk sewer is to be completed by early spring by D. L. Amici Co., Melrose Park. It will start at the village's western boundary at Wise Road, run west to Syracuse Road to Walnut Lane ending at Schaumburg Road.

Village officials consider the sewer system a key to development of the western part of the village since it will serve a site at Schaumburg and Barrington roads being considered for Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center North.

Village officials predict it also may insure annexation of several large farms in the Schaumburg-Barrington road area.

2 named to advisory groups

Appointments to Schaumburg's zoning board and plans commission were ratified this week by village trustees.

Wayne J. Silva, 1900 Flintshire, was named to the zoning board of appeals. He fills a vacancy created last month by the resignation of Chester J. Mayner.

Silva, an attorney in private practice at 105 S. Roselle Rd., formerly was associated with the Village of Arlington Heights where he worked with Schaumburg Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel. Siegel also serves as counsel for Arlington Heights and Evanston.

Thomas A. Krull, 428 Putnam Ln., will fill an existing vacancy on the plans commission. A two-year resident of Schaumburg, Krull was one of 12 persons who applied for a village board vacancy earlier this year.

Building extension OKd

A 90-day extension on the start of construction was granted this week to ITI Realty and Funding Corp., developers of Laurelwood, a 23-acre Schaumburg tri-plex project near Roselle and Golf roads.

Joseph Ash, an attorney representing developers, told trustees that current economic conditions have slowed down the start of the 75-unit complex. Ash said developers are negotiating with lenders and hope to begin the project within three months.

ITI Building Corp. originally planned to develop the complex with construction to have begun last December. The builder later lost interest and village officials granted a six-month extension on the start of construction to allow recruitment of a new developer.

Sale prices are planned to range from $31,500 for a two-bedroom unit to $36,000 for three-bedroom condominiums.

Liquor license approved

Schaumburg officials have no objections to issuing a Class A (by the drink only) liquor license to Eugene Carelli, new owner of Caesar's Restaurant, near the intersection of Higgins and Golf roads.

Carelli told trustees he plans to continue serving Italian food but said he plans to emphasize the availability of wines in order to detract from the "pub atmosphere" at the restaurant. Carelli was formerly co-owner of Cal's Roast Beef, located next door.

Trustees also approved the eventual issuance of a Class A liquor license for a 40-lane bowling alley planned in the Lancaster Park commercial area on the east side of Roselle Road near Weathersfield Way.

Board members earlier had given tentative licensing approval for a bowling alley planned south of Weatherway Plaza on the west side of Roselle Road and explained plans for the facility have failed to materialize.

Bowling alley construction is slated to begin late this year with completion scheduled for the fall of 1974, said Burton Sherman, a Schaumburg attorney representing operators of the business.

Teacher salary agreement reached; details withheld

An agreement has been reached in teacher salary talks in High School Dist. 211 but both sides are withholding the details of the settlement until next week.

Shirley Mertz, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, said an agreement on teacher salary contracts for the coming school year was reached between the teachers' negotiating team and the Dist. 211 Board of Education Tuesday.

Neither side will release the details of the agreement until Wednesday. "Details will not be made public until the negotiating team has had time to get back to the teachers," said Mrs. Mertz. She said teachers will be informed of the contract settlement by mail next week and will be asked to vote on the agreement Aug. 30. The board of education is expected to approve new teacher contracts Sept. 12.

TEACHERS HAVE been asking for a 10 per cent raise in salary next year to keep up with the rise in the cost of living. They argued that the consumer

"Try it, you might like it" is the suggestion Schaumburg Health Director Robert Grossmann makes to anyone considering donating blood on Friday.

Grossmann and his employees in the village health department have been strong boosters of the community blood program since it was adopted in March, 1973. He takes pride in the knowledge that health staff members have donated in each drive held in Schaumburg.

Through the American Red Cross Community Blood Replacement Program, all residents are fully blood insured, provided a minimum of four per cent of the population donates annually.

Residents' blood-dependent relatives also are covered even if they do not live in the village. Coverage also is extended to persons with hemophilia, leukemia and cancer.

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT serves as Schaumburg's lifeline for residents faced with the need to pre-place blood for major surgery or replace blood used in emergencies.

As residents report their need, Grossmann's secretary, Nell Wright processes the requests first through a telephone call to the Mid-America Red Cross Blood Center in Chicago and later with written confirmation. Residents have reported blood needs which range from a 6-month-old baby to an elderly man suffering from aplastic anemia. Mrs. Wright said. To date, 36 residents have asked for coverage.

"Every request we have made so far has been allowed and that is really a great feeling," she said.

Organization of the community program has resulted in establishment of a complete Schaumburg donor file which Mrs. Wright said was put to good use this summer when the blood center reported a severe shortage of B-negative blood.

MARY NAGY, THE community drive chairman, was able to go to the file and solicit emergency donors to help alleviate the shortage, Mrs. Wright said.

The blood drive Friday will be held from 4 to 9 p.m. at St. Marcelline Social Center, Springinguth Road.

Appointments may be made by calling the health department, 894-4500, Mrs. Nagy, 529-1245, Nancy Larson, 894-7081, Terri Glynn, 529-8668, Louise Hartigan, 894-4518, Sue Berlet, 882-2634, Pete Justen, 894-9125 or Judy Skochinski, 893-

Superstar meet deadline Saturday

If you're going to prove you're the superstar athlete of the neighborhood, you'd better enter soon. Entry deadline for the Hoffman Estates Park District superstar competition is Saturday.

A special registration will be conducted from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday at the Vogeel Recreation Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd. All other entries can be made by mail or at the administration center in person. Superstar competition is Aug. 24-25.

Entry fee is $1. Only residents of the village or persons working fulltime within park district boundaries will be allowed to compete. Nonresident entry fee is $1.25.

There will be 10 events of which an entrant must choose seven to compete in. Events include swimming two laps at Community Pool, bowling one game for highest pin total, golfing on short-approach shots, playing tennis for one six-game set, running 100-yard dash and hitting baseballs for distance.

Other competitions are single-elimination, horseshoe tournament, bicycle race, archery contest and half-mile run for persons ages 18 through 39 and quarter-mile dash for persons more than 40 years old.

THERE ARE EIGHT age divisions for men and women. Trophies will be awarded to the "Superstar" (in each category) of Hoffman Estates.

Despite parents' protests

Boundary committee sticks to its original decision

by BOB GALLAS

A committee appointed to study boundary changes in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 has decided to stick with an original decision that would send Mount Prospect school children into Des Plaines schools, despite strong objections from Des Plaines residents.

The committee, made up of school community council members, board of education members and residents of the affected school areas, met Tuesday to formulate a recommendation to the board at its next regular meeting Monday.

The committee also voted to allow a minority report, representing views and recommendations of Des Plaines residents on the committee, to be presented to the board.

The committee's decision, which came after weeks of meetings and arguments, now clearly asks the board of education to make a decision on a hotly contested issue.

THE PROPOSAL WOULD eventually send an estimated 59 children from Crystal Towers and Forest Cove apartments in Mount Prospect to Brentwood School, 260 W. Dulles, Des Plaines. The proposal also would eventually send an estimated 26 children from Laurel Estates apartments to High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dara James, Des Plaines.

The children would have otherwise gone to already overcrowded John Jay School, 1835 W. Pheasant Tr., Mount Prospect. Since most of the apartment units involved are either under construction or not yet started, only 15 additional children would be sent to the two schools this fall as a result of the change. No children will be transferred from Jay. Children from the three complexes already attending Jay will be allowed to continue.

ALAN ABRAMS, a Des Plaines alderman from the west side of the city, and a member of the boundary committee said he was "distressed" by the committee's decision. Abrams said he thought the group making the study "did not proceed properly" referring to the fact that representatives from High Ridge Knolls and Brentwood schools were not seated on the committee until after a decision on the boundary changes were made.

Original members of the committee had earlier said the two schools were not asked for representatives because it was not anticipated their schools would be affected.

Abrams wants the John Jay children to be sent to Robert Frost School, Mount Prospect, but original members of the committee already had ruled the school out, saying a planned unit development proposed for that area would soon send an estimated additional 60 children to that school.

ABRAMS SAID HE thought the committee's decision to change the boundaries was "premature." "That area will have a population explosion in the next one or two years and all the boundaries are just going to have to be changed all over again," he said.

to pay half the cost of the work may encourage the village to consider the project for funding in its 1975-76 budget.

The areas of concern where school officials would like to see sidewalks installed include Wolf Road from Euclid Avenue to Kensington Road, Kensington Road from Wolf to Burning Bush Lane, and Euclid from Wolf east to River Road.

Haase said a written report on the sidewalk project has been given to Supt. John Fridlund for study and further comments. Because Fridlund has been on vacation since last Wednesday, no action has been taken on the report by the administration.

Haase added that the board at its last meeting agreed to postpone consideration of the proposal until its Sept. 3 meeting to give Fridlund time to expand on the report and formulate a presentation to give to the board.

Another reason the board delayed action on the proposal last week was to allow the administration time to develop a more thorough analysis of the project, Haase said.

The drive to get sidewalks installed along Wolf Road, Kensington Road and Euclid Avenue has been underway since March when the board agreed to work with a citizen's committee in an attempt to get the project started.

Joan Haase, wife of the board member, chaired the committee. After preliminary work in gathering information on the scope and cost of the project, Mrs. Haase turned the project over to her husband, who she felt is in a better position to see the work through.

Haase said he believes after all the material is presented to the board, it will agree to the proposal.

School board to consider sharing sidewalk expense

Action to get sidewalks installed along hazardous school routes in River Trails Dist. 26 may come next month when the board of education votes on a proposal to commit funds to the project.

William Haase, chairman of the board's finance committee and leader of the sidewalk installation project, said Wednesday he will propose that the board make a commitment to the Village of Mount Prospect to pay half the cost of project. Haase said estimates for the work have been set at $30,000, meaning each side would put up $15,000, according to the proposal.

Haase said a school board commitment

School registration to begin Monday

Registration for new students in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will begin Monday and continue through Aug. 28. Classes in the district begin Aug. 29.

Students entering kindergarten and fifth grade as well as new students entering the district are required to have a physical examination and be immunized against measles, rubella, tetanus, diphtheria, poliomyelitis and pertussis.

Registration will take place at each district school including Busse, 101 N. Owen St.; Fairview, 300 N. Fairview St.; Gregory, 400 E. Gregory St.; Lions Park School, 300 E. Council Trail Rd.; Sunset Park, 603 W. Lonnquist; Westbrook, 103 S. Busse Rd.; and Lincoln Junior High, 700 W. Lincoln St.

PITCHING ACE Ralph Doney, who also serves as Mount Prospect police chief, lets loose a high hard one during a softball game this week in which his policemen were pitted against village firemen. Doney was the losing pitcher and Fire Chief Lawrence A. Pairitz was the winning pitcher as the firefighters whipped the cops, 14 to 7. The police department had won the last three matches in the annual duel.

In River Trails district

Search for assistant school chief halted

The search for a new assistant superintendent in River Trails Dist. 26 is at a standstill for the time being.

While Supt. John Fridlund is on vacation, the job of finding a successor for former Assistant Supt. James Retzlaff has been put on a back burner with district officials more concerned at the moment with preparing for the opening of school on Sept. 3.

The assistant superintendent post became vacant when the board of education granted Retzlaff's request that he be reassigned as a principal. Effective last Monday, Retzlaff became principal of River Road School.

AT THE SAME TIME the board transferred Retzlaff, it reassigned former River Road Principal Joseph Wawak as the new principal of Indian Grove School. The vacancy at Indian Grove occurred when Principal Martin Rupe was fired by the board in April.

By a consensus of the board, Fridlund has been given the task of finding a successor to Retzlaff. Board Pres. Michael Sheyker also has said the job description for the assistant superintendent's position may be changed if Fridlund decides to reshuffle administrative duties.

As assistant superintendent, Retzlaff was in charge of the district's special education program, building maintenance, transportation and personnel.

Fridlund has offered no hint of how the assistant superintendent's role may change except to say that the duties will be made consistent with the strong points or special interest areas of whoever gets the job.

No timetable for finding a new assistant superintendent has been set. In the absence of Retzlaff, the duties of the job have been distributed among other administrative personnel.

Monday deadline for 'Chamber day'

Monday is the deadline to register for "Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Day" Wednesday at Old Orchard Country Club.

The event will feature golf and a buffet dinner, open to the public at $10 per person for golf and $7 for dinner.

Golf will start after 8:30 a.m., with prizes for the longest drive and closest-to-the-flag strokes on specified holes.

Cocktail hour with a cash bar will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30. Reservations are being taken by the Chamber, 119 S. Emerson St., or 398-6616.

A $300,000 lottery Bonanza may answer their prayers

by HARRY SIGALE

Monana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked Her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 52-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinardel Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Park board wrapup

Parks find no answer to vandal woes

The Prospect Heights Park Board of Commissioners looked at the district's vandalism problem Tuesday night, but could come up with no solutions.

Park Director Ronald Greenberg said "the only way" he sees to cut down vandalism is to patrol the parks nightly. "Ninety-nine per cent of our vandalism is more a nuisance than a monetary loss."

Greenberg told the park board that vandals destroyed the door to the skating rink warming house Monday. The house is on the Eisenhower School property along Camp McDonald Road. Greenberg also said one seat had been destroyed and another seat damaged on playground equipment at Jaycee Park, Brook Drive and Compton Street.

Last week Greenberg told The Herald he caught several youngsters after they had damaged guard swimsuits at Lions Pool. The children's parents are making restitution.

Board Pres. Max Lyle said the board should give "serious thought" on ways to combat vandalism. He also said the district will take to court any teen-agers they find vandalizing the parks.

Lighting of Jaycee and Kiwanis parks and the warming house was suggested as one means to cut down vandalism. Greenberg also told the board he had received information that youths were congregating at the new service center, 13 Prospect Ct., in the late night and early morning hours.

Sampson receives plaque

Former Park Comr. Wendell Sampson, who served from 1972 to 1974, was given a plaque commemorating his contribution to the district at Tuesday's park board meeting.

Consider water from village

The park district is considering buying water from Mount Prospect for its new community center/sports complex which will be built at the Lions Pool site on Camp McDonald Road at Elm Street. Mount Prospect has a water main on the other side of Camp McDonald Road.

Construction of the new building is tentatively scheduled to start Oct. 1, with bids to be accepted at the end of this month.

Baseball field approved

In connection with the park expansion program, the park board approved plans for a baseball field with 60-foot bases on the Eisenhower School park site.

OK $73,342 tax ordinance

The park board Tuesday passed its tax levy ordinance, in the sum of $73,342, for next year. The vote was unanimous.

$38,260 low bid to repave 5 miles of village streets

Bids were opened Tuesday for the resurfacing of five miles of residential streets in southwest Mount Prospect.

The low bid, $38,260, was submitted by Ritchel's Inc., Peoria. Another bid was submitted by Superior Blacktop, Addison, at $40,232.

Village Engineering Director Bernard H. R. Hemminger indicated he will recommend that the village board award the contract to Ritchel's, with work to begin later this month.

Following are the streets scheduled to be resurfaced: Robert Drive from Lonnquist Boulevard to Glen Lane, We-GO Trail from Golf Road to Lonnquist, See-Gwan Avenue from Golf to Lonnquist, Hiiwatha Trail from Elmhurst Road to Main Street, Main Street from Weller Creek to Sunset Road, Maple Street from Golf to Lonnquist, Golfview Drive from Edward Street to Albert Street, Albert from Golfview to Golthurst Avenue.

Golthurst from Albert to Edward, Edward from Golthurst to Golfview, Golfview Place from Golfview Drive to Golfview Court, Grace Drive from Cottonwood Lane to Frost Drive, Cypress Drive from Cottonwood to Eva Lane, Hickory Drive from Cottonwood north 400 feet, Catalpa Lane from Lavergne Drive to Busse Road, Magnolia Lane from Lavergne to Busse.

Pheasant Trail from Lavergne to Busse, Lavergne from Pheasant to Willow Lane, Tamarack Drive from Pheasant to Catalpa, Palma Drive from Lavergne to Sprucewood Drive, Fern Drive from Willow to Palm, Birch Drive from Willow to Palm, Robert Drive from Willow to Golf, Busse Avenue from Wille Street to Elmhurst Road.

St. Raymond School opens registration

Parents who wish to register their children for classes at St. Raymond School, 300 S. Elmhurst Rd., Mount Prospect, may do so between now and the opening of school Sept. 3.

Registration will be conducted at the school each morning from 9 to noon. Registration forms also are available at the church rectory, 301 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect.

A copy of the child's baptismal record is required for registration.

Cheryl Haugh honored

Cheryl Haugh, daughter of Mrs. Dolores Haugh of Mount Prospect, recently was awarded the University of Illinois alumni leadership award representing the School of Medical Art. Along with the award, she received a bachelor of science degree.

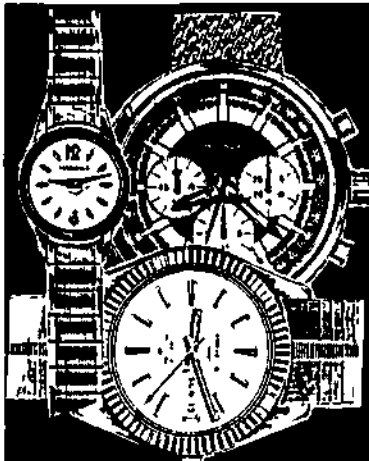

Miss Haugh, a graduate of Prospect High School and Harper College, will head the medical art department of Rush Presbyterian St. Luke Medical Center in Chicago.

Airman Finn assigned

Airman Mark J. Finn, son of Raymond J. Finn, 811 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training. He will study civil engineering structural pavements.

Navy fireman graduates

Navy Fireman Recruit Kevin A. Doyle, son of Mrs. Donna C. Doyle, 728 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect, recently was graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

Assessed valuation up slightly

Prospect Heights residents to pay lower school tax bills

A slightly higher assessed valuation and a reduced tax rate will result in lower school taxes for residents of Prospect Heights Dist. 23.

Figures for 1973 tax rates released this week by the county clerk's office show Dist. 23's total assessed valuation as $43,788,167, an increase of more than $1 million. The tax rate for the district will be $2.74 per $100 assessed valuation, down 6 cents from the 1972 rate of $2.80 per $100 assessed valuation.

James Hendren, business manager for the district, said he was pleased with the figures because they mean taxpayers in the district will bear a slightly lower financial burden for supporting schools.

Hendren said the district can expect a nominal increase in tax collections of about $10,000 over the amount collected last year, about $635,000. He added that he is pleased the total assessed valuation for the district increased because it means growth is continuing in the district.

HENDREN SAID he will recommend no major changes in the 1974-75 budget as a result of the tax information. The budget, which totals more than $2.491 million, was prepared and approved before the assessed valuation and tax rate figures were released.

The business manager added that some budget adjustments may be made later in the school year after the district gets a clearer picture of the state aid outlook for the coming year.

The district has already borrowed $490,000 with tax anticipation warrants. The warrants, which will be paid back at 6 1/2 per cent interest to the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, were needed because the district will not receive tax receipts on schedule due to the late issuance of tax bills.

The board of education will set its 1974 tax levy sometime next month. The levy must be forwarded to the county clerk's office for approval before the end of September.

Swimming pools sought for five high schools

A group of parents in High School Dist. 214 wants swimming pools built at five high schools in the district and is now exploring ways to get the project financed.

The parents, led by James E. Stolls, 441 S. Reuter Dr., Arlington Heights, met last week with school board member Geno Artemenko. The group represents about 24 families from the five schools in the district without pools, Rolling Meadows, Forest View, Elk Grove, Prospect and Hersey high schools.

"I think what we are basically talking about is not simply swimming pools but equalizing the facilities in the schools," said Stoll following a Dist. 214 Board of Education meeting Monday night. Although some of the schools need remodeling work and Forest View High School needs a fieldhouse, the five swimming pools are "the biggest item," he said.

STOLL SAID the parents would meet again on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the district administration center and would probably come before the board with a proposal on Aug. 26.

Artemenko said Tuesday that the cost of the pools, remodeling for Arlington and Prospect high schools, and a fieldhouse for Forest View High School would total between $7 and $10 million. He said Dist. 214 could probably do the work without increasing the district's tax rate. Several years ago taxpayers soundly defeated a referendum to add pools to some of the school buildings.

Artemenko said he is in favor of pools for all the district's high schools. "I think it's unfair that they don't have them in all the schools," he said. Artemenko said he hopes the parents form "some sort of lay citizens committee" to ask for pools.

Three Dist. 214 schools now have pools. Pools at Wheeling and Arlington high schools are owned and operated jointly with the local park district. Dist. 214 contributed $80,000 to construction of the Buffalo Grove High School pool and shares in maintenance costs of the pool with the Buffalo Grove Park District.

Park district plans end-of-summer show

The Mount Prospect Park District will wrap up its eight-week summer programs with a family night and art show tonight and a carnival Friday.

During the family night, youngsters will display skills learned in the summer programs for their parents. The demonstrations will take place between 7:30 and 9 p.m. at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

The carnival will feature booths, games and a watermelon-eating contest. It is open to youngsters, ages 6 to 13 years, principally those who participated in park district activities this summer. The carnival will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Lions Park.

'We're slighted,' N. Yale Ave. residents charge

by JOE SWICKARD

The residents of the 1800 block of N. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, contend they are being slighted with village services, including police protection.

The street, a one-block-long cul-de-sac, with 12 houses, is accessible only from the frontage road of Palatine Road and although it was annexed to the village two years ago, residents claim they are still being treated as though they were still unincorporated.

Lack of snow removal and street cleaning operations, disputes with the library and the police department are common complaints voiced by the residents.

"We're here on the border and the village services are just not up to par," said Mrs. Maria Delsing, 1832 N. Yale Ave.

Another resident, Mrs. Melanie DeMaria, 1835 N. Yale Ave., agreed with her neighbor that the cul-de-sac is not getting full service for its taxes.

"AND EVEN GETTING library cards. My husband had to argue with the library to get his card. They said we weren't in the village," Mrs. DeMaria said.

"It's just one thing after another. It's getting ridiculous," she said.

"I know it sounds like a lot of nit-picky little things, but when you put them all together it doesn't."

The latest, in what homeowners there claim to be a long history of boundary disputes arose Sunday night with the Arlington Heights police.

Mrs. Delsing, said police were called after their home burglar alarm was activated. Mrs. Delsing said it took the police 20 minutes to respond and then only after another telephone call and an argument with the radio dispatcher.

"The alarm went off and we called the police. Five minutes later they called back and asked for directions. When we gave it, we were told we were in the county and it was the sheriff's jurisdiction," Mrs. Delsing said.

She said a squad car did respond but only after a lengthy discussion about whether their home was within the village limits.

Mrs. Delsing said at one point the dispatcher blamed their maps. The dispatcher said, according to Mrs. Delsing, that the maps in the radio room were old and showed the street to be still unincorporated.

VILLAGE PLANNER Joe Kesler said that while he is unsure of the exact date of the cul-de-sac's annexation, it has been in the village for about two years.

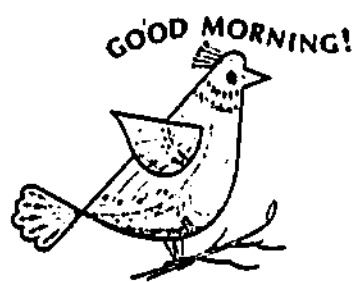

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said a "mistake" had been made in the handling of the incident by the radio operator.

"If it's a call, we'll take care of the emergency first and then find out if it's in the village or not," Calderwood said. "We don't want to make mistakes."

"There was a mistake of the radio operator's making," he said of the incident.

However, when residents of the street attempted to listen to the tape recordings of the telephone call in question, an 18-minute gap was discovered. A malfunction in the recorder that automatically tapes all calls to the dispatch center was the reason offered by Calderwood.

"Yes, there is an 18-minute gap. It's just one of those things," he said.

Cultural panel to seek funds from large donors

Preliminary steps are being formulated by the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission to contact potential large donors to fund the construction of the proposed cultural center.

The list, not yet in its final form, includes wealthy individuals and corporations. Among those persons mentioned are Ray Kroc, McDonald's hamburger magnate and owner of the San Diego Padres baseball team, and W. Clement Stone, of the Combined Insurance Companies of America and a large contributor to the Republican party.

Commissioners also are considering approaching companies based in, or connected with, the Northwest suburbs. Honeywell, Sears, United Airlines, Union Oil, Allstate Insurance Co. and others were placed on the tentative list.

THE COMMISSION is seeking funds to build a multi-purpose arts center on village-owned land across the street from the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

It is estimated the center, as envisioned by Yale University's George C. Treanor, would cost in excess of $3 million. Don M. Hissaka of Cleveland has been selected as the architect for the center, but as yet no contract has been signed.

The commission originally hoped to delay contacting the large donors until after funds had been raised locally to pay

Library weighs expansion on cultural site

Frank Dempsey, executive librarian, met with members of Nicol, Nicol, Chaney and Vanek earlier this week to discuss the $2,500 study. The firm designed the present library at 500 N. Dunton.

A preliminary report is expected by the Sept. 10 meeting of the library board and the study is expected to be revealed in October, said Dempsey.

The firm also had prepared another feasibility study late last year. The study calls for a building addition by extending the existing floor level over the parking section on the west side of the building. The expansion is estimated to cost more than $1 million.

The library has been seriously studying possibilities for expansion for about a year and is compiling information for population and library use projections.

WESTGATE BEGAN in 1954 when a builder started to develop 250 homes in an area bounded by Campbell, Wilke, Euclid and Yale. Today the Westgate Civic Assn. represents an area of more than 1,000 homes. The closeness of schools, parks and shopping is a convenience for residents.

Our neighborhood—Westgate

Accessibility is key to popularity

This is another in a continuing series of stories examining Arlington Heights' neighborhoods.

by KURT BAER

Accessibility has been the key to the popularity of the Westgate subdivision. Close to schools: Westgate Elementary, Dwyer, Our Lady of the Wayside and Arlington High School. Close to parks: Pioneer, Volz and Reuter. Close to shopping: Westgate shopping center and the downtown stores, Westgate holds out convenient living for its residents.

Today there are more than 1,000 homes that are considered part of Westgate. They fill the area from Kirchhoff on the south, to Euclid on the north, and from Wilke on the west to Kennicott on the east.

The Westgate Civic Assn. was reorganized in 1969, largely around two issues, flooding and Arlington Park Race Track. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Flooding was greatly cut back a year ago with the completion of the large, Wilke-Kirchhoff retention basin and the construction of a new Yale Avenue storm sewer. But the future of Arlington Park remains a question mark.

"WE'RE WATCHING the housing plans they have for the race track, the high rises and so forth," said Goedke. (Continued on Page 4)

by BARRY SIGALE

Manana is today for Cuban-born and raised Mr. and Mrs. Jose Blanco of Hoffman Estates.

The couple's prayers may be answered shortly after 11:15 a.m. today as the state holds its first special drawing in Springfield to award $300,000 and other cash prizes to lucky participants in the Illinois Lottery.

"For me it is a miracle," said Hilda Blanco of her good fortune upon learning that one of the three lottery tickets she purchased during the first week of the contest made her eligible for the initial Bonanza runoff. Another of the tickets won her $20 in the Weekly Bonanza game.

MRS. BLANCO, a devout Catholic, prayed for a windfall that would once and for all wash away some of her worries and problems.

"When I heard about the lottery I asked her, my Lady, the Virgin Mercedes (the Virgin Mary, displayed prominently in her living room), to be able to bring me a miracle. Never in my life have I won anything."

Mrs. Blanco's concerns are not unlike the concerns other Northwest suburbanites have and she has vowed to spend any large sum of winnings on the kinds of things others with the same opportunity would probably spend it on... dental school for her son, Jose Jr., 22; a house for her parents in Florida; helping a Managua, Nicaragua, child get an education; paying off debts, and traveling.

Up until last week, Mrs. Blanco had a potentially bigger, much more dangerous problem on her hands. She was worried her 32-year-old husband would need open heart surgery. Now doctors have given him a clean bill of health and the money, if they win, would be used strictly for the other purposes.

THE BLANCOS, married 24 years, both are Spanish teachers. Mr. Blanco at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect and Mrs. Blanco at Elk Grove High School. They have lived in the Winston Knolls section in Hoffman Estates, a typical suburban subdivision, for three years.

That the Blancos are even in the United States vying for a cash jackpot is a dramatic story in itself. Fairly well-to-do Cubans, they took the last boat out of their homeland after the Bay of Pigs fiasco in 1963. Their possessions, jobs and other securities were taken from them by Premier Fidel Castro and staying in Cuba would only have resulted in more hardships.

Both were teachers. Mr. Blanco, with a doctorate in education, served as a superintendent of a district with about 25 schools under his jurisdiction. They moved from Pinar del Rio, Cuba to Oak Park where relatives lived, and finally settled in their present home.

WHILE IN Cuba they learned of a game that every Saturday bestowed prizes of from $1 to $100,000 to winners. That game was a lottery, which brings the story full circle. Though they didn't participate in the game in their country they made a big splash in Illinois' version of a game of chance.

Mrs. Blanco bought her winning ticket at a jewelry store in Chicago. She said she had a feeling the num-

Schools plan 'self growth' program for area residents

by JILL BETNER

School Dist. 21 is setting up a self-growth program to provide help and "creativity resources" for teachers, other school employees and eventually anyone in the district interested in exploring his potential.

Dist. 21 serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and portions of Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect.

The $108,000 federally funded program is titled "Self-Renewal" and staffed by project director Larry Chase and his assistants Gregg Crocker and Carrie Delen, both former elementary school teachers. Mrs. Delen taught at Hawthorne School in Wheeling and Crocker taught in Elgin. The program is intended to aid everyone from teachers to custodians who want to sharpen old skills and discover new ones. Later this year, Chase said, there will be opportunities for area residents to become involved in the program.

To kick off the program, the staff will conduct two workshops next week for Dist. 21 teachers, whom they say are excited about the possibilities the program offers. More than 100 teachers have signed up to participate in the week-long sessions, Chase said.

IN THE WORKSHOPS, the self-growth program will be explained and teachers will be asked to begin identifying "things they'd like to get better at," Crocker said, such as communicating more effectively, better utilizing time, finding innovative teaching methods and developing curriculum materials for classroom use.

"Once we can identify the needs of the teachers, we want to start to meet those needs by providing resources," Chase said, adding that the resources could be provided in additional workshops later this year by the project staff or by "community professors" such as a local man who already has offered to speak to teachers about creative thinking.

Chase plans to find ways of including workshops or help for teachers in the regular school day whenever possible, although sessions will be offered whenever a need arises and will be planned around the schedules of participants.

The resource center being established in the Dist. 21 administration building will contain educational materials including books, filmstrips and other classroom aides as well as information on topics in which teachers or others express an interest.

THE PROJECT STAFF is brainstorming on other activities unrelated to the classroom that may be offered as they try to anticipate what Dist. 21 employees and the community might want to gain from the program. For example, Chase said a weekly "fun night" may be set up for Dist. 21 employees including various gym activities and possibly sports lessons if groups would like to develop particular athletic skills.

Dist. 21 PTA and PTO groups will also be able to benefit from the program. A workshop by the project staff on parent effectiveness training is planned at Tarkington School, Wheeling, on Sept. 24. Chase indicated if there is sufficient interest in parent effectiveness training, the project staff may later develop a course for area residents.

A newsletter will be published by the staff several times during the year including feature stories on activities of people in the program, teaching ideas, book and movie reviews, interviews and classified ads relating to Dist. 21 employees. The newsletter also will contain a calendar of upcoming opportunities, Chase said.

explaining that over the years Westgate residents have had some problems with the race track. The night motorcycle race in 1971 for example. But generally the two neighbors have gotten along well.

"I have to say that the race track for the most part has been very, very good in cooperating with us. If you read their annexation agreement, you realize that they could have done a lot of things that haven't happened," he says.

The first Westgate homes were built north of Campbell Street, beginning in 1954. Originally, these homes were priced in the $18,000 bracket. Today they average between $45,000 and $50,000.

South of Campbell, Westgate II and the Catino subdivisions contain some homes which range between $65,000 and $100,000.

"For an all brick, three or four bedroom home with a full basement, Westgate represents one of the last sections of the village where a lot of people can still afford a home," Goedke says. For this reason, as well as Westgate's accessibility, the number of new residents moving into the subdivision is relatively high.

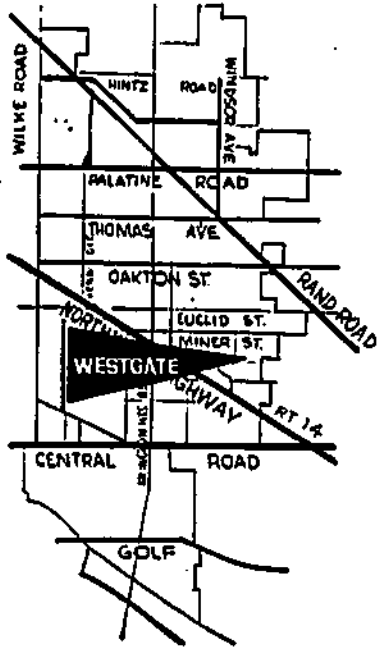

GOEDKE SAID the civic association does not engage in membership drives in the way that some of the newer homeowner groups do.

"We'll put out a newsletter notifying people of our meeting — we have four of them a year — and telling them that we're an open association," he says. "If anybody needs it, it's there."

There are still a large number of school-age children in Westgate, although Goedke says he believes enrollment at the Westgate School has been dropping slowly in recent years.

"We took our own survey a couple of years ago and found there were 3.5 children per household. If you didn't have four kids, you didn't belong in Westgate," he says.

With the worst of the subdivision's flooding problems seemingly corrected, and the planned housing development of Arlington Park Race Track (north of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel), geographically a relatively safe distance away, there are not many problems facing the

"In most homeowners' groups I think apathy becomes very prevalent once you've solved the problems," said Goedke.

Cultural unit to contact large donors for the architect's fee of $25,000 for drawings and models of the center. The drawing and models would have been used as "something concrete" to attract the interest of the large contributors.

A two-month effort to raise the local funds from 50 business and professional men netted only $2,600, and the decision was made last week to go directly to the "big guys."

DR. E. JESSE JACOBS, commissioner, said the large donors would be approached for actual construction funds, rather than just the architect's fees.

"If we talk to the big guys we have to go all the way — go for the big picture," Dr. Jacobs said.

directed toward Kroc, a former resident of the village.

Dr. Jacobs said he had been told, "Ray Kroc does have a warm spot in his heart for Arlington Heights because he did live here."

Resident wins $5,000 in first 'Weekly Lotto'

Overlooked amid the publicity surrounding the first group of qualifiers in the $300,000 special drawing of the Illinois Lottery was William D. Rudy, 122 N. Harvard, Arlington Heights.

Rudy was one of only four persons to win $5,000 in the Weekly Lotto game as a result of numbers picked in Springfield last week.

Rudy, when contacted by The Herald Tuesday, said he had no plans for his winnings. "There's never any problem spending money, there are just problems trying to save money," he said.

The numbers on his ticket were 04, 12, 15, 16 and 18.

What makes his winning so remarkable is that the odds on matching all five numbers during the first drawing is 1.8 million to 1 because there were 7.25 million tickets sold.

Rudy is a display designer for the Rapid Mounting and Finishing Co., Chicago.

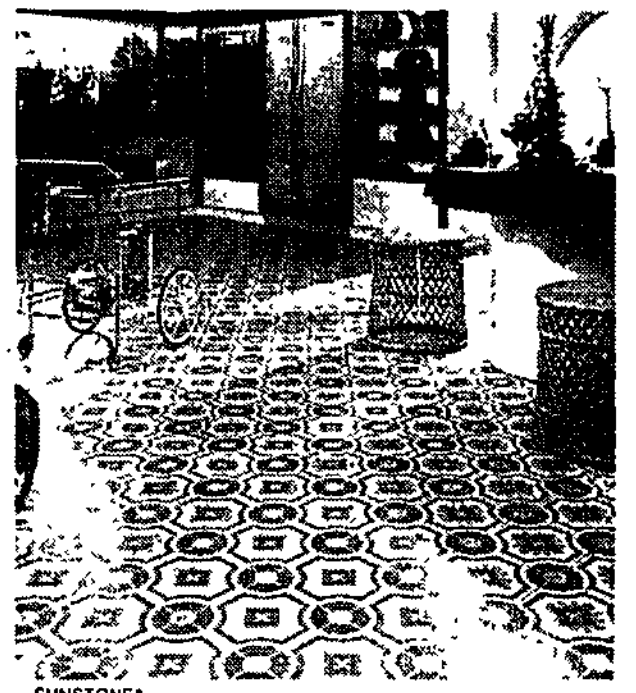

Homicide charge filed in fatal crash

Salvatore Loschiavo has been charged with reckless homicide by Arlington Heights police in connection with the one-car crash last week that took the life of his passenger, Kathleen M. Edgell, 39, of Rolling Meadows.

Loschiavo, 40, of 730 Hicks Rd., Palatine, was the driver of a 1972 Cadillac that crashed on Dundee Road near Kenicott Avenue. He is listed in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital with multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

Miss Edgell died at the hospital after being pulled from the wreckage.

The filing of charges, approved by the state's attorney felony review board, marks an end to an eight-day police investigation.

Adventures of your Garbageman

From the responses to Paddock's recent survey, it's obvious that one aspect of our service is confusing... "Why won't Laseke take anything from the back door unless it's inside of the can?"

There's a sad story there. People are prone to set items on top of the can, or alongside, which they don't mean to discard. So, over the years we have tossed out barbecue grills, toys, tools, etc. not meant for disposal. Then, last Christmas, a resident just back from the supermarket left 6 bags of groceries standing there, which our man discarded along with the other "refuse"—$67 worth! You can imagine the resulting problem. Therefore, as the only safe way, we had to adopt a policy of not taking anything from the back door which is not inside the can.

That sort of thing proves again that anything that can happen on a garbage route probably will. Thank you for your understanding.
